FRENCH DECLARE AGAINST ARMS REDUCTION

Dock Strikers On U.S. Coast Vote On Terms Offered

Seattle and Everett Unions Ballot on Proposals of Shipowners After Rejection By Tacoma Longshoremen; Strikers Declare General Shipping Barricade on Puget Sound Shipping, But Vessels Operate

San Francisco Men Vote Against Terms

Associated Press

Seattle, May 30.—The Everett and Seattle longshoremen's unions started balloting to-day on the compromise agreement reached in San Francisco in an effort to end the three weeks' old longshoremen's strike at U.S. Pacific ports. The Tacoma union voted yesterday against adopting the agreement, after a meeting of Pacific Northwest longshoremen's representatives had expressed disapproval.

Joseph P. Ryan, International Longshoremen's Association president, was to address the Everett and Seattle locals.

Preliminary organization of the Pacific Coast Waterfront Federation was under way, with committee meetings slated here Friday. The federation would act as a clearing house and centralize future working policies of longshoremen, sailors, firemen and other marine labor interests.

ON PUGET SOUND

Members of the longshoremen's press committee said a complete barricade had been declared against all waterborne freight movements, applicable for the first time to Puget Sound shipping as well as ocean borne commerce. Striking ferry boatmen who have blockaded five ferryboats of the Puget Sound Navigation Company, four of them on Edmonds routes, have organized ten crews, totaling 120 pickets, and laid plans for an attempt to blockade company ferries operating out of the Tolman dock to Alki, Bremerton and Anacortes.

Trade was light on the company ferries to-day despite the memorial holiday, but other lines reported normal holiday business.

The Puget Sound Navigation Company said it was maintaining regular service on the Seattle-Bremerton, Seattle-Port Orchard, Alki-Manchester and Seabeck-Brinnon runs. Jacob R. Ummel, Department of the Interior purchasing agent here, said that because supplies went to Alaska on the motorship North Star yesterday, plans for sending the government vessel Boxer north had been abandoned for the present. He said the department would not need to send another load of supplies north for thirty days.

THOUSANDS VOTE

San Francisco, May 30.—Expressions of dissatisfaction were heard to-day as 12,000 striking U.S. Pacific Coast longshoremen voted on the shipowners' proposal for joint operation of the disputed hiring halls.

Union leaders in Portland denounced the proposal as "vague" and a "subterfuge." Nearly 3,000 strikers were unanimously decided they would not accept the offer, while their strike committee issued a statement saying "the strike has just started, and will probably involve other unions which have no connection with the marine industry."

FUEL OIL TAX UNDER REVIEW

Economic Council Considers Means For Aiding B.C. Coal Industry

The B.C. Economic Council moved to-day to make a complete study of the competition between coal and oil for fuel purposes, the resulting effects on the coal industry within the province, and the possibility of an increase in the tax on fuel oil.

James O. Nicholls, the Nanaimo member of the board, yesterday presented a full report on the coal situation there, showing among other things the steady decline in demand as fuel oil has become more popular and the consequent decrease in employment at the mines. To-day the council considered a similar report on the conditions at Fernie where the coal industry has undergone a serious setback in the last few years.

Later, it is expected, the council will hear representations from both coal producers and heavy fuel oil consumers on the question of production and consumption costs, efficiency and suitability of the respective fuels.

The essential phase of the investigation is whether the imposition of a heavier fuel oil tax would serve as a protective measure for coal. Some weeks ago a strong delegation from up-island met the government and insisted that the oil tax be raised to at least two cents a gallon to prevent complete disaster to the industry in Nanaimo. They also submitted figures showing the decline in production resulting from the increased used of fuel oil.

At the present time the tax on fuel oil amounts to half a cent a gallon. This is not sufficient to give the desired protection, the coal people argue, but if it were increased to two cents the price of oil would be raised enough to give coal an advantage.

SCORE SHOT IN STREET FIGHTING

Warsaw, May 30.—A score of persons were suffering from bullet wounds to-day following street fighting yesterday evening between Communists and Rightist Radicals in the workers district. Police dispersed the rioters, arresting many. Nine persons were taken to hospitals seriously injured.

Badly Battered Death Car

Above is the car in which police believe Constable Percy Carr and Warden Frank Gisborne were brutally murdered on the Canford Indian Reserve near Merritt last week. When found, the car was resting against a small tree part way down the bank of the Nicola River, off the highway. The interior of the vehicle was smeared with blood stains. The picture was taken by J. F. McNaught of the provincial motor branch, who happened to be in the vicinity during investigations.

Wages In Packing Plants Investigated By M.P.'s To-day

Pay of Less Than $10 Per Week at Hull Reported to Commons Committee

Ottawa, May 30.—Twenty-five per cent of the employees of the Hull, Que., plant of Canada Packers receive wages of nineteen cents a hour or less, the Commons mass buying committee was told to-day by its investigating auditor, A. B. Shepherd of Toronto. Seventeen per cent receive fifteen cents an hour or a weekly wage of $7.20 if they work forty-eight hours.

In the Toronto plant of Canada Packers, the average wage for all employees last March was 39¾ cents an hour and for last October 35¾ cents. Less than one per cent of the company's employees are on piece work.

The committee spent some time on evidence of wage conditions at the Hull plant, where 125 men and women are employed. The auditors supplied the committee with the names of every employee receiving nineteen cents an hour or less, particularly those at the fifteen-cent level.

The committee auditor found instances of employees receiving $3, $4 and $5 for a week's work, depending on the hours worked. Others received $7, $8 and $9 for a full week.

LOAN PAID OFF

Canada Packers, in the year ending March, 1931, paid off a bank loan of $5,536,527, the committee was told. Donald Kennedy, United Farmer member for Peace River, insisted this

U.S. IS TO STAY OUT OF CUBA

Associated Press

Washington, May 30. — The United States Senate foreign relations committee to-day voted quick approval of the new treaty with Cuba under which the United States renounces its right to intervene in the island republic's affairs.

At the same time the committee postponed action on United States adherence to the World Court until next session.

STILL FIGHT BUSH FIRES

In New Brunswick 300 Homeless; Blazes Along Ontario-Manitoba Line

Canadian Press

Bush fires—yearly blight of colonists and fire rangers—were still being fought to-day in outlying sections of northern Quebec and Ontario, in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Manitoba.

While in Quebec and Ontario the situation was reported as vastly improved, alarming blazes broke out in New Brunswick and 300 people were homeless at Oliver settlement, their living quarters licked by flames of forest fires raging through Restigouche County.

The situation was held dangerous enough to warrant a government edict forbidding passage through the province's timberlands. Backed by a near-gale wind, flames menaced great timber resources in Cumberland County, Nova Scotia, with destruction of a seven-mile stretch of forest behind them. Rain was badly needed.

While welcome rains in Quebec did much to alleviate the fears of mining settlements, the fresh outbreaks in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia and along the Ontario-Manitoba boundary revealed the scourge by no means was wholly under control.

RAIN COMES

Severity of two blazes in Falconbridge and Moffatt townships, Ontario, was lessened, due also to a

FRENCH ON AIR IS OPPOSED

Regina M.P. Tells Commons Committee Saskatchewan People Object

Canadian Press

Ottawa, May 30.—Objections of the people of Saskatchewan to the use of the French language over the radio were voiced by F. W. Turnbull, K.C., Conservative, Regina, to the House of Commons committee on radio to-day. Mr. Turnbull, declaring he was voicing the views of the people of that province, asserted the commission was allowing itself to be made an instrument in promoting the view that French was the official language of the whole of Canada.

A feeling existed in many quarters in his province, Mr. Turnbull declared, that the French speaking people were insisting on rights and privileges to which they were not entitled. The objection in Saskatchewan was that in using French in the broadcasts there, an effort was being launched to make Canada a bilingual country.

It was bad for Canadian unity and bad for the French language if such a belief continued.

FUNDAMENTAL QUESTIONS

He had no hostility to French, nor did any hostility prevail in Saskatchewan. However, underlying the whole matter were some fundamental questions. One centred on the belief that, he declared, prevailed largely in Quebec that French was the official language of the entire Dominion. On the other hand, the people of Saskatchewan and in other parts of the country were largely of the opinion the French language was not the official language of the British North America Act.

The consequence of putting French on the radio in districts where the majority of the people did not understand the language meant that many people tuned off in order to listen to those programmes in a language which they did understand.

CUMMINGS IS RACE WINNER

Sets Record to Capture 500-Mile Automobile Event at Indianapolis

Canadian Press and Associated Press

Speedway, Indianapolis, May 30.—Wild Bill Cummings, Indianapolis, won the 500-mile automobile race to-day before 135,000 spectators in record-breaking time.

Mauri Ross, Dayton, O., finished second.

Cummings's time was 4.46.05.21.

Cummings's average for the 500 miles was 104.863, a new record, which eclipses the former mark of 104.162 made by Lou Meyer, South Gaite, Cal., in winning the 1933 race.

Lou Moore, Los Angeles, finished third, seven and a half miles behind the flying Cummings. For the first time in many years not a single driver was seriously injured.

Deacon Litz, Duboise, Pa., finished fourth and Joe Russo, Kenosha, Wis., was fifth.

Geneva Delegates State Conference Has Little Hope Following Barthou's Speech

Sir John Simon, British Foreign Secretary, Urges Conferees to Quit Pious Speeches and Get Down to Realities; French Foreign Minister Makes Address Which Is Interpreted to Mean Republic Does Not Want Disarmament Convention Now

Simon Suggests Several Protocols

By George Hambleton
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Geneva, May 30.—Delegates to the World Disarmament Conference late to-day openly predicted the chances of success were remote, following a speech by Louis Barthou, French Foreign Minister, which had the effect of a bombshell.

Speaking after Sir John Simon, British Foreign Secretary, had urged the conference in vigorous tones to get down to facts and quit pious speeches, the veteran Frenchman in effect declared France does not now want a disarmament convention.

M. Barthou's speech was interpreted as meaning that under no circumstances will the French Government ever make any agreement, despite its contents, if it permits the immediate rearmament of Germany in any degree. This goes farther than France has ever gone before.

MAKES USE OF IRONY

M. Barthou was ironical in a number of his references to the British spokesman. With an outstretched hand he defended the position of France throughout.

In a tone which set some of the delegates laughing, the Frenchman declared Sir John's speech reminded him of his own ardent youth. He was willing to follow Sir John over the "British bridge," but he wanted first to be sure all the planks of the bridge were sound—that he would not be flung into the stream beneath, he declared.

BRITISH MESSAGE

"Get down to realities"—that, in plain words, was the British message Sir John Simon brought to the conference.

"I sum up the position of His Majesty's Government by declaring that while there can be no justification for going on in a spirit of pious and undefined optimism, there is a most urgent need for deciding on what we can do—and doing it without delay," declared Sir John.

PROTOCOLS SUGGESTED

Sir John suggested, while not limiting himself to accomplishment in a narrowed field, that protocols should

GOVERNOR ROLPH LOSES STRENGTH

San Jose, Cal., May 30.—Governor James Rolph was critically ill at the Linforth ranch near here to-day while members of his family hovered at the bedside and physicians in constant attendance admitted the extreme gravity of his condition.

BLOOD STAINS AS EVIDENCE

Provincial Police Receive Word From Merritt Murder Investigators

Discovery of important evidence in the form of blood stained clothing which has been identified as the property of one of the accused Indians was announced by provincial police headquarters in Victoria to-day, after word had been received from investigators at Merritt. The discovery was made yesterday evening. Private papers and a car key belonging to Warden Frank Gisborne were found in the clothes, it was disclosed.

A news report yesterday evening which stated a body had been seen floating down the Thompson River near its confluence with the Nicola was not confirmed by the police today and the search for the body of Constable Percy Carr is continuing along the river banks.

Headquarters intimated an inquest into the death of Warden Frank Gisborne, whose body was found last week, would be held Monday, while the preliminary hearing of the murder charge against three of the accused might go ahead on Tuesday. The fourth brother held for the murder is still in serious condition in hospital.

To-morrow, Attorney-General Gordon Sloan and Commissioner J. H. McMullin will confer in Vancouver with Inspector J. Shirras, who has had charge of the investigation. Inspector Shirras, it is expected, will reach Vancouver to-morrow.

MOVE AGAINST LEADER FAILS

MITCHELL F. HEPBURN
Ontario Liberal Leader

Toronto, May 30.—The Toronto Globe in a dispatch from its St. Thomas, Ont., correspondent today quoted Wilbert Fisher, unemployed Southwold, Ont., man as saying Ontario Conservative representatives had attempted to bribe him into signing an affidavit intended to be damaging to Mitchell F. Hepburn, Ontario Liberal leader.

The newspaper quoted Fisher as saying nine witnesses, all owing allegiance to the Liberal Party, hid in his cellar and overheard four men offer him $100 in cash and a job in a government beer store at $25 a week for his signature. It added the nine witnesses rushed into the room when Fisher signalled them after one hour's talk.

TOLEDO POWER STRIKE THREAT

Mediators Work to Prevent Tying Up of City's Industries

Associated Press

Toledo, O., May 30.—Federal mediators worked against time to-day to head off a power strike which would cripple the city's industries, already torn by an automotive strike, and threatened with a general union walkout.

Unless negotiations during the holiday quiet are successful, about 80 union employees of the Toledo Edison Company will strike tomorrow.

The automotive strike at the Electric Auto-lite Company, scene of riots last week, and two other plants, remained in a deadlock.

Quintuplets Now In Third Day Of Life

Parents Name Five Daughters Born on Farm Near Correil, Ont.; Eye-dropper Used to Feed Infants

Canadian Press

North Bay, Ont., May 30.—The Dionne quintuplets, still alive after more than fifty hours in the world, to-day were named Cecile, Yvonne, Marie, Emily and Annette. Unlike parents who find it hard to name one child, Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne lost no time selecting names.

Dr. A. R. Dafoe said after visiting the children and their twenty-four-year-old mother this morning at their farm near Corbell, twelve miles northeast of here, that they are "as well as can be expected." They had just been washed and fed before his visit and were quite active.

Mrs. Alex Legros, aunt of Mrs Dionne, has joined the staff of a graduate nurse, practical nurse and two friends who are helping the Dionnes take care of their family of children, now numbering ten. The other children are named Pauline, Danie, Ernest, Therese and Rose.

New War Debt Offer Drafted

British Government Is Expected to Cable Proposal to U.S. Government

London, May 30.—A new war debt proposal will be dispatched to Washington within twenty-four hours, under government plans reviewed finally by the cabinet to-day.

Unless the ministers decide a last-minute revision is necessary, the text is expected to be telegraphed to-day. Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, plans to outline the war debt situation fully to the House of Commons to-morrow.

NO NICKEL BEER FOR B.C. USERS

Canadian Press

Vancouver, May 30.—Beer at five cents a glass is not probable in British Columbia, men in touch with the liquor situation said to-day when questioned about the return of the "nickel schooner" as heralded by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Dominion Minister of Finance.

W. F. Kennedy, chairman of the British Columbia Liquor Control Board, said he did not care to comment on Mr. Rhodes's statement until he had gone into the matter fully.

COMMONS ASKED TO VOTE BEER TAX CUT

I am Told It Will Mean Five-cent Glass," Says Finance Minister of Change in Budget Provision

Canadian Press

Ottawa, May 30.—Most of the provisions of the year's budget to-day bar the approval of the House of Commons, including a few changes, some of them designed to provide thirsty Canadians with a 5c glass of beer.

Law-making machinery moved in high gear yesterday afternoon and evening and speed records were broken as the tariff and taxation changes of the budget whisked through committee of ways and means with only a word or two of explanation from Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, here and there.

Besides the budget the House passed the 200-section new Companies Bill through committee—except for a few sections reserved for possible amendment—turned down a second attempt to legalize lotteries, and saw the grasshopper debate between Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, and his predecessor, Hon. W. R. Motherwell, resumed.

Grants To Radio Stations In B.C. Urged

Commons Committee Hears Suggestion For Privately Owned Broadcasting Units

Canadian Press

Ottawa, May 30.—Difficulties of the British Columbia radio stations were brought before the Commons committee on radio to-day with H. J. Barber, Conservative, Fraser Valley, and Grote Stirling, Conservative, Yale, presenting some of the problems of the Pacific coast. The commission, said Mr. Barber, had forced on the smaller stations many onerous regulations which demanded expenditure of large sums of money. As a result many of them would be put out of business.

It was suggested, said Mr. Barber, that a monthly grant of $200 from the commission to the small stations

JUNE 30 LAST DAY FOR TIMBER FEES

Timber license holders, who were granted an extension of three months for payment of their fees this year, must observe June 30 as the final date for payment, it was announced by Premier Pattullo this morning after a conference with Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Lands, and Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance.

The extension from March 31 was granted in the first place by the Legislature and there appeared to be an impression that it might be carried over further after June 30, the Premier pointed out. This was not correct as the government would not extend the period past this date.

Many At Last Rites For Prelate

Canadian Press

Toronto, May 30.—Dignitaries of the Roman Catholic Church from many points in Canada and the United States joined with prominent local citizens in attendance at the funeral to-day of the late Archbishop Neil McNeil.

The body, which had lain in state in St. Michael's Cathedral since last Sunday afternoon, was laid to rest in the mausoleum in the centre of the little cemetery of St. Augustin's Seminary on the eastern outskirts of the city. Most Rev. A. Cassula, Apostolic Delegate to Canada, celebrated the mass.

NEW OUTLET FOR CEDAR SOUGHT

Development of new markets for British Columbia's cedar output is being studied by the Economic Council, now in session here.

With 100,000,000 feet of cedar cut and in the water and the capital to cover it tied up as a result, lumbermen are seeking a way out and have asked the council to suggest something.

The major part of the cedar production now goes into shingles. Considerable quantities are exported, but it is believed there are other markets for this kind of lumber, possibly in South America and England.

Togo's Great Naval Victory Made Japan

Gunman, Caught, Ends His Life

Canadian Press and Associated Press

Worthing, Eng., May 30.—After a forty-eight-hour manhunt in which police and hundreds of citizens united, England's lone gunman, Leonard Hill, killed himself to-day with the pistol with which he had shot a policeman.

Policeman Arthur Jex, whom he shot, is recovering, but Hill committed suicide rather than face British justice.

The police and volunteer posses surrounded Hill in a Sussex woods. The whole country was incensed by the wounding of the policeman Sunday night.

AUTHOR'S WIFE AND DOGS

It was a woman who finally trapped the fugitive. She is Mrs. Michael Sadleir, wife of the prominent publisher and author. She owns two bloodhounds and took them herself, on leash, into the woods. The dogs led her to Hill, who shot himself as police approached.

Hill committed his crime when police, including Jex, stopped him Sunday night to question him about a burglary.

Laws in this country against the carrying of firearms are so severe that few criminals dare fall foul of them. Police carry guns only in unusual circumstances.

Death of Famous Admiral, Who Was Known as "The Nelson of Japan," Recalls His Great Triumph Over Russians; Visited Victoria in 1911

Tokio, May 30.—Admiral, Marquis Heihachiro Togo, "the Nelson of Japan," whose humble home in Tokio became a national shrine, died yesterday.

Death came to the valiant old warrior at the age of eighty-six after a slow but losing fight against cancer of the throat. The Empire was plunged into mourning.

Admiral Togo was the last of the heroes of the Russo-Japanese war. It was he, standing on the deck of his flagship, who directed the fleet to a decisive victory over the Czar's navy and from that triumph Japan emerged as a world power.

Togo's admirers claimed this as the most decisive naval engagement since Nelson's victory at Trafalgar. They said it settled the fate of two empires whereas Jutland, in the World War, was indecisive.

EXPLORERS ON WAY TO NORTHERN B.C.

C. E. Bedaux Crossing Canada to Lead Party Over Territory Still Unmapped

Canadian Press

Montreal, May 30.—A world-famed 9,000-mile journey by motor through Darkest Africa behind him, the desire for adventure remains unsatisfied in Charles E. Bedaux, and he is enroute to-day to Edmonton to join the vanguard of the Bexaux-Canadian expedition into an unknown region of the British Columbia Rockies, from which he expects to return October 15.

Bedaux, a Frenchman, who knows the sands of the Sahara and the treacherous marshlands of Africa as well as the figures he handles in his New York enterprises, is heading a party of twenty-nine men and three women, who hope to cross a part of the Dominion never yet traversed by man—not even the sure-footed Indian.

In Montreal yesterday the noted explorer sketched his adventure as a "little hike" through the mountains to Telegraph Creek, B.C., and eventually to the Pacific. His equipment includes 100 pack horses and five specially constructed caterpillar tractors.

A brief log of his projected trip follows: Departure from Edmonton July 6, for Fort St. John and the north country. This should take four or five days. The next 300 miles from Fort St. John to Telegraph Creek he estimates will take a month, and the remaining 200 miles to the Pacific Coast, two months.

Through their knowledge of first aid, Geddes and Davidson resuscitated their young companion. Eye-witnesses estimated Barley had been under water three minutes before he was rescued.

BANK SHARES ARE TO BE $50

Commons Committee Votes For Change From $100 Proposed For Central Bank

Canadian Press

Ottawa, May 30.—Shares of the proposed Bank of Canada would appreciate to one and a half times their par value within two months after issue, Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Liberal, Vancouver Centre, declared before the banking and commerce committee of the Commons yesterday. He advanced an amendment that would empower the Minister of Finance to buy back shares held by the public at any time at the issue price. The amendment was defeated by a vote of 11 to 7.

The committee adopted a motion by J. L. Bowman, Conservative, Dauphin, Man., which would fix the minimum denomination of shares of the new central bank at $50 instead of $100, thus giving the smallest investor an opportunity of becoming a shareholder.

Another accepted amendment, moved by G. C. Cote, U.F.A., Macleod, would require an act of Parliament to authorize any increase of capital stock above the $5,000,000 provided in the bill. The original bill left this power with the government.

DUNCAN NOTES

Duncan, May 30. — The monthly meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the Cowichan District Hospital Association was held at the Nurses' Home Monday afternoon, with Mrs. G. H. Savage in the chair.

Arrangements for the garden party to be held on Saturday were made. It is hoped that from the proceeds a substantial payment will be made on the work done on the women's ward at the hospital. Generous offers of help have been received from organizations in the district.

It was decided not to hold any further meetings until September. The matter of arranging for the tag day and the fall jam shower was left in the hands of the executive.

Challenge Made In Campaign

Ontario Liberal Leader Suggests Bennett Say Whether Henry Has His Approval

Canadian Press

North Bay, Ont., May 30.—Not until the Conservative governments of Canada and Ontario have been replaced should the St. Lawrence Waterways be completed, Mitchell F. Hepburn, Ontario Liberal leader, told audiences at Cobalt and North Bay yesterday evening.

Canada's trade had been strangled by Conservative policies, the railways were in difficulty, the Transcanada Highway was being completed, and hence there was no immediate need for the waterways, he said.

Three federal by-elections were pending in Ontario, "and if we win in this province Mr. Bennett will never hold these by-elections, he will go to the country," said Mr. Hepburn.

Again he challenged Premier Bennett to "put his stamp of approval" on Premier Henry. "I challenge Mr. Bennett, since Mr. Henry has injected federal issues such as the St. Lawrence Waterways into the campaign, to say to-night that a vote for Henry is a vote for the federal policies. I ask him to do this to-night,' said Mr. Hepburn.

CHANGE MADE IN DUTY ON GLASS

Commons Widens Budget Clause For Importation of Shatter-proof Glass

Ottawa, May 30.—During debate on provisions of the budget while the Commons was in committee yesterday afternoon the drawback item on glass announced in the budget was stricken out and a new one inserted. The item read: "Plate glass enumerated in tariff item 322, on which duty was paid at the rates of duty set opposite said item—when used in the manufacture of safety or non-shatterable glass—99 per cent."

Widening this item so as to enable glass of any dimension to be imported, the following item in substitution was approved: "Plate glass polished, of a glass or kind not made in Canada—when used in the manufacture of safety or non-shatterable glass, laminated or otherwise—99 per cent."

The item is designed to cover shatter-proof glass used in the automobile industry.

SALT CAKE

A protest against reduction of the British preference rate on salt cake was registered by C. E. Bothwell, Liberal, Swift Current, Sask., on behalf of a manufacturing firm in Moose Jaw, Sask. The reduction was from ½ cent per pound to 1-5 of a cent.

The Minister of Finance explained this was an Imperial Conference item, and that the case had been heard by the Tariff Board. The concern referred to had been represented. Evidence established that under the ½-cent rate the protection enjoyed by the Saskatchewan company amounted to 135 per cent.

A few changes were made in the tariff rates on rovings and yarns of vegetable fibre by amendments. Among them was one placing jute yarns in a separate item from the other vegetable fibre yarns and granting them free entry under the British preference with a rate of 17½ per cent intermediate and 25 per cent general.

CANADIAN CLUBS HAVE NEW HEAD

Mr. Justice A. K. Dysart of Winnipeg Elected President of Association

Canadian Press

Toronto, May 30.—Mr. Justice A. K. Dysart of Winnipeg was elected president of the Association of Canadian Clubs at the conclusion of the association's twentieth conference here yesterday.

Onesime Gagnon, Conservative member of Parliament for Dorchester, Que., was elected vice-president, and Cuthbert Scott, Ottawa, treasurer.

The new executive committee appointed includes: Mrs. D. A. McKeracher, Calgary; Mrs. G. D. Wisener, Edmonton; Walter Murray, Saskatoon; H. F. Angus, Vancouver, and Mrs. T. Kirk, Vancouver.

The next biennial meeting will be held at Vancouver in 1936.

CANADIAN HISTORY

Senator George P. Graham declared before the dinner audience of the Association of Canadian Clubs yesterday evening that every student in Canada should be versed in Canadian history and examined on it. Senator C. P. Beaubien also addressed the dinner which concluded the convention.

"If Canadian history is going to be taught as it ought to be, I think the Canadian Clubs will have to undertake the job," Senator Graham said. The boys and girls and the people of the Dominion did not know Canadian history as they should, he added.

Senator Graham referred to a university graduate whose training, he said, had not included any Canadian history since he left elementary school.

He believed one of the reasons history was not studied was that until two years ago it was "as dry as last year's calendar."

"I have been told recently that there is to be a new Canadian history. I hope it has some ginger in it," said the Senator.

SILVER SITUATION WATCHED

Ottawa, May 30 (Canadian Press).—Canada had not received any representation from President Roosevelt asking the Dominion to co-operate in the restoration of silver, Prime Minister Bennett informed the House of Commons yesterday. Through the Canadian minister at Washington, however, Canada was keeping closely in touch with the situation. The Prime Minister gave the information in answer to a question asked by Thomas Reid, Liberal, New Westminster.

BODY WILL BE BURIED AT SEA

Canadian Press

Alert Bay, May 30.—J. L. Skinner of Shushartie Bay, who died recently after an illness of eighteen months, will be buried at sea near Pine Island from the mission ship Columbia at his own request. He was aged sixty-eight.

Mr. Skinner came to British Columbia from Ontario in 1892 and traveled north with three other men in 1898. After they pitched camp near Shushartie, a landslide killed his three companions and buried all the equipment and supplies. He found shelter with friendly Indians.

Settling on the shores of the bay, he engaged in logging and later conducted a store business. When the post office was opened at Shushartie he became postmaster, which position he held till his death. For many years, he carried mail by boat out to Cape Scott, often in bad weather and heavy seas, and in this service he lost four gasboats.

Mr. Skinner is survived by his widow and one daughter at Shushartie.

MODEL FARM IN NEWFOUNDLAND

Governing Commission Decides to Explore Wider Agricultural Possibilities

Canadian Press

St. John's, Nfld., May 30.—Establishment of a model farm has been decided on by Newfoundland's new governing commission as an experiment to determine farming methods best suited to the island.

An official communique announced to-day that the Canadian government had agreed to loan the services of an agricultural expert to aid in getting the project under way. Since taking power in the winter, Governor Sir David Murray and his colleagues have decided to embark on an attempt to diversify industry in the country.

At present, the codfisheries are the sole mainstay of most Newfoundlanders. They live fairly prosperously, or they live off the government—it all depends on the luck of the catch.

The new government hopes to see the day when the Newfoundlander will spend half the year at sea, and the other half at home cultivating his farm, the more stable occupation of farming helping to strike an even balance between the lean and the good years at sea.

JOBLESS VOTE ON STRIKE PLAN

Canadian Press

Calgary, May 30.—Calgary's jobless took a strike ballot yesterday under the direction of the United Workers' Council, and on June 2 announcement will be made if the unemployed here will join the walkout of relief recipients in the Drumheller and Edmonton districts, where more than 1,000 men are demanding increased government allowances.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Ottawa, May 30 (Canadian Press).—New officers of the Canadian Society of Technical Agriculturists, chosen by a mail ballot, were announced to-day. L. H. Newman, Dominion cerealist, Ottawa, was elected president by acclamation, and H. G. Crawford, Dominion entomological branch, Ottawa, was elected honorary secretary by acclamation.

NURSERY STOCK DUTIES CHANGED

Majority of Revisions Now Before Commons Are Downward

Canadian Press

Ottawa, May 30.—Notice was given yesterday evening by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, before the House of Commons committee of ways and means of proposed amendments to the tariff schedule with respect to some items covering nursery stock. The changes are the result of recommendations of the tariff board which were tabled in the House yesterday. The existing fixed valuation on these items will be cancelled.

The majority of the revisions are downward and refer to certain flowers, shrubs and pot-grown plants; seedling stock for grafting, including apple, plum, pear, peach and other fruits, including buds and scions, and peach pits for planting; fruit trees for planting; berry vines, asparagus roots, strawberry plants, rose bushes and miscellaneous stock.

The commodities are regrouped in the items as introduced yesterday evening, so no accurate comparison of the old rates and new rates is available.

NEW RULES ON STOCK SALES

Commons Approves Most of Clauses of New Companies Act

Ottawa, May 30. — The House of Commons took the first step yesterday afternoon to spike the work of high-pressure stock salesmen when it reviewed the consolidated Companies Act which practically remodels the laws governing company formation.

Designed to stop fraudulent stock promotions, the bill would make it impossible to sell promotion stock except through a prospectus, approved by the Secretary of State. Among other provisions, fines and imprisonment would be established for any house-to-house stock canvasser or any organization that used a telephone and "sucker list" to promote sales. Penalties would range from $500 for a first offence to $1,000 and a year in jail for subsequent convictions.

One hundred and seventy-five sections were passed through committee stage yesterday while the House was in a benevolent mood. The bill contains 206 clauses, those standing over for further consideration relating mostly to issuing prospectuses and company audits. The bill was sponsored by Secretary of State C. H. Cahan.

CAPITALIZATION QUESTION

There were only two stumbling blocks yesterday, the first when several members asked the Secretary of State what supervision he intended to exercise over company capitalization, and the second over a clause giving employees the right to sue company directors for wages.

Several members gave notice they would raise the broad issue of Dominion supervision of capitalization when the bill is discussed again. All clauses relating to the subjects were held over when Mr. Cahan said he would discuss it more thoroughly later. Under the present Companies Act an employee of a company may sue a director for back wages within a year of the time of default. This was changed to six months.

NEW DIRECTORY OF PUBLICATIONS

McKim's Issues Latest Classification of Papers in Canada

Montreal, May 30.—The 1934 McKim's Directory of Canadian publications is just off the press. This edition is the twenty-seventh, the first having been published in 1892, several years after A. McKim Limited, was established.

The most complete directory of its kind in Canada, the book contains exhaustive information on advertising media throughout the Dominion. Newspapers, magazines, trade papers and miscellaneous publications are all listed, together with information on provinces, cities and towns where publications operate; showing populations, industries and essential features of each market.

An innovation of the current issue is that, in place of the charts formerly included to show the wealth of provinces, analytical summaries of the provinces have been provided.

The McKim Directory, due to its reputation for authenticity, is a part of the standard equipment of manufacturers, publishers and all firms dealing in advertising in Canada. Inquiries concerning the publication should be addressed to any one of the McKim Advertising Agency offices at Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Vancouver, Halifax or London, England.

LIQUOR IN THEATRE

New York, May 30 (Canadian Press)—Broadway theatres want a share of the liquor business. A delegation representing the League of New York Theatres was organized yesterday to seek permission for the installation of bars in legitimate playhouses.

NEW POLICE FOR NEWFOUNDLAND

St. John's, Nfld., May 30 (Canadian Press).—Advice of Canada's Royal Canadian Mounted Police commissioner, Major-General J. H. MacBrien, will be sought by the Newfoundland Government in reorganizing the island's constabulary with the famous red-coated force as the model.

BOOK RETURNED

Saskatoon, May 30 (Canadian Press)—"Changed" during a visit of the Oxford Group here last week, a man brought back to the public library a book he had wrongfully retained since 1928. There had been another book, also, but he had lost it and could not remember its name. The book returned was "Handbook on Newspaper Desk Work."

Dr. Latzel is author of "Symptoms of Gastric Cancer"; eminent internal specialist.

"All three of his ailments disappeared... quickly"

says DR. ROBERT LATZEL, clinic head in Vienna's largest free hospital

Read Dr. Latzel's explanation of this case... the troubles may be very similar to your own!

"MR. H. B.," the noted Dr. Latzel reports, "was a civil engineer. He had become chronically tired out, with boils, a very poor appetite and the usual distressing stomach symptoms . . . he had gas pains.

"I examined him. His abdomen was flabby and large. His intestines were weak, clogged. The man was nearly always constipated.

"I put him on a yeast diet—asked him to report back in a week. By that time one of his boils was gone, another had started to dry up.

"In 3 weeks his skin was entirely clear, he had good color, healthy appetite and no more gas. Constipation stopped. He showed every sign of improved energy.

"Run-down health, poor complexion, indigestion, heartburn, and many other troubles usually come from poisons carried through the blood from the intestines," states Dr. Latzel. "Yeast tones up bowel action and increases the flow of digestive juices." Also, it softens the clogging waste in the body so you can clear it out easily—regularly.

Then you have new energy. Your blood is cleaner, healthier. Naturally, boils and pimples heal. Your digestion and your skin improve immensely, too.

Go to a grocer, restaurant, drug store or soda fountain, and get some Fleischmann's Yeast right now! Then eat 2 cakes every day, following the directions on the label. Each cake is rich in vitamins B, D and G that we all need.

Won't you start to eat Fleischmann's Yeast today? And keep it up for 30 days!

PEARL BROWN, of St. John, N. B., writes: "I was so tired . . . worried about my complexion. I ate Fleischmann's Yeast. My appetite picked up. My skin became smooth and fresh looking."

CRITICAL TIMES AT GENEVA

LEADING PERSONALITIES AT GENEva are not disguising their concern for the fate of the two-year-old Disarmament Conference. Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, president of the gathering, says the situation is "really critical." Mr. Norman Davis, United States representative, warns the delegates that they are meeting again, "but with hopes dimmed." According to Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet Russia's Commissar of Foreign Affairs, the conference is in "a blind alley." Sir John Simon, Britain's Foreign Minister, puts it this way: "I sum up the position of His Majesty's government by declaring that while there can be no justification for going on in a spirit of pious and undefined optimism, there is a most urgent need for deciding what we can do—and doing it without delay." This is obviously a call to "get down to realities."

It would seem that the question now is, who in the present confusion will propose a way out. In the two years of deliberations, the delegates have heard only one real plan for disarmament. That came from Russia, who still sticks to her idea. M. Litvinoff proposed total universal disarmament. It is permissible to ask why, if the nations are sincere in their frequent protestations of peaceful intent, they do not consider this plan and try to discover what can be made out of it. All of the other plans have presupposed that another war is inevitable. Much of the difficulty so far encountered, of course, has been France's objection to Germany's rearmament, and Germany's retirement from the conference. It was hoped she would return and it is possible she may yet be persuaded to do so, although the prospects are far from bright.

Germany's demands are that she be permitted a short-service army of 300,000 men and 1,000 airplanes. She has stated definitely that unless these be granted, she will not return to the League of Nations. Her increased army estimates, moreover, imply that she will go ahead with her plans, whether France or any other nation likes it or not. As France regards this programme she remains opposed to the consideration of any convention which would sanction German rearmament. It may be that those who wield most power in the French cabinet might consent to German rearmament if France were permitted to keep her hands free, which would mean no reduction and no limitation on her part—and if Britain would give a guarantee of security. No suggestion in these terms has been made by the French government for the obvious reason that neither the present nor any other British government would consent to such an arrangement. The British people are finished with guarantees of this sort.

It can be put another way. Let the British, say the French, make a sign that they mean business about security and we will consider German rearmament. Let the French, say the British, make a sign that they would consider a give-and-take convention at the price of something less than general guarantees and we will cheerfully examine what can be done. It must always be remembered, however, that France knows Germany very much better than any other nation. She knows what the heel of the invader feels like. She remembers what happened in 1870-1871, the terms imposed upon her, just as vividly as she remembers the much worse effects of German occupation in the last war. She does not trust Germany, and Germany under the present Nazi regime is not conducting herself in a way that inspires trust, and France does not differentiate between Naziism and Hohenzollernism.

The United States favors the original and amended British drafts which would have furnished a basis for a convention; but Mr. Davis made it clear to the delegates yesterday that the United States, while ready to do everything possible to secure a general disarmament agreement and thus help to promote peace and progress, his country "will not, however, participate in European political negotiations and settlements, and will not make any committment whatever to use its armed forces for the settlement of any dispute anywhere." He also laid considerable emphasis on a statement that the United States was willing to work out by international agreement an effective system for the regulation of the manufacture of and traffic in arms and munitions of war. This is the general situation in regard to the conference as this is written. The next day or so should determine whether the long deliberations are going to produce something really practical or break down in complete failure.

NATURE TAKES A HAND

MAN PROPOSES, GOD DISPOSES. DURing the last three years several international conferences have been held, in London and Rome, to solve the wheat market problem. Agreements limiting exports and curtailing production have been reached in the hope of insuring a profitable price to the growers. In no case have the deliberations of the governments at these gatherings had the slightest apparent effect.

Then Nature took a hand. With supreme indifference to international agreements and governmental policies, it imposed certain climatic disabilities which have sent the price of this vital commodity up the ladder. Storms, drought and grasshoppers have reduced all of the pompous proceedings to nothing, and the indications are that the problem with which the world is about to be confronted will not be one of over-production, but whether the present production, with the surplus of other years, will be enough to meet world requirements, even under the present faulty system of distribution.

Even Russia, the greatest wheat producer of all, has become a wheat importer. Schemes for the curtailment of a basic element of food in a world a large part of whose population is suffering from lack of food seem fantastic enough in themselves, but when they ignore the chief factor in the situation, old Mother Nature, they reach the very top-notch of human fatuity.

Canada has agreed to the curtailment of wheat production and export in company with other large producers, but unless climatic conditions in the prairie provinces become more favorable for growth, about the last thing this country will need will be any curtailment of production. Incidentally, the failure of the Canadian wheat crop would be a calamity, and judging by present indications we should pray that Nature will not curtail this meal ticket of the whole Canadian people.

NO RACIAL HATREDS WANTED

MOST CANADIANS WILL HEARTILY approve of the sentiment expressed by Dr. Spankie of Calgary, head of Fraternal Order of Elks, in his address to the local members of this order on Monday night, in the following utterance:

"If you take the best of Catholicism and the best of Protestantism and join them together, as our order has, doesn't it stand to reason that we have a better organization than either one or the other of these religions can produce? Our order stands for tolerance. We have Protestant, Jew and Catholic in our ranks."

This precisely reflects the desire of the great majority of the people of this Dominion in respect of the various races represented in its population. There is no room in this country for the racial hatreds which have made a considerable part of Europe a curse to civilization. People who come here and become good citizens, who are willing to give their first thought to their adopted homeland, are respected, regardless of their racial and religious origins, and being Canadians are entitled to, and will receive, every right which pertains to Canadian citizenship.

Canada has problems which are distinctively her own. They are mainly concerned with the physical development of her own vast areas and resources, and, as such, they call for the united energy, ability and courage of her people without regard to racial, social or religious distinctions. With an area of more than 3,500,000 square miles and a population of less than eleven millions of people, with no military frontiers, and no neighbors who can be suspected of aggressive designs upon her, this Dominion has no time or place for the international or domestic feuds and distractions of Europe.

Anybody at all familiar with the Canadian people, Canadian conditions and Canadian aspirations must realize that this Dominion is poor soil for the propaganda of either Fascism or Communism, for the advocates of religious dissension, or for the apostles of any other doctrine or element calculated to impair the unity of the Canadian people or to undermine Canadian institutions. Fly-by-night agitators, who come from other countries and attack any element of our Canadian citizenship imply nothing less than an impudent affront to this country. They pay no taxes here, they assume no obligations or liabilities for the settlement of the numerous questions which are now the serious concern of our various governments. No matter how highly placed they may be in their own countries, they are not wanted in Canada, which is quite satisfied to carve out its destiny on the basis of tolerance and good-will among all her people.

"LIFE INSURANCE WEEK"

ALL THIS WEEK HAS BEEN SET ASIDE as "Life Insurance Week." It is intended to drive home to the general public that one of the most practical forms of investment is a life insurance policy; not only is it practical but it is safe as well. As Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Dominion Minister of Finance, declared the other day, "during the eighty-five years that life insurance has been in force in Canada under government supervision, there has never been a dollar lost to a policyholder."

The local celebration of "Life Insurance Week" is being sponsored by the Victoria Life Underwriters' Association, an organization which has been operating in this city for nearly a quarter of a century. It is the wish of this body that all who desire to obtain information on the various styles of policy and about insurance generally will call at the headquarters at 713 Yates Street. There everybody will be cordially welcomed at any time of the day.

THE CARTIER CELEBRATIONS

St. Thomas Times-Journal

No one can rob the French of the glory that is theirs from their part in the early settlement of Canada, which then meant immense territories now included in the United States. French explorers have left footprints which cannot be eradicated over great areas, as instanced by the names of great cities, such as Detroit, Duluth, St. Louis, LaSalle, Louisville, Joliat, New Orleans, Eau Claire, etc., besides the host of French place-names in Canada itself from coast to coast. Our French visitors should be accorded the finest welcome that Canadians know how to extend.

THE CAMPAIGN WARMS UP

The Toronto Globe

Premier Henry's prediction that the provincial campaign is going to be "one of slander and vilification against us in every form" requires interpretation. The Premier and his colleagues have made the campaign issues by their record of more than twelve years at Quen's Park, and if they cannot come out with a clear, straightforward justification for what they have done—and all they have done—challenge is certain to follow challenge. The government, inevitably, is on the defensive. Picking this record to pieces may be to the Premier "slander and vilification." If this is what he means he is undoubtedly correct, but he has the remedy in his own hands by getting down to brass tacks on the essentials instead of sticking to the red herring devised at the last minute for a substitute issue. As the campaign proceeds, Mr. Henry will discover that his glass of beer has faded into the background and that the people will demand explanations.

New York Has Its Secret Regrets

And it is almost ready to cry over the dear old songs—whereas amid nudity and sin in Hell's Kitchen it just gets bored.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

NEW YORK.

AT FIRST SIGHT you would say that this was just another evidence of society's decay. Here is a large church, once sacred to the Christian God, now turned into a playhouse of the lower sort, where beer and ham sandwiches are served without limit, and all the old Christian virtues are burlesqued. But examine it closer and you may observe that those who came to scoff remain, if not to pray, at least to regret.

This, at the moment is the rage of New York—the revival of an old-time melodrama called "The Drunkard, or The Fallen Redeemed." It is a riot, of course, in itself, but its historic implications are deeper than you suppose; at least people begin to think so after they have drunk a few bottles of New York's superior beer and roared out a few of the songs of their youth.

"The Drunkard or The Fallen Redeemed" is reproduced precisely as it was first shown in New York in the eighties by the late P. T. Barnum. No attempt is made to modernize or to exaggerate it. The former church has been filled with chairs and tables to make it like an old-time music hall. Ancient play bills and posters showing fat ladies in tights hang on the walls. The stage curtain is covered with curious old advertisements. When the manager, in a huge silk hat of nineteenth century design, checked frock coat and white spats, comes out in front to announce the show he tells the orchestra, a lonely piano player, to "play as you have never played before, professor, for we have royalty with us to-night! Play good!"

MOVING SPECTACLE

THE DRUNKARD" is a moving spectacle. It is easy to believe that our grandfathers were deeply stirred and that our grandmothers wept bitterly at the descent of the hero into disgrace and ruin. No wonder, either that they hissed and groaned at the villain, a crafty wretch in a long black cloak, who spends his time deliberating murder and destruction on one side of the stage and fawning on the hero at the other. This generation cheers and hisses also, with enthusiasm. The ancient church, indeed, echoes with cheers and hisses, and it is surprising how much enthusiasm modern New York can put into this work, on a few bottles of light beer.

So through endless scenes of harrowing villainy—the decline of the hero through the demon rum—the ruin of his wife and child—the shocking exhibition of vice in the village tavern—the forged cheque—the threat of prison—the discovery of the will, buried under an oak tree (it is thrust out through the back drop by a plainly-visible human hand)—the hero living in a stable with three horses painted on the curtain—the wife and family starving in a garret—the sudden redemption—the villain's downfall—the comfortable domestic scene—the old man's immortal benediction on the family, "May your life be happy and your death tranquil."

After the final curtain is lowered on the reunited family, on "The Fallen Redeemed," the custom is to drag the piano into the middle of the floor and a wench called the Bowery Nightingale leads in song. More beer and more ham sandwiches are passed around by good-looking gals in the costumes of Civil War days, and modern New York settles down for a couple of hours of good fun.

THE OLD SONGS

EVERYBODY ROARS OUT the old songs at the top of his voice, the old songs he knew as a boy—"The Sidewalks of New York," of course, "School Days," "The Girl Who Married Dear Old Dad," "The Old Oaken Bucket," "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree," "A Bicycle Built For Two," and a score of others. And how they love the old songs, these sophisticated New Yorkers! How they roar out the choruses on a few bottles of beer!

The elderly, stout gentleman at our right, who came in a Rolls-Royce, cannot be silenced until they have sung "The Young Man on the Flying Trapeze," in which he leads the chorus, standing on his chair. A distinguished-looking gentleman in full evening dress looks as if he would break down and weep when the Bowery Nightingale launches into that grand old song about the Bowery. Before the sing-song is half over everyone in the room is your friend and perfect strangers, cold sober but intoxicated with emotion, have their arms about one another while they ululate "Sweet Adeline!"

Here is a rich study for social psychologists and students of modern civilization. Here is a crowd of New York sophisticates come to laugh at

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

FACE TOWARD THE SUN

I have turned my back to the shadows,
I have set my face towards the sun,
And my life shall be as a syllable
In the song which is never done.

The frailest, bright-winged insects
That sway on a blade of grass
Take joy in the light and the flowers
Ere their moments of living pass.

And each one is pattered and painted
With an exquisite design,
With an infinite care for perfect hues,
And power and faultless line.

Then dare I to doubt a purpose
Which runs through the limitless scheme,
From amoeba which thrives with its single cell,
To man and his noblest dream?

Now I set my face towards the sunlight,
To life's rapture I open my soul,
And I go, made strong by the perfect trust
Of a heart which is sure of its goal!

RADIO CITY

To the Editor:—Mr. Bruce Hutchison is such a cultured gentleman that it is very elevating to know him, if only through the press. It is to be hoped that he has not lost any of that culture, possessed by Canadians only, while visiting in such frightful places as Washington, D.C. and New York. How fortunate that radios have station selectors and Canadians do not have to receive any of that "United States Culture" dispensed from broadcasting stations. Surely none have such morbid curiosity as to tune in "Radio City." I hope his column on same will not make us inquisitive.

IRRESPONSIBLE FASCISM

To the Editor:—At last British-Israelism, by its audacity in sponsoring a lecture here by the president of that hot-headed, irresponsible band, the British Fascists, has revealed itself in its true colors. It must have come as something of a shock to those of its members who, when told that their movement was nothing more nor less than Fascism, have indignantly denied the accusation, to find the leaders of their movement sponsoring a real dyed in the wool Fascist, complete with all the trimmings of "grand councils," rule by a few, and all the rest of it. I am glad the British Israel leaders of this city found it necessary to have the Chamber of Commerce guarded by police while the worthy Fascist propounded his schemes.

The implications of the teachings of British Israelism have been clear for a long time to those with the knowledge and ability to analyze movements of this sort, but it is rather alarming to find so many people have been persuaded to join this organization without realizing just what it is. Of course the very phraseology of British Israelism befogs the issue, tends to cloud the real meaning of the movement, but now its followers can no longer plead the excuse that they were not fully aware of the real meaning of the movement.

To any competent student of such organizations, it has always been perfectly clear that British Israelism is simply Hitlerism, applied to another section of the world's people. Hitler in his speeches might be talking British Israelism if he substituted the words British Israel for Aryan race. Truly, Fascism finds its power in ignorance. I venture to say that the vast bulk of the kindly, innocent people who make up the movement of British Israelism had been aware of the underlying implication of the movement, British Israelism would have a membership corresponding in numbers of that of Communism in this country.

However, the Jolly Roger was run up in real earnest at the Chamber of

put into effective shape for signature on the most important matters on which decisions have already been reached in general terms.

He mentioned three points among these: Chemical warfare's abolition; publicity for budgetary expenditures on arms, and establishment of a permanent disarmament commission.

BRITISH DRAFT

His Majesty's Government, the British Foreign Secretary told the big assemblage of delegates, was of the opinion the British draft of a disarmament convention adopted by the conference last summer as the basis for discussion, still afforded the best solution of the problem.

Britain still felt the draft convention, as modified by the British memorandum of January which suggested a compromise between the German demand for an army of 200,000 and the army of 200,000 listed in the draft, was more likely to produce an agreement than any other concrete proposal, he added.

"Indeed," declared Sir John, "I will go further, unless it is possible for the conference to agree on suggestions such as those in the memorandum, or something very like them, then I do not myself believe a disarmament convention can be realized."

Yesterday Norman Davis, United States spokesman, had urged the conference resume discussions on the basis of the British plan.

RUSSIAN PROPOSALS

The British Foreign Secretary turned down the Russian proposals put forward yesterday by Maxim Litvinoff—abolition of all arms and turning the disarmament conference into a sort of perpetual "peace" conference.

He recalled that when the Geneva protocol was under discussion in 1924, no instrument of security was contemplated as coming into operation until a disarmament agreement had been reached.

"It would therefore be an entirely new departure to transform a conference called for the purpose of disarmament into a conference for devising plans of security on the basis that no disarmament at all was possible," said Sir John.

"The value of security pacts depends not on the fact of the promise, but on the certainty, if the need should arise, of positive performance by the signatories, he said.

"And as to Locarno, I think it is still understood that what His Majesty's Government promises it performs."

Britain was fully prepared to continue the disarmament efforts, but outside the British plan what basis is there leading to a convention which would be generally acceptable? Sir John demanded.

NOT STANDING STILL

"While we talk the world does not stand still . . . We will not lend ourselves to indefinite continuance of vague and inconclusive discussions justified by nothing better than a sanguine hope that, after all, something in the way of a solution may still turn up," Sir John said.

"We cannot do so for two reasons. First, we are convinced such a procedure would inflict great and increasing injury on the League and the whole conception of international action. We may seem to be creating a consoling feeling of activity, but in the world outside we should merely be confirming the impression of futility.

LEAGUE IDEALS SUFFER

"The League idea has already suffered grievously from spinning out of abortive conferences, and the necessary work of the League now and in the future can only be well done if the nations and the peoples of the world are satisfied the work done there is conducted in a practical spirit and that if methods of reaching a world-wide agreement on solution are not available we should have the good sense to say so.

"Otherwise the League of Nations and the whole conception of post-war co-operation will fall into grave discredit.

"Secondly, if the Disarmament Conference were to be kept in being merely for the purpose of debate, but without real hope or prospect of achieving a positive result, we are in effect debarring ourselves from whatever new effort may be needed.

"If the conference cannot make an effective move forward world conditions nevertheless are changing. Europe has new dangers to face, and the governments cannot be debarred from dealing with them by the specious plea that the governments are in conference at Geneva—if all that can be done is to make speeches," he concluded.

ARMS EXPORTS

M. Barthou declared that in August, 1933, Britain had proposed to France and another country, which he would not mention, that they would prohibit exportation of war materials to countries forbidden to arm under the peace treaties. France had agreed and forbidden her manufacturers to export, although, he added, with an implied reference to Britain, the agreement was not given effect. The delegates laughed.

France, said M. Barthou, was as anxious as ever for a successful end to the conference, but reduction of armaments must be accompanied by guarantees of security.

GAINING GROUND

And the French thesis of security was gaining ground, he claimed. M. Litvinoff, who "is not a man who tries to please everybody," had said security dominated everything else. Then Sir John Simon had admitted it, he concluded.

M. Barthou then sent forth the French viewpoint in vehement terms, staunchly defended France's position throughout the negotiations, again and again he referred to Sir John Simon in ironical tones which set the delegates laughing.

Sir John had spoken of the British plan as though there had been no other, declared M. Barthou. "But," he questioned: "Is Mussolini no longer capable of paternity? Is there no Italian plan? Has there been no French plan?"

Canada Gains By Sending North Pacific Treaty Pelts to London Market, Inquiry Committee Is Informed; St. Louis, Mo., Used to Have Monopoly

Canadian Press

Ottawa, May 30.—The monopoly of the St. Louis, Mo., seal skin market held for over a decade is being partially broken by Canada's policy of selling in London the Dominion's share of skins received under the Pelagic Treaty, the Senate committee on sealing and fisheries learned to-day from W. A. Found, deputy minister of fisheries.

A market for seal fur in Montreal and Toronto was also visioned by Mr. Found, as a result of Canada's new selling policy. Previous to 1934 the United States sold in St. Louis the skins of all seals caught in the North Pacific, and divided with Canada and Japan on the basis of 15 per cent to these countries and retained 70 per cent.

ACCOUNTS DIFFER

Senator James D. Taylor, New Westminster, told the committee he found some difference between the United States and the Dominions methods of keeping accounts of the sales of skins under the treaty.

F. O. Weeks, chief accountant of the Department of Fisheries, tabled a report on the sale of skins in St Louis for seals caught from 1929 to 1931. This report disclosed 7,066 skins with a gross value of $109,637 had netted only $16,120, after processing and selling expenses. Of that amount the United States received $11,284 (70 per cent.), and Canada and Japan $2,418 each (15 per cent each).

Preliminary reports of the 1934 sales in London showed Canada would receive approximately $64,000 from the sale of treaty skins, Mr. Found told the committee.

"Green skins sold in London this year were purchased by St. Louis dealers for the most part," Mr. Found stated.

"The best years under arrangement with the United States did not bring Canada more than $50,000," said Senator A. D. McRae, Conservative, Vancouver.

SMOKE OVER BIG U.S. AREAS

Many Forest Fires Raging; Sun Burns Up Grain Crops

Associated Press

Chicago, May 30.—The traditional verdancy of the United States Memorial Day was dimmed to-day by the smoke of forest fires and the drabness of withered grain crops.

Scattered fires burned over woodlands dried to tinder by a parching sun, and whole fields of growing grains curled in the heat, which ranged from ninety degrees to a searing 108.

One of the fires swept more than 10,000 acres of valuable timber lands near Saranac Lake in New York State with flames on a ten-mile front menacing two villages. Other fires were blazing in Minnesota and Idaho. A huge marsh in the vicinity of Norwalk, O., was burning.

Unrelenting heat beat down on all crops in the Middle West as officials considered means to bring relief. Washington authorities received messages beseeching them to release signers of the corn-hog programme from all crop-reduction obligations.

There was only one former champion in the line-up when the tiny racing cars, in rows of three, got under way and he is a double champion, Louis Meyer, South Geta, Cal., winner of the race in 1928 and 1933.

THIRTY-ONE STARTED

There were thirty-one gasoline-driven cars and two oil burners in the race.

With half the race finished, Mauri Rose, Dayton, O., clung to the lead. He covered the 250 miles in 2.23.38.35. His average was 104.428 miles an hour.

Leadership had switched to Cummings at the end of 325 miles, Rose was second and Ralph Hepburn, Los Angeles, third.

Rose had a lead of twenty-seven seconds over Cummings as they started the last 100 miles.

Before the cars had gone twenty-five miles, the machine driven by Charles Crawford, Chattanooga, Ten., was forced out because of a broken steering arm.

Harry McQuinn, Indianapolis, was forced to quit after going forty miles because of a broken connecting rod.

Johnny Seymour, Los Angeles, and Rick Decker, Staten Island, N.Y., were forced out at seventy-five miles. Seymour with a broken rear axle and Decker with motor trouble.

THREE PILE-UPS

The car driven by George Bailey, Detroit, went over the wall on the north turn.

In another crackup, the car driven by Chet Miller, also of Detroit, went over the wall on the south turn.

Bailey sustained a broken wrist in his smash-up, while Chet Miller escaped without injury. Their cars were declared out of the race.

In the third smash-up, Phil Shafer, Des Moines, Iowa, skidded off the track at the end of the back stretch, but escaped without injury.

Wilbur Shaw, Indianapolis, who finished second in the 1933 race, was forced out because of a broken oil line after traveling forty-two miles.

MEYER FORCED OUT

As the cars started the final 250 miles, Meyer, United States racing champion, was forced to quit, because of continued motor trouble. He was thirty miles behind the leaders at the time he surrendered.

After Meyer gave up, the car driven by Tony Gulotta, Kansas City, was forced out because of motor trouble, leaving only sixteen of the thirty-three original starters in the race.

Life Saved in Spectacular Race

In a race against death, a United States naval seaplane and a destroyer sped from the Panama Canal Zone with medical aid for William Robinson, Chicago millionaire, stricken with appendicitis aboard his tiny ship off the Galapagos Islands, 500 miles west of Ecuador, in the Pacific. An operation was performed aboard the destroyer and then the ship carried the patient, accompanied by his wife, to Balboa, where he was placed in a hospital, in which he is now recovering. Above are shown Robinson and his bride, the former Florence Crane, daughter of a wealthy Chicago family. They were on a round the world honeymoon when Robinson became ill.

DISTRICTS DIFFER

They had no great objections against programmes which originated in Quebec being announced in French, but they did declare that programmes originating in Regina or Edmonton or Saskatoon should not be announced in that language.

"In the first place I don't think there is an announcer who can announce it properly," commented Mr. Turnbull.

If a method could be found so that in the operation of the local station the French announcement could be cut out, said Mr. Turnbull, no difficulty would arise.

If prior announcement were made of French or German programmes, it would satisfy those desiring to listen in, while those who did not so desire could tune out. Such a system would add to the popularity of the broadcast.

ALBERTA SHACK MURDER SCENE

Peace River, Alta., May 30.—With the head badly battered by some blunt instrument, the body of Matt Smith, recent arrival from Saskatchewan, was found in a trunk in his shack, ten miles west of here, by R.C.M.P. officers Tuesday. It is believed the man was murdered two or three days ago.

Smith, a man of about thirty-five came to Peace River only two weeks ago in an automobile.

He purchased a farm two miles north of the Fairview-Grande Pairie highway a few days after his arrival arrival.

Circumstances which led to the discovery of the body have not been divulged by the police, but it is rumored the man was in possession of a considerable amount of money when he arrived here.

The undertaker assisted the police to bring the remains to Peace River Wednesday, and an inquest was tentatively set for this afternoon or evening.

Inspector E. Radcliffe, in command of the Peace River detachment, is in charge of investigation and a district-wide search is being conducted under his direction for clues.

WOMAN WORKS NEW "RACKET"

Vancouver District Victimized By Grocery Parcel Ruse

Vancouver, May 30.—Several complaints have been received by police regarding an unidentified woman reported victimizing housewives in different sections of Vancouver with a profitable "racket."

The woman has apparently obtained information about a district and learned the names of the different families. She has then gone to various homes and told the women there that neighbors, generally close friends, have ordered goods and would she kindly take them in and pay for them as the neighbors were not at home.

In most cases, the ruse has worked successfully and the women who have paid for the merchandise have found the friends had never ordered any. Left with the goods, they have found the prices paid have been far beyond the actual value.

INCREASE MINE WORKERS' WAGES

Juneau, Alaska, May 30.—Effective June 1, the Alaska-Juneau Gold Mining Company has announced employees' wages will be increased fifty cents a day, bringing the average daily pay to $5.72, as compared with 1931, when the daily wage with all bonuses and contract payments included was $5.62.

The new scale will be the highest in the history of the company, and also the highest in this district. The increase is to apply for one year, provided that if in the meantime the price of gold declines to below $27 an ounce, the scale shall cease to be effective. About 700 men are affected

"Haunted House" Mystery Is Ended

Police Visit Place in East End of Vancouver and Find Lion, Prairie Wolves Dogs and Man

Canadian Press

Vancouver, May 30.—Police solved the mystery of a "haunted house" in Vancouver's east end early to-day.

Residents of the district and the officer patrolling the beat had reported there was something "sinister" about the place. Weird noises came from it and its occupants seemed most active at night.

Detectives raided the house. There was a sudden "woof" as an officer stepped cautiously into the dark, the click of animal jaws and hot breath on his hand as snapping teeth narrowly missed.

"It's a lion," gasped another detective as his flashlight penetrated the darkness.

It was indeed a lion—but caged. Before the bars, two dogs crouched. In a corner, a number of prairie wolves were penned in a small compartment.

"Who are you?" queried a voice from the floor behind the detectives. The flashlights picked out a man wrapped in blankets on the floor.

"What are you doing here?" was the counter-query.

"Oh, I wrestle with the lion," drawled the man and explained he was the proprietor of a small animal show.

"You know, in this police game the mental hazard is often the greatest," Detective E. Pettit commented as the squad returned to headquarters.

DOZEN IN PLANE ESCAPE DEATH

Associated Press

Bethel, Conn., May 30.—Twelve persons narrowly escaped death when a United Airlines passenger plane en route from Cleveland to Newark, N.J., lost its way in a heavy fog early to-day and crashed when making a forced landing.

Lorenz Letson of Chicago, co-pilot, was the only one whose condition was described as critical. Hospital doctors found him suffering from a fracture of one leg, severe head lacerations and possible internal injuries

Big Loans As Election Comes

Mother"ell Tells Commons of Bennett Government Advances to Saskatchewan

Canadian Press

Ottawa, May 30.—References to the provincial election in Saskatchewan broke up the harmony which had existed most of yesterday afternoon in the House of Commons and caused charges and counter-charges to be hurled across the floor.

Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Liberal, Melville, Sask, former Minister of Agriculture, resuming his criticism of the government with respect to the fight against grasshoppers, said the government had failed to do its part last year in fighting the pests, but this year, with an election in that province, it was "pouring money into it."

During May loans to the extent of $5,958,569 had been advanced to Saskatchewan, whereas only $1,159,167 had been advanced to Alberta, and $1,101,215 to Manitoba. There were no elections in the other provinces, Mr. Motherwell observed.

SAYS THEY WILL LOSE

"Let them pour all the money they like, it will do them no good," Mr. Motherwell said, referring to the results of the coming election. He was inclined to believe the government was more concerned with the elimination of "Grit-hoppers than grasshoppers."

Replying, Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, gave figures to show the area infested with grasshoppers was many times greater in Saskatchewan than in the other prairie provinces. Further, the needs of that province for feed for livestock, gasoline where tractors were used, and seed grain, was much greater, owing to the severe droughts, he said.

B.C. LUMBER PIONEER DIES

W. H. Higgins, Ninety-two, Succumbs in Vancouver; Had Varied Career

Canadian Press

Vancouver, May 30.—William Henry Higgins, ninety-two, pioneer British Columbia lumberman and recognized during the Great War as the only man in this province who could successfully fulfil the Admiralty Board's contract for airplane spruce, died yesterday evening, ending an eventful career and leaving a unique family record.

Mr. Higgins was married four times and is survived by eleven children. The eldest child is sixty years older than the youngest. A great-grandson is one year senior to Mr. Higgins's youngest son.

Mr. Higgins was born in Fredericton, N.B.

The youthful lumber king lost most of his fortune in the panic of 1873, and eleven years later came to British Columbia, starting in the logging business at Okis Hollow on the Coast.

Although retired for a number of years, Mr. Higgins until shortly before his death was able to wield an axe as expertly as many of the lumberjacks sixty years younger. He keenly enjoyed the occasional jaunts he took on timber cruising.

SHIP STEWARD IS ARRESTED

Associated Press

Georgetown, British Guiana, May 30. — Police to-day detained Robert Jones, steward on the Canadian liner Lady Nelson, saying they were satisfied he answered the description of Arthur C. Wilson of Cleveland, charged with the murder of Mrs. Irene Dobolt of Cleveland, whose nude body was found November 5, 1933, on the desert near Van Horn, Texas.

Jones was taken into custody while the police await further information.

Quintuplets Now In Third Day Of Life

dropper. A mixture of milk, corn syrup and water is dropped in their tiny mouths and it takes so long that when the last has been fed the first is hungry again.

The baby called Yvonne was named after Miss Yvonne Leroux, the graduate nurse in attendance. The youngster were tagged so they can be told apart. The eldest of the tiny infants is not known as in the excitement Monday they were all placed in a basket together without being marked.

Miss Leroux said the babies had not been weighed since birth, as it was thought best not to handle them more than necessary.

A bundle of clothes for the infants has been received from the Callander Women's Institute.

Mrs. Dionne comes of a family that never aspired to record births. She was formerly Miss Elzire Legris and was the only girl in a family of six.

ATTRACTIVE BRUNETTE

Reporters who visited the mother to-day found her lying on a simple wooden bed in a small room with her five small daughters crying in a covered clothes basket on a new low bureau near the bed. Mrs. Dionne, an attractive, bright-eyed brunette, evidently subscribes to the modern belief children should be allowed to exercise their lungs, for she paid little attention to their cries.

One of the first gifts she has received, a blanket from Dr. J. R. Hurtubise, M.P., Sudbury, was lying across the bed, and Mrs. Dionne proudly showed it to the newspaper reporters.

BABIES HAVE UNCLES

Mrs. Dionne's father lives on a farm at Corbeil with four sons, Aurel, Henry, Lese and Hector, while another son, Vetal, resides at Kapuskasing.

INCUBATOR SENT

Canadian Press

Toronto, May 30.—An old-fashioned hot-water baby incubator may be used to help keep the Dionne quintuplets, born Monday, on a farm near Corbeil, Ont., alive.

The incubator, furnished by a Chicago newspaper, passed through Toronto to-day on its way to the little northern Ontario settlement.

An electric incubator would have been useless in the Dionne home as there is no power connection.

TEN DOLLAR GIFT

Canadian Press

North Bay, Ont., May 30—Mrs. Oliva Dionne, twenty-four-year-old Corbeil woman who gave birth Monday to quintuplet daughters, to-day received a crisp $10 bill from Mitchell F. Hepburn, Ontario Liberal leader campaigning in northern Ontario.

"I hope," said Mr. Hepburn, "these five cute youngsters grow up to be intelligent young Canadians and that they vote Liberal."

GIFT OF $25

Toronto, May 30.—Premier George S. Henry to-day sent his congratulations to Mrs. Oliva Dionne of Corbiel, Ont., who is the mother of quintuplets, and also sent $5 for each baby.

Commons Asked To Vote Beer Tax Cut

BEER LEVY

When the budget was brought down it involved a reduction in the taxation of beer by consolidating the former malt tax and the per gallon tax on beer in a single levy on malt, which amounted to less than the two former taxes together. This malt tax was 7½c a pound and the change announced yesterday evening reduces it to 6c.

Pierre Casgrain, Liberal, Charlevoix-Saguenay, Que., was the sponsor of the lotteries bill, and it was rejected without a recorded vote, sharing the fate of the Senate bill defeated last week.

ESTABLISHES RECORD

The House established a record when it ploughed through the Rhodes budget, passing the income tax revisions, practically all the tariff changes and most of the excise taxation amendments. All this was done in less than three hours, which old-timers say is a modern record. It left the new gold tax as practically the one remaining contentious item, but it may be the cause of a protracted debate.

The highlight of the evening was the Finance Minister's announcement on beer taxes, scheduled to come into force July 1. For many years Canada has collected a double beer tax, a gallonage tax on the beer itself of 12½c and an excise tax of 3c a pound on malt.

This system was changed under this year's budget to a single malt tax, which was intended to have been slightly lower than the total of the two former imposts. When the budget was introduced, the nex tax was placed at 7½c a pound, but the change introduced yesterday evening reduces to 6c.

SCALE OF REDUCTIONS

The new taxes will be:

On malt, made in Canada, used for brewing beer, six cents a pound, reduced from seven and a half cents.

Imported malt (warehoused), six cents a pound, reduced from seven and a half cents.

Imported malt, crushed or ground, six cents a pound, reduced from nine and a half cents.

Duties on beer brewed from any other substance than malt will be twenty-two cents a gallon, a reduction of three cents from the original budget proposal but an increase from the existing fifteen-cent level. Customs duty on imported beer reduced from twelve and a half cents a gallon to seven cents.

Excise duty on beer brewed from duty-paid malt in storage July 1, seven cents a gallon, reduced from ten cents.

Excise duty on unfermented wort, unsold on July 1, seven cents a gallon, reduced from ten cents.

Excise duties on malt syrup, when manufactured in Canada prior to July 1, thirteen cents a pound, reduced from twenty cents; when manufactured in Canada after July 1, ten cents, reduced from seventeen cents, and when imported into Canada after July 1, sixteen cents, a reduction from twenty cents.

Translated into beer taxes, the new malt tax will run about fourteen cents a gallon, compared with 17.75 cents under the former dual impost.

"FIVE-CENT GLASS"

"I am told," said the Finance Minister, "this will mean a five-cent glass of beer."

To leave the tax at seven and a half cents, as proposed under the budget, would mean an increase over the impost, said Mr. Rhodes, because of the wastage of beer on which no taxes are paid. The six-cent rate will be slightly lower than the dual tax.

At the same time the Finance Minister said he did not believe the federal treasury would lose much revenue through the change. Lowered taxes would mean lowered prices, leading to increased consumption and hence higher revenues for the Dominion.

Wages In Packing Plants Investigated

money came from the pockets of the farmers through lower hog and cattle prices, but the committee auditor did not agree.

The charge was made that Canada Packers and the Swift Canadian Company owned control of the Toronto livestock market, but the committee auditor did not know. Both companies owned shares in the market, he said, but it was impossible to tell the percentage because the Swift Company's holdings were listed at its head office in Chicago.

Grants To Radio Stations In B.C. Urged

would permit them to operate and would ensure proper broadcasting of the commission's programmes.

OKANAGAN STATION

Station CKOB in the Okanagan Valley was of great use to the fruit growers, said Mr. Stirling. It had experienced many difficulties over a period of years in connection with wave lengths and interference. He supported the plea of Mr. Barber for a small grant to enable the station to continue broadcasting the commission's programmes.

Hector Charlesworth, radio commission chairman, said it had cost the commission $9,000 last year to lease wires in order to bring commission programmes from Kamloops to CKOB at Kelowna.

FUNDS TOO SMALL

Inadequacy of funds furnished the Radio Commission had prevented that body from putting into effect all the plans that were contemplated when the commission came into being, said F. W. Turnbull, K.C., Conservative, Regina. More money must be placed at the commission's disposal or ownership of broadcasting stations must be left in private hands.

RUSH REPAIRS AT ALBERNI PLANT

Port Alberni, May 30.—Repairs to damage caused by the fire in the boiler-house of the Alberni-Pacific mill, which temporarily threw 300 men out of employment, will be rushed to permit early resumption of operations.

Insurance adjusters and government boiler inspectors are here to-day.

An examination showed that the fire was confined to the boiler building, but certain equipment, including conveyors, will have to be replaced.

STILL FIGHT BUSH FIRES

long-anticipated rainfall. The fires are still raging, however, and hundreds of firefighters are working night and day.

Along the Ontario-Manitoba boundary fires were reported to be raging in and about the little Red Lake settlement. High winds at that point hampered the firefighters, but the latter were reported as able to prevent the fires from spreading.

HOMES DESTROYED

With improvements noted in the situation in the Abitibi and Temiskaming districts, 2,500 government forest rangers in Quebec concentrated their efforts in more easterly sections, notably Matane and Riviere du Loup, where several fires of a smaller but none the less fierce category are in progress. Numerous homes were destroyed in these districts and families evacuated threatened hamlets.

The homes of sixteen settlers were destroyed in the new Alcida settlement in Gloucester County, N.B., with Queens, Madawaska, York and Victoria counties all reporting outbreaks also.

Meeting Friday.—The Ministering Circle of the King's Daughters will hold their final meeting of the season on Friday at 3 p.m. at headquarters.

WEDDING HELD AT SIDNEY

Miss Edith Whiting Became Bride of Mr. R. T. Moore

A pretty wedding took place at Sidney on Saturday, May 26, when Rev. T. M. Hughes united in marriage at St. Andrew's Church, Edith, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Whiting, Sixth Street, and Mr. Ralph Thompson Moore of Victoria, son of Mrs. E. Moore of Calgary and the late Mr. E. Moore.

The church was beautifully decorated by friends of the bride with foliage and flowers in pastel shades. Mrs. T. M. Hughes presided at the organ and Mr. W. McAdam and Mr. Herbert Ward acted as ushers.

Entering the church with her father, who gave her in marriage, the bride made a charming picture in a gown of pale blue crepe romaine, modeled on fitted lines, with flaring skirt. The sleeves were ruffled and ruffles also encircled the neckline. The girdle was caught at the back with a rhinestone buckle. She wore a French model halo hat and carried a ruffled muff of the same shade. Her corsage bouquet was of roses and sweet peas. A blue crystal necklet and bracelet, gifts of the groom, were her ornaments.

The bride's only attendant was her niece, Joyce McAdam, who acted as flower girl, and wore a dress of pale pink organdie with a satin girdle and carried a basket of sweet peas, irises and roses. The groom's gift to the flower girl was a necklace and bracelet.

The groom was supported by Mr. W. White. During the signing of the register, Mrs. S. Thorne sang "At Dawning."

After the ceremony, many guests went to the home of the bride's parents, where the reception was held.

Standing beneath arched cedar trees, the happy couple received the good wishes of their friends. They were assisted in receiving by the bride's mother in a mauve and egg-shell ensemble, with which she wore a corsage bouquet of pink roses and mauve sweet peas. Refreshments were served in the beautiful garden from a table centred with a three-tiered wedding cake and decorated with silver sconces and roses and sweet peas. Mrs. A. Thompson and Mrs. W. Sheppard of Victoria presided at the tea urns.

Among the numerous beautiful gifts was a silver engraved cake plate from the evening branch of the Women's Auxiliary, of which the bride is a member. The gift from the bride's fellow employees at the Sidney Lumber Co. was an oak case of cutlery. An electric coffee urn was the gift from the groom's associates in the B.C.C.S.

Several Scouts from the First Sidney Troop were in attendance during the afternoon. The happy couple was accompanied to Victoria by many friends and left for Vancouver, en route to Calgary and Lake Louise, where the honeymoon will be spent. On their return they will reside in Victoria. The bride's going-away costume was a green and black ensemble.

POPULAR COUPLE OF SIDNEY WED

Miss Jane Patricia McIlmoyl Marries Mr. W. J. Bosher

Holy Trinity Church, Sidney, formed the setting for a wedding that took place there on Saturday afternoon when Rev. T. M. Hughes united in the holy bonds of matrimony Jane Patricia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McIlmoyl, of Saanichton, and William J. Bosher, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bosher, East Saanich Road. The bride is a granddaughter of the late James T. McIlmoyl, a pioneer of the Saanich district.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion by friends of the bride. Entering the church to the strains of the Bridal Chorus, played by Mrs. T. M. Hughes, the bride was attended and was given in marriage by her father. Her gown was of delphinium blue, made on simple lines and embroidered with silver, with which she wore a silver hat. Her bouquet was of roses and sweet peas.

The groom was supported by his father, Mr. Herbert Bosher.

During the signing of the register, the congregation sang "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden." The wedding reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bosher Jr., Reid Street. The three-tiered wedding cake centred a table decorated with pale blue flowers and foliage and was placed in the garden.

The toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. T. M. Hughes.

Amid good wishes of relatives and friends, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bosher left by motor for up-island points. On returning, they will reside on Breed's Road.

CALIFORNIA GIRL DIED OF BURNS

Police Say State Treasurer's Daughter Set Own Clothing Afire

Associated Press

Sacramento, Cal., May 30.—A statement that she had "angels' wings burning in her head," was among the evidence on which authorities based their belief to-day that Virginia Johnson, attractive twenty-two-year-old society girl, had committed suicide by applying a match to her gasoline-soaked clothing.

While her father, State Treasurer Charles G. Johnson, and his brothers, Walter and John, refused to accept the suicide conclusion, District Attorney Neil McAllister and police officials insisted Virginia set fire to her gasoline-drenched clothing because she feared increasing spells of coma. The authorities pointed to an unfinished suicide note and statements of seven members of the Johnson family and doctors as substantiating their analysis.

COAXING DOESN'T IMPROVE CHILD'S APPETITE

It seems literally impossible to discourage mothers from using wheedling and rewards to get children to eat. Once such methods are tried, they grow like rolled-up snowballs, new arts, devices, and bigger and better rewards must be forthcoming to achieve the desired goal.

MAY BE USELESS

The futility of such methods is obvious. If the child really has no appetite because of physical conditions which need correction, why force food upon him? If he is overfed and without appetite, if he is over-fed and his stomach is consequently shrunken, coaxing is useless. Coaxing only distorts the child's viewpoint about eating. He must discover for himself that good food is palatable, eating it is pleasurable, and that being hungry is decidedly pleasant. Those are the natural rewards of eating.

When his mother says, "Please take another spoonful of this cereal and then you can have your pudding," she not only makes eating cereal an unpleasant duty, but she makes the child's eating a satisfaction to her. It is the angle which invariably confusses the child. He loses sight of his own natural satisfaction and wonders that he is doing his mother a favor to eat the food she prepares for him. Is it any wonder that he expects upon exorbitant rewards for being so considerate?

SHOULD BE SURPRISED

Children do not eat well-balanced meals each time they come to the table. Anyone dealing with flesh and blood youngsters knows that they are very apt to drink too much milk at one meal and none at all at the next. Sometimes only the dessert appeals to them and again they will eat a meal on bread and butter and applesauce. If the mother keeps a careful account of all the foods a child eats in one week, she may discover that the child does consume the equivalent of one pint to one quart of milk a day, all the eggs, the vegetables, all the fruit sauce, bread and butter, cereal, and so on she should have.

There may be real reasons for appetitelessness, and I would suggest that mothers make use of my leaflet "Psychological and Physical Reasons for Appetitelessness," as a means of checking up. Please send a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request to this department.

BEAUTY PASSED UP BY MOVIES

That all beauty prize winners do not wind up in Hollywood is proved in the case of Keriman Halis, Turkish beauty. Elected Miss Universe in 1932, Miss Halis is now earning her living as a waitress in an Istanbul restaurant, where she is here shown.

Without Sleep For Twenty-three Years

Canadian Press

Cegled, Hungary, May 30.—Mrs. Istvan Sagi, eighty-year-old insomnia victim, is reported to have gone without sleep for twenty-three years. She cannot take sleeping powders because of a weak heart. To relieve the monotony of sleepless nights, she changes from one bed to another and walks around a table several times.

VIEWS DIFFER ON LEAGUE

Senate at Ottawa Hears Sharp Criticism and Support of World Body

Canadian Press

Ottawa, May 30.—Strong support of the League of Nations from the government leader in the Senate and sharp criticism of that body from a prominent Liberal member, marked continuation of the debate in the Upper Chamber yesterday on Senator A. D. McRae's motion that Canada withdraw from the League.

Senator J. P. B. Casgrain, of Montreal, said the League had been a complete failure. All the world was arming and Premier Mussolini's prediction that was was inevitable unless something was done quickly was not to be ignored.

[illegible] consequences of Canada's withdrawal from the League would be serious, said Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, government leader in the Senate. Canada was a contracting party with other nations of the empire in entering the League. Canada should not leave the League until everything was exhausted to enable the League successfully to continue.

HELEN WINN NEW PRESIDENT

The meeting was held at the home of the retiring president, Miss Mary Phillips.

The officers chose the personnel of the various committees.

Women Wearing Aprons

By Helen Welshimer

WOMEN wearing aprons
Make me wonder why
I've no squares of gingham
With wide bows to tie.

WOMEN washing teacups
Sometimes make me wish
I could fill a cupboard,
Bright dish after dish.

WOMEN bearing children
Chanting rhythmic prayers
Just as though God listened
In a room upstairs—

WOMEN who croon stories
As the child-heads nod—
Have they something lovely
I have missed, dear God?

ACTING IS MENTAL CURE

London, May 20.—Something of the psychology of the actress who plays emotional roles was related by Dame Sybil Thorndike, noted British actress, at a luncheon gathering. In the course of her speech she said:

"Half the bother with us human beings is that we try and hide the enormous number of selves which we have inside us. For two years I worked in something where we dealt largely with fear and terror. During those two years I never had a nightmare. I got it off my chest in some extraordinary way.

"I am at the moment playing the part of a most loathsome woman. But I do not think she is, because I have somehow got to know her. For understanding other humans it is an excellent thing to impersonate people.

"Somebody once said to me: 'It must be terrible to go through all these things every night.' I said: 'No, just the opposite. It is a bath, and I go home feeling a perfect lamb." Shakespeare, Dame Sybil added, was simply full of mental cures.

DONNA of the BIG TOP

by BEULAH POYNTER

NEA SERVICE, INC. ©1934

CHAPTER I

Donna opened sleep-heavy brown eyes. Madeline was washing her tights in the tiny bathroom adjoining their berth. It was the sound of water splashing that had awakened the older girl.

"What's the idea of washing at this hour?" Donna asked between wide yawns.

Madeline shook out the length of silk fleshings and hung it on a piece of twine stretched between the door knob and the brass faucet before answering. "Couldn't sleep, so I thought I might as well do it and not wait until after the parade. They'll dry."

Donna looked at her wrist watch. "Only 5 o'clock!" She raised herself one one rounded elbow and stared out the window. "We're due at 6, but from that stretch of timber it doesn't look as though there was a town within a thousand miles. Pretty country, though."

"Yeah," laconically. "It's pretty enough."

Donna swept a wavy strand of bronze colored hair from her eyes and looked at the other girl. "You come from some place in this neck of the woods, don't you?"

Madeline nodded. "Why remind me? I get the jitters every time I think of Saturday. The old man lives just five miles from Lebanon."

"Your grandfather?"

"Yes." Madeline dried her hands and arms and came into the little room. "I'm sorry now I ever let him know I'm with the circus. His conscience might induce him to tell Renfroe we aren't sisters and then where would the act be?"

Donna laughed. "I guess you could argue him out of that. Anyway we're strong enough with Renfroe now so that he'd forgive a little deception."

Madeline shook her head, covered with bronze curls similar to Donna's. "Not Renfroe. Didn't he let out the Flying Vanguards because Myrtle wasn't related to Van? No single girls with the show and he means it."

"Surely if your grandfather realized your job depends on Renfroe believing we're sisters he wouldn't say anything."

Madeline shrugged. "Oh, yes he would. He'd move heaven and earth to get me back on the farm. According to him a circus is a greased pole to hell and I'm sorry I ever wrote home at all. When I made the break I should have widened it."

Donna's candid dark eyes studied the other girl's troubled face. It bore a strong likeness to her own. Short chiseled nose, full red lips, straight level brows over brown eyes that were rimmed with black lashes. "If I had a grandfather who offered me a good home I'd consider myself lucky. When you've been in this business as long as I have, Mad, you'll be glad you didn't cut every tie."

"You've never lived on a farm," Madeline protested. "You don't know what it's like in the winter when you're snowed in and don't see a soul for days, when you shiver beside a stove and just about die of boredom. You may think you hate the sawdust and the 'big top,' but you don't!"

"I hate everything about it," Donna said. "The parades with the yokels staring at me, the nomad existence, always moving and living in trunks. The reek of the animals. I'd like to be married, Mad, with children growing up around me. I'd like to wash dishes and raise flowers and vegetables and cook for my man and—"

"So you think!" Madeline interrupted with a sharp laugh. "Just try it a while and see how soon you miss the applause and the thrill of risking your life and the smell of the sawdust. I wouldn't give up one year of circus life for fifty on a farm."

Donna's only reply was "Shush! Don't let his lordship hear you." She nodded towards the opposite wall. Donna had heard the same tirade many times, and repetition had not increased her interest in Madeline's reasons for running away from home five years before.

Madeline lowered her voice. "If you want a husband and children why don't you marry him?"

"Con? I wouldn't for several reasons. First, because I'm not in love with him; second, because it would mean the circus for the rest of my life; and third, because I might be a widow before I'd grown accustomed to being a wife."

"Con can take care of himself," Madeline said, but her eyes darkened.

"The cats will get him as sure as you're alive. They always do some day. Every trainer I've ever known—" Donna paused abruptly and looked out the window again. "My father was the best in the business," she went on, "but I'll never forget that day! Some times even now I can hear mother's shriek. Why shouldn't I hate this life? I saw my father mangled to death and I saw my mother fall from the bars, to lie for weeks as a hopeless cripple and then finally give up the struggle because life was too bitter to keep on. Oh, there's glamour, I'll admit! The blare of the trumpets, the bright lights, the gay costumes. Yes, they get a girl like you. But you've never known the other side and I have. I wouldn't marry Con David for all the gold in the world."

Madeline placed a sympathetic arm about the other's shoulders. "I wish," she said softly, "I was sure you didn't love Con."

"I don't."

"I think you do."

"No. He's sweet and I like him—but that's all. Why?"

Madeline evaded. "No reason. Do you want some coffee?"

"I could do with a cup."

Over a tiny stove Madeline boiled coffee. She produced a bag of doughnuts from a locked closet. Sipping the warm stimulant, the girls watched the panorama through the windows. Donna's eyes, clouded with bitter memories, did not take in the beauties of the countryside—the apple orchards in bloom, a flock of lambs gamboling over the undulating plains and a narrow river skirted by overhanging oaks and sycamores.

Farm houses sprang into view; low, rambling, unpainted buildings with red barns and silos in the distance. Cows grazed peacefully near the railroad embankment without raising eyes to the black monster belching smoke and soot. Small boys perched on rail fences shouted their glee at the bright lettering on the cars announcing "Renfroe's Colossal Three Ring Circus."

Madeline said, "I never see that without a thrill!" She pointed to a lurid poster showing two girls flying through the air with a swinging trapeze below them. Underneath were the words, "The Gabriel Sisters, Aerial Gymnasts."

Donna was staring at another poster. "And I never see that," she said, "without shuddering." The poster she was looking at depicted a man in white riding breeches and a red coat, standing in a cage of wild animals. The caption read, "Con David, King of the Beasts."

Suddenly Donna turned. She said, "Madeline, you're in love with him!" The other girl drew a sharp, audible breath. "Why do you say that?" she asked.

"I know it! I've watched you when he was in the arena. I'm out of the running, kid. Con's a fine boy all right—clean as a whistle—but not for me. Maybe not for you either, but let me give you a tip: you'll never win him by flirting with a canvasman, not even Trafford."

"You've been listening to gossip," Madeline said indignantly.

"You're a sweet child, but you're a lot to learn," Donna went on. "You ought to know that performers don't mix with props. It's dangerous and it just isn't done."

As the train wheels ceased revolving the Pullmans came to life. Steps were heard in the corridor and the mumble of voices. There was no delay now even for star performers. All must be dressed and ready for the parade at 11 o'clock.

Donna emerged from the bathroom, donned her dress and opened the door into the corridor to call a cheery "Good morning" to those who passed. The door of the stateroom adjoining also opened and Con David's sleek black head appeared. "Hello," he greeted her. "How's the town?"

"Don't ask me. I've seen nothing but a water tower and a red brick depot. Are you going to breakfast?"

"In a jiffy."

Con David stepped into the aisle. He was a slender, compact man, not yet thirty, with almond-shaped black eyes and a swarthy skin that indicated Latin ancestry. Very white teeth flashed between vivid red lips as he linked his arm through Donna's.

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel"

THURSDAY, MAY 31, 1934

Adverse planetary aspects dominate in the horoscope for this last day of May. The morning is subject to friendly stars.

Under this sway foresight and judgment are supposed to be trustworthy. It is an auspicious time to render decisions and to make plans. The United States navy comes under a rule of the stars making for expansion and activity. Sudden movements are forecast.

Good news encouraging to the nation is foreshadowed to-day. Impetus toward increasing prosperity is indicated.

Banks and bankers come under a sway making for good luck. Co-operation with business men of small means is presaged, for the stars encourage a return to modest enterprises in the mercantile world.

Again astrologers foretell a tendency toward independence and self-sufficiency in communities. The period of enormous enterprises extending over the continent is near a close. This will bring many changes favorable to all, the seers prognosticate.

This is not a lucky day for workers, who may experience bad weather as well as other unfavorable environmental conditions.

Taxation is likely to cause resentment on the part of many city property owners. Protests may assume a novel and effective form, it is prophesied.

June is to be a month that brings joy to many, for the stars presage events of far-reaching economic importance. Unusual weather conditions may discourage farmers for a time.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of favorable financial conditions. Sudden changes will affect many.

Children born on this day probably will be very clever and ambitious. Subjects of this sign are prolific in ideas and quick of action.

Mrs. Jessie B. Fremont, widow of General Fremont, and a writer, was born on this day, 1824. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include Walter F. Brown, former Postmaster-General, 1869, and Will Low, famous artist, 1853.

COLWOOD

The Langford and Colwood branch of the A.Y.P.A. held their bi-monthly meeting Monday evening at the Vicarage.

Of great interest was the illustrated lecture by Herbert J. Pendray, who spoke on the Chicago World's Fair and explained the slides of England, Scotland and Italy.

The members of the branch will attend Holy Communion service at St. Matthias Church, Langford, June 10, when members of St. Michael's A.Y.P.A. will be present. Following the service a trip will be made to Leechtown.

Colwood School basketball team has secured eight points contesting in the school league for the handsome trophy donated by the Colwood Women's Institute. No further games will be played in the league series, the Colwood School team being the winners of the cup.

Dick Meadows, former Colwood resident, but late of the Blake Ranch, Albert Head, has left for Prince Rupert, where his parents now reside.

TO BROADCAST FLEET REVIEW

President Roosevelt's review of the battle fleet of the United States as it arrives in New York Harbor to-morrow will be described for the NBC network beginning at 8.30 a.m., Pacific Standard Time. The review will be pictured as the ships parade for the President past his "stand" aboard the cruiser Indianapolis in a position off Ambrose Light at the entrance to New York Harbor.

The broadcast will be carried in this district over stations KJR, Seattle, and KGO, San Francisco.

A similar broadcast, but at different times, will be heard over CBS stations. The coverage of the event will be intermittent, between 7.30 a.m. and 11 a.m., Pacific Standard Time.

Sister MARY'S KITCHEN

IN MAKING ICE CREAM USE YOUR FAVORITE CANDIES FOR FLAVOR

By MARY E. DAGUE

Ice cream for dessert! The children shout the gleeful news and the whole dinner, even the spinach, shares in the glamour of the treat in store. So why not serve this happy ending often since you can do it these days without making extra work for yourself?

That is, if you make delicious and simple candy ice cream you can concoct all sorts of different flavors as easily as you would make a plain junket or custard pudding.

Any favorite recipe can be used for the foundation cream. Junket, custard, mousse, parfait, ice and sherbet may be flavored and sweetened with the candies. All the hard varieties of candies, chocolate coated or plain, can be used without additional sugar, but some of the cream candies may require a little extra sugar.

One-half pound of candy is enough to sweeten and flavor one quart of custard or other foundation mixture.

If the candy is thoroughly crushed and allowed to dissolve in the foundation cream before freezing, an even color is produced. An attractive, mottled effect is obtained if the candy is rather coarsely crushed and added to the cream mixture just before freezing. There will be bits of undissolved candy which retain their color sprinkled through the frozen mixture.

Following are two basic recipes which can be varied by the use of different candies.

PEPPERMINT STICK CREAM

One pound red and white peppermint stick candy, 6 cups thin cream, ½ teaspoon salt.

Scald cream in double boiler. Remove from heat and add salt and finely crushed candy. Cool and turn into freezer mold. Pack in six parts ice to one part ice cream salt and let stand several hours. Serve plain or with hot chocolate sauce, as preferred.

If you want to use this recipe in a mechanical refrigerator, stir one tablespoon softened gelatine into the scalding hot cream, stirring until gelatine is thoroughly dissolved.

Marshmallows can be quartered and dissolved in the hot cream. This is splendid for an an iceless refrigerator, too, making gelatine unnecessary.

Chocolate coated molasses chips can be crushed and added to the cream after it has cooled. This makes a delicious rich cream without the effort of melting chocolate and washing an assortment of dishes.

WALNUT BRITTLE ICE CREAM

One pound walnut brittle, 4 eggs, 1 cup whipping cream, 4 cups milk.

I like to use black walnut brittle when I can get it.

Beat egg yolks slightly. Scald milk and beat into egg yolks. Cook in double boiler, stirring constantly until mixture coats spoon. Remove from heat and add crushed brittle. Fold in whites of eggs beaten until stiff. Cool and pour into freezer mold. Pack in eight parts ice to one part ice cream salt. When beginning to freeze around the edges, stir in cream whipped until firm. Let stand several hours before serving.

This recipe is excellent to use in a mechanical refrigerator, too.

BONDS HIGHEST FOR 25 YEARS

Too Much Money Pressing For Investment Sends Them to Record Levels

Toronto, May 30.—Bond prices in Canada, as measured by recorded transactions, and in the United States, as measured by the Dow-Jones's average of bond prices, reached during the past week, their highest prices for practically a quarter of a century.

Funds continue to press insistently upon the great money markets of the world. Demand for high-grade securities everywhere greatly exceeds the supply.

Canada has $60,000,000 notes maturing in New York on October 1 next, callable at par on and after July 1. In view of the extreme ease of money in that market, it is assumed that these notes will be renewed on terms to be governed by the money market.

Of more direct concern to the home market, is the maturity of $222,000,000 5½ per cent Victory Bonds in Canada on November 1 next. It is well known that a very considerable part of this issue is held by the Canadian banks. General opinion now is that the funding of part of the loan by treasury bills is at least a possibility. As regards the balance, it would seem probable that holders will be given the option of taking cash or a bond of longer term with some small premium inducement to take the latter, as in the case of the tax-free Victory Bonds, which matured in November last.

So far as the Dominion's new money requirements are concerned, either the London or domestic markets are available. Britain's present policy is to loan money to the constituent parts of the Empire only on condition that the proceeds are expended or employed within the Empire. Hence it would not be feasible for Canada to borrow in Britain for the purpose of meeting New York maturities.

BIG RISE IN BANK DEBITS

Cheques Passing in April Total 35% More Than Same Month in 1933

Canadian Press

Ottawa, May 30.—An increase of $659,000,000 or thirty-five per cent was shown in bank debits or the amount of cheques passing through banks in April, when the amount was $2,536,000,000 as against $1,877,000,000 in the corresponding month last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics says in a report issued yesterday.

Each of the five economic areas, with the exception of the prairie provinces, showed substantial increase over April last year.

Bank debits in British Columbia showed an increase of nearly thirty-two per cent. With $138,600,000 as against $105,200,000 in the corresponding month of last year. The decline in the prairie provinces was 15.3 per cent. Bank debits being $336,730,618 in April last in comparison with $397,258,952 in April, 1933.

SKIN MUST BE TREATED AS LIVING TISSUE

Reasonable Amount of Cleanliness, Proper Diet, and Exercise Will Keep Body Covering in Healthy Condition

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Your skin is living tissue—not only just an envelope which covers your body. Hence, like the other living tissue of which the human being is composed, the skin tends to regulate fairly well its own condition.

Most people have found that, with a reasonable amount of cleanliness, the skin gets along quite well. Because of this fact, they try to treat their own diseases of the skin or any damage which may occur to it, without realizing that neglect sometimes may be fatal, and without realizing that the medicine may do more harm than if nothing at all were applied.

Thus, in older people a cancer may begin as a small ulcerated spot or as a small lump in the breast. Any attempt to treat such a lesion with an ointment or salve is a form of neglect which in most instances will result fatally.

Indiscriminate use of ointments or lotions for relief of all sorts of facial blemishes, skin diseases, superfluous hair, itching, sweating, burning and similar symptoms is almost certain to lead to trouble.

Some of the common remedies for athlete's foot damage the skin so severely that the condition spreads instead of being eliminated.

Although many remedies used for superfluous hair work for a while, others are strong poisons and can produce exceedingly serious symptoms. One of the drugs for superfluous hair has already been reported as causing cases of paralysis and inflammation of the nerves.

Among the substances most frequently used on the skin is cold cream. Certain skins are so dry that extra cream must be rubbed in to keep them pliable and flexible.

Here, however, it is unnecessary to have any fancy compound. The simple cold cream that is included in the United States Pharmacopoeia is as good as any.

Most blemishes of the skin are not due to something in the skin itself or something coming from without, but due to the poor condition of the blood of the person concerned. Resistance of the skin is broken down by bad habits of diet and of cleanliness.

Good hygiene with plenty of fresh air and exercise and with a reasonable amount of cleanliness will be as good for pimples and blackheads as almost anything that can be rubbed upon the skin.

Vaudeville Will Open To-morrow

Levy's Orpheum Vaudeville will open its three-day engagement at the Empire Theatre to-morrow with a high-powered group of selected acts from leading circuits.

The Robbins family who do a bit of everything, including singing, dancing and acrobatics, head the programme. Ray, Rich and Dell are one of the funniest comedy acts on the stage. They were a featured act in the Earl Carroll Vanities. Fred Martin in "Stuff and Nonsense" provides a number of novelty feats. Chief Eagle Feather, "The Vanishing American," who was trained by Primrose and West of minstrel fame, is featured. The MacDonald trio in "The Acme of Agility" complete the acts.

"Heat Lightning," a dynamic drama of the desert, starring Ann Dvorak, is the feature screen attraction.

"Men in White" Here on Friday

Showing audiences the "inside" of lives and callings little known to laymen has recently provided the screen with some of the most remarkable material in years.

This "inside" has bared, in vivid drama, the details of many professions and vocations.

The latest example, and perhaps the most elaborate, is "Men in White," M-G-M's picturization of the famous stage hit of the same name, coming to the Dominion Theatre on Friday.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE

Mr. Laurence of "Little Women," whose bark as been described as worse than his bite, is enacted in the screen version by Henry Stephenson.

Stephenson has had a goodly share of male character roles in RKO-Radio Pictures, but none more important than that of the wealthy old gentleman in "Little Women," who lives near the Marches.

DOMINION THEATRE

Two of the screen's best-dressed women appear as sisters in "Riptide," the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer film which is at the Dominion Theatre.

They are Norma Shearer, starred in the lavish production, and Lilyan Tashman. Both have been acclaimed by stylists as leading the screen's fashion parade.

In the new film, directed by Edmund Goulding, Miss Shearer and Miss Tashman introduce many new modes designed for the picture by Adrian, noted fashion creator.

CAPITOL THEATRE

The sands of the desert do not have to grow cold when Slim Summerville and ZaSu Pitts are around. They are arch enemies!

At least, this is the situation in "Love Birds," the Universal comedy which is now playing at the Capitol Theatre, with this famous comedy pair in the starring roles.

Miss Pitts is Araminta Tootle, school teacher in an Ohio town, and Summerville is Henry Whipple, chicken fancying employee of a poultry farm. Their paths have crossed just once— and that has resulted in ZaSu losing her job.

EMPIRE THEATRE

These production numbers are supplied with music by two teams of song writers, one of them Harry Warren and Al Dubin, the other Sammy Fain and Irving Kahal. The "Honeymoon Hotel" number makes use of a large chorus, with Ruby Keeler and Dick Powell as principals.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

During the late World War, James Hall, popular screen actor seen this week at the Columbia Theatre in Remington's crisp drama of skyscraper dwellers—"Manhattan Tower"—drove the automobile of General Grebal, of the Texas Field Artillery. He later organized a military band in France, Mary Brian, Irene Rich, Hale Hamilton, Noel Francis and a large cast of screen artists feature this tense drama.

Will Present "Twinkle Toes"

"Twinkle Toes," an elaborate musical extravaganza, will be presented at the Royal Victoria Theatre on June 9, by the Russian Ballet School.

Mrs. Dorothy Wilson's dancers have rehearsed for several months, some of the most original and delightful dance numbers for this show which, it is expected, will eclipse anything of its type presented in Victoria in late years.

Mail orders are now being received at the theatre box office.

Victoria is a necessary part of the education of the touring United States public, Frank Lyman, automobile editor of The San Francisco Examiner, states in last Sunday's edition of that paper in which he has an illustrated article on British Columbia's capital. The story, outlining some of the attractions of Victoria, gives routes to the city from California and is accompanied by a half page picture of the Inner Harbor and other interesting cuts. Mr. Lyman visited Victoria earlier in the month.

NATIONS MUST GIVE EQUALLY

National Sacrifice Necessary For Disarmament, A. Sullivan Tells Youth

If war were to be prevented and disarmament made real, there must be universal equality of national sacrifice, Albert Sullivan, inspector for high schools, stated in an address on "Problems of To-day," before the Emmanuel Baptist Young People's Union yesterday evening.

Mr. Sullivan drew attention to the cost of the last war to Canada in men, time and money, when the national debt rose from several hundred thousands to over three billions, all of which had to be paid some time.

"The big problem of to-day is debt," said Mr. Sullivan in affirming that nations and people who borrowed must learn they had eventually to pay. Emphasis was laid on the fact that in the eastern provinces in the old days, the great dread of the business man and the farmer was to have a mortgage placed on his business or form, but that to-day people almost seemed to regard a mortgage as the normal thing.

In tackling the problems of to-day, stated Mr. Sullivan, there must be courage and endurance on the part of young people, as well as tenacity of purpose even amid setbacks and disappointment until the goal was reached.

In the course of his interesting address the speaker found time to touch on such important subjects as disarmament, public service, trade in relation to the gold standard, the international pacts, war and unemployment.

The chairman was Alexander McLaurin. T. Jackson led the devotional service. Two compositions of Schumann were played by an instrumental trio consisting of Miss Rose Parfitt, Miss Lillian Parfitt and Mrs. D. Stewart.

Greenhouse Owner Gets New Extension

For the second time this year the move to foreclose on Arthur Lahmer's greenhouses on Holland Avenue off Burnside Road, was postponed to-day when Mr. Justice Murphy of the Supreme Court ordered the application of Ada and Henry Holmes stood over for three months.

P. G. Fowkes, counsel for the plaintiffs, presented evidence that payment of principal on the mortgage was seven years in arrears and that interest had not been paid since March, 1932. William Jennings of the Quadra greenhouses and a florist with forty-nine years' experience, stated in an affidavit submitted, that the Lahmer greenhouses had not been kept up and that the whole property would not bring the amount of the mortgage, or $3,500.

H. A. Beckwith, counsel for Mr. Lahmer, however, countered with the sworn statements of John Cheetham, grocer, that Mr. Lahmer had cleaned the property of weeds, improved the buildings and kept everything in good condition, and of A. S. Miller, 306 Cook Street, realty valuator, to the effect that the property was worth at least $5,000 to-day, while it would be worth more than $6,500 if things picked up.

Mr. Beckwith also pointed out that Mr. Lahmer and his wife and family of five children were living on the property and that they had sunk a considerable sum of their own money in it.

The judge ordered the time for Mr. Lahmer to be extended for another three months and if interest is paid by that time the extension is to be made for six months.

POLICE SEEK ESTATE HEIRS

Surviving heirs of the late John H. and Joseph Hugh Montgomery, believed to have resided in British Columbia at some time, can claim an estate of several thousand dollars if they can properly establish their identity to the satisfaction of the United Probate Bureau of Chicago.

The chief of police here has been asked to locate relatives who have had large sums left to them. The information which the police have states that Joseph Hugh Montgomery sailed from Liverpool to the United States in 1893, entering through Port Huron, Michigan. He was born in England on March 7, 1861. Both he and his brother were known to have resided in this part of Canada and it is understood surviving relatives are in the vicinity.

The address of the probate bureau is: Room 1717, 139 North Clark Street, Chicago.

The remains of Thomas Laberge of Sooke will be laid to rest to-morrow morning. The service will be held at 9.30 o'clock at St. Andrew's Cathedral where mass will be said by Rev. Father Carl Aubury. Interment will be in Ross Bay Cemetery.

"LIFE WEEK" OFFICE OPEN

Information on Insurance Being Given By Obliging Staff at 713 Yates Street

An attractive office at 713 Yates Street, about opposite the Metropolis Hotel, has been opened in connection with Life Insurance Week now in progress. At this office information is being given out concerning life insurance in an effort to make the public "insurance conscious."

It is emphasized by those who are putting the drive over, that no attempt will be made to canvas the people who call at the office to secure information. It is hoped, however, that people will drop in to settle any little difficulties or misunderstandings they have in connection with their own policies.

Those in charge of the office aim at giving an unbiased opinion on any insurance problems the caller has. The office will remain open until Saturday, when Life Insurance Week will end, and will be staffed during the next few days by representatives of the insurance firms. So as to enable as many people as possible to pay the place a visit, the headquarters is being kept open until 9 o'clock in the evening.

The establishment contains comfortable seats, nice decoration and a radio, while the literature of the various companies is available.

COFFEE SERVED

Free coffee and biscuits are obtainable in the afternoon, and on Saturday afternoon free notebooks and blotters will be given away to the children. Flowers have been donated by the florists of the city and serve to embellish the surroundings.

Two essay competitions add to the interest of Life Insurance Week. The subject of both is "The Benefits of Life Insurance," the two classes being for youths under twenty-one and children under fourteen. All entries must be delivered personally by Saturday. The rules are obtainable at headquarters. Already interest has been shown in these competitions, and a number of essays have been received. The telephone number of the insurance week office is E 8912.

An example of the importance of the business which is being brought to the fore this week is the fact that 70 per cent of the total value of estates left by Canadians have been in life insurance.

BURIED TO-DAY

The death occurred in Vancouver on Sunday, at St. Paul's Hospital, of William E. Loveridge of Horsefly, B.C. He was in his forty-ninth year, and before going into the interior, lived for about twenty years in Victoria. He is survived by his widow and three sons; his father and two brothers. The funeral took place in Vancouver to-day from the Mount Pleasant Undertaking Parlors, and interment was in Ocean View Burial Park.

AID FOR YOUTH COUNCIL'S AIM

Policy to Bridge Gap Between School and Jobs Expected From Board

British Columbia's youth problem, probably the most serious arising out of the economic depression, was tackled by the Economic Council yesterday and progress was made toward a scheme which may be recommended to the government shortly.

The council spent considerable part of morning, afternoon and evening sessions on the subject and, according to Dr. W. A. Carrothers, chairman, was hopeful of a solution.

While the plan under consideration is not necessarily one for direct government action, it may require government stimulation, it was intimated. The two main objectives of the scheme are: to keep a youth occupied, although he may not be employed; to arrange for the absorbing in industry of youths as they leave school.

The first point would have to be covered by contacts through the educational departments, it was explained. Under the present system, when a boy leaves school he is immediately thrown on his own. When labor conditions are right he may find a job in a short time, but in the last four years there has been little for him and subsequently he lands in the bread line, it was pointed out. His first impression of the economic system is one of disgust and futility. To remedy this a system of vocational training or activity is being studied, which, while it would not provide earning opportunity would keep a boy occupied and make him feel that he had a niche in life until he was able to secure steady employment.

The other side of the question under scrutiny involves co-ordination between industrial activity and the educational system.

Many industrial jobs do not require a long period of apprenticeship but a short training is needed. Many firms have their own policies for developing young men, either by apprenticeships or part-time work. The council's proposal is to open up a direct avenue between schooling and employment on a proper planning basis.

Determination of the labor market in advance is rather a difficult problem in British Columbia because of the constantly shifting population. In England a careful survey is kept of the new material turned out from schools and something along this line is the idea behind the council's plans.

BEER TAX CUT STUDIED

Liquor Board officials here had not studied the full effects the changes in Dominion excise taxes on malt might have on the price of beer in British Columbia and, therefore, made no comment. It was intimated, however, they were looking into the matter.

Yesterday a reduction of 40c a dozen for pints of ale was announced, but as this came out before the cut in taxes was made public, it is not thought there is any connection.

Birthday Greetings Are Extended To-day To—

WILLIAM BRADY
HARRIE G. ROSS

William Brady, 752 Monterey Avenue, to-day celebrates his birthday. Mr. Brady, who is in the typewriter business at 811 Fort Street, is a native son. He served overseas with the 2nd C.M.R.'s and was wounded.

Harrie G. Ross, well-known sportsman, who to-day has a birthday, is a native son. He is a dog lover and is interested in horse racing.

City Team In Twelfth Place

Victoria Police Turn in Fair Score in Dominion Revolver Meet

Shooting the comparatively good score of 1,278 oupt of a possible 1,500, the city detective team which entered the Dominion Marksmen Chief Constables' Association senior revolver competition, annexed twelfth place out of an entry list of twenty-five teams, according to a letter which Chief Thomas Heatley received yesterday.

The winner of the shoot was the Canadian Pacific Railway team of Ontario, which turned in a brilliant 1,437. In British Columbia the Grouse Mountain Police Revolver Association annexed second slot with a 1,407 while the only other team to compete from this province with Victoria, the British Columbia Penitentiary squad of New Westminster took sixth place with 1,359.

Winners of provincial tyro championships were the Montreal City Police team No. 2, Ontario Provincial Police team No. 2, the Winnipeg City Police team No. 5 and the Edmonton City Police team No. 2.

The Calgary City Police team fell down badly and only netted 692, less than half of the possible score.

Little Comment On Relief Move

With Mayor Out of Town, Aldermen State Government Proposal Satisfactory

Announcement of the decision of the provincial government to alter radically its methods of distributing direct relief to needy citizens failed to bring forth any unusual comment from city aldermen to-day.

Certain members of the council felt that a scheme to re-register those securing direct relief would be very welcome here, although it was stated investigation and registration was being carried on continually at the local offices.

Pending full information on the matter city officials stated they believed the move, as reported in the press, would do no harm. They reserved definite statements for fuller consideration of the action.

Mayor David Leeming and Alderman P. R. Brown, chairman of the finance committee, are in Vancouver discussing with Mayor Louis D. Taylor and members of his special committee the manner in which the two cities would approach the provincial government regarding further relief for Victoria and Vancouver.

To Bid For Convention

Victoria is expected to bid for the convention of the western branch of the American Public Health Association next year as the result of a communication from the acting chairman of the committee on meetings and publications, Guy S. Millberry, received at the City Hall to-day.

"If you are interested in having the association hold its convention in your city, will you please write in my care extending an invitation to the officers and members of the association and stating the facilities you have to offer," the letter read.

It added the western branch, which has jurisdiction over Alaska, British Columbia, eleven western states in the United States as well as Hawaii and the Philippines, usually registers between 300 and 400 members at its annual convention, which includes three days of business and recreational activities.

LAID TO REST

The funeral for the late Mary Ann Cotterill was held yesterday afternoon in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. Rev. Arthur de B. Owen conducted an impressive service, during which two hymns were sung, "Abide With Me" and "O God Our Help in Ages Past." Interment was made in the Royal Oak Burial Park, and the following acted as pallbearers: G. Brown, J. W. Thornber, F. Thornber, H. Thornber, G. Hartley and A. W. Trevett.

Pattullo To Speak At Chamber Meeting

Premier T. D. Pattullo will address the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce in the Empress Hotel on Tuesday, June 8, it was announced to-day by George I. Warren, managing secretary. At the meeting Mayor Leeming will install W. T. Straith and Harold Husband in the offices of president and vice-president respectively. Members of the Credit Granters' Association, Real Estate Board of Victoria and the Capital City Commercial Club have been invited to attend the gathering.

TAKES OVER POST HERE

T. I. Rathe, New Assistant Manager at Empress Hotel, Has Wide Experience

Thomas I. Rathe, who has been appointed assistant manager of the Empress Hotel, succeeding T. C. Whelan, transferred as assistant manager of the Banff Springs Hotel, had arrived in the city from Regina.

He was introduced to the hotel reporters to-day by Manager J. K. Hodges.

Mr. Rathe is well known in hotel circles on the coast, having been for two and a half years assistant manager at the Hotel Vancouver, at Vancouver.

He is a native of Ayr, Ont., and has been in the service of the Canadian Pacific Railway hotel department for more than five years, first with the Windsor Hotel at Montreal, for two and a half years at the Royal Alexandra Hotel in Winnipeg, and for the last eight months as assistant manager at the Hotel Saskatchewan, at Regina.

Mr. Rathe has been connected with the hotel business for sixteen years and during that time has been identified with some of the most noted hostelries on the North American continent.

He was manager of the Creston Springs Hotel in Ontario for five years and at different periods has been with the Astor Hotel in New York, the Pine Hills-Biltmore at Pass Christian, Mississippi; the Seville-Biltmore Hotel at Havana, Cuba, and the Lido, Long Beach, Long Island, New York.

PLEADINGS CUT IN SHAW CASE

H. A. Beckwith to-day was successful in his application before Mr. Justice Murphy of the Supreme Court to have P. J. Sinnott's statement of particulars amended in the suit which Mr. Sinnott, as counsel for the Misses Margaret and Mary Shaw, has instituted against H. W. Davey and H. A. Beckwith arising out of a $23,000 settlement obtained by them as lawyers for the Misses Shaw against the head of a local mortgage investment firm with whom they had placed a large sum of money.

Mr. Beckwith told the judge he took exception to Mr. Sinnott's statement in his pleadings that as a result of the execution of releases on the settlement that was obtained for them, the Misses Shaw had been precluded from taking action against the head of the mortgage firm for sums of money owing by him to them.

"You can't have general pleadings of that kind, Mr. Sinnott," Mr. Justice Murphy said.

Mr. Sinnott, however, finally agreed to the phrase being struck out in accordance with Mr. Beckwith's application.

PLAY CAST IS CHOSEN

The Victoria Little Theatre Association's new play, "Bird in Hand," by John Drinkwater, now being rehearsed for production on June 8 at the Shrine Auditorium, shows every promise of being excellent entertainment.

The setting, an old English inn, with its antique air, is an interesting contrast to the theme. It is the age-old conflict of youth and change against the always well-meant but sometimes distress conservatism of an older generation. Leslie Lamb, taking the part of Mr. Greenleaf, who represents all that is fine and often foolish, makes valiant, and at times heart-breaking attempts to keep things as they are.

His opponents in the struggle are Elaine Rowe, playing the part of Joan Greenleaf, his daughter, and Roy Shadbolt as Gerald Arnwood, her lover. Fraser Lister as Cyril Beverley and Vaughan Barker as Mr. Blanquet join the battle with gay and whimsical absurdities behind which lie a world of truth and sincerity. Gwen Downes as Mrs. Greenleaf and H. F. Hewett as Ambrose Godolphin, K.C., with extreme tact and a fine sense of justice, act as mediators.

The poetry of John Drinkwater's play, the work of Charles Ozard, the director, and the talent of the cast are all combining to make this forthcoming production of the "Bird in Hand" a rare pleasure for the public.

ST. JOHN'S A.Y.P.A.

The St. John's Young People held their closing meeting and jamboree on Monday evening in the guildroom. A short business session was held when several matters of importance were discussed. J. White submitted a report concerning the proceeds of the play, which was recently presented by the branch. Announcement was made of the silver tea to be held onboard the mission boat Columbia, on June 2. The first of the outings planned by the summer activities committee will be held at Macaulay Point, on June 7, and all members wishing to attend are asked to meet at Admiral's and Esquimalt Roads at 8 o'clock. The latter part of the evening took the form of a social, which had been suitably arranged by F. Trickett. A number of most amusing games were introduced and prizes were awarded to the winners of each. Following the games a treasure hunt was greatly enjoyed, when the young people followed the clues that had been hidden at various points, with the trail ending at St. John's Sunday School room, where the treasure was found by Miss K. Brown. At the conclusion of the social refreshments were served by Miss Betty Martin and Miss Vivienne Dodds.

INCREASE IN FOREST FIRES

Twenty-eight forest fires, of which fourteen were in the Prince Rupert area, swelled the total of the outbreaks in British Columbia this year to 124 up to the end of last week, according to the weekly report released by Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Lands, to-day.

The total compares with only sixty-four at this time last year and 115 in 1932.

Only four blazes were reported in the Vancouver forest district, which includes Vancouver Island. Nelson had three, Kamloops three and Fort George four.

BERRY CROP HERE LARGER

Estimate on 1934 Production Is For Ten Per Cent Increase in Strawberries

Raspberries Are Down on Island; More Small Fruits For Canning

Strawberry crops on Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands this year are estimated by the horticultural branch of the Department of Agriculture about 10 per cent higher than the 1933 production according to a compilation released by the branch today in the annual fruit crop estimates.

The estimate on these berries for the islands area is 36,000 boxes and crates, against 33,209 in the 1933 crop. At the same time an increase from 476,733 to 500,000 pounds is expected in the production for manufacturing purposes.

On the lower mainland the strawberry production is expected to jump from 166,941 crates to 175,000 crates although the jam berry production is estimated 24,000 pounds down from last year at 1,850,000 pounds.

Raspberries are estimated at 2,000 crates against 2,304 last year but the jams are expected to hit 14,000 pounds against 7,306. On the mainland a big jump is seen in this fruit, the estimate being 70,000 crates and 720,000 pounds against 33,183 crates and 373,955 pounds.

LOGANBERRIES

Loganberries are figured about the same as last year on the island with 1,500 crates for the fresh market and 1,200,000 pounds for canning. An increase is anticipated on the mainland from 7,000 to 9,000 crates and from 454,000 to 740,000 pounds. Other small fruits, for the fresh market, are calculated about the same on the island at the following figures: Blackberries 1,500 crates, gooseberries 600 crates, black currants 500 crates, red currants 300 crates and cherries 3,000 crates. Increases ranging from 15 to 20 per cent are estimated on the production for manufacturing purposes.

On the lower mainland blacktity is expected, especially in blackberries and cherries.

Reports from the Kootenay and Arrow Lakes area indicate an increase of about 6,000 crates of cherries to a total of 30,000 with production in other fruits about the same as the 1933 crop. Grand Forks expects 1,000 crates of strawberries for a 10 per cent increase with others unchanged. Creston estimates double the amount of cherries and strawberries as last year, the anticipated crops being: Cherries 13,000 crates against 6,212, strawberries 30,000 against 13,987, raspberries 10,000 against 8,128 and plums and prunes 8,000 against 3,823.

CHERRY CROP

The cherry crop in the Okanagan berries are estimated at 22,000 crates against 16,000 last year, logans at 9,000 against 7,000, gooseberries at 1,000 against 700, cherries at 6,000 against 5,500 crates, black currants at 600 against 400, and red currants at 500 against 400 last year. A general increase in the manufactured quan- will be below that of 1933, according to the estimates. The grand total is figured at 110,600 crates, compared with 121,233 last year. Peaches are figured to drop from 218,641 crates to 205,250 crates. The Penticton area is the centre where the biggest drop in production is expected, the cherry estimate being 12,000 crates lower and peaches 38,000 crates lower.

The Okanagan has gone in strong for apricots this year, however, and the estimated crop is 224,200 crates against 100,754 last year. In the other small fruits, on which production is not very large, small gains are anticipated.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

PAYS TRIBUTE TO INSURANCE

Finance Minister States No Money Lost in More Than Fifty Years

"During the eighty-five years that life insurance has been in force in Canada under government supervision there has never been a dollar lost to a policyholder," stated Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, in the House of Commons. "Furthermore, during the last fifty years in which there has been government supervision of foreign companies doing business in this country, and deposits have been required as security for the fulfilment of insurance contracts, there has never been a dollar lost to a policyholder through effecting insurance in any foreign company. Our records are complete with respect to insurance companies back to the year 1875, a period of fifty-eight years. During that time the total income of Canadian insurance companies was $4,235,746,206.

"This is composed as follows: Insurance premiums and consideration for annuities, $3,153,611,819; interest, dividends and rents, $876,143,383; other receipts, $205,991,004.

"During those fifty-eight years the total dividends paid to shareholders of insurance companies was $29,092,923—seven-tenths of 1 per cent of the income. On the other hand, during the same period there was paid in dividends to policyholders the sum of $413,347,725.

"I think that, by and large, we have reason to feel proud of the stupendous insurance business which has been built up in Canada, and, on the whole, of the character of that business and the manner in which it has been conducted. I think it compares favorably with any similar business to be found in any country in the world. While I am not suggesting for a moment that it is not capable of improvement—no human institution is perfect—I do say that on the whole it has served the people of this country extremely well, and I deprecate any suggestion that we have not full confidence in and reason to be proud of the manner in which insurance has been conducted in Canada."

Saanich C.C.F. clubs will hold a housewarming at their new clubhouse, corner of Richmond and Cedar Hill Roads on June 7. Rev. Robert Connell, parliamentary leader of the group in the province, will open the building and other prominent members of the party will speak.

TO CONSIDER RELIEF STAND

Ward Three Ratepayers of Saanich Will Investigate Unemployed Conditions

To determine whether or not the unemployed of Saanich are receiving the unfair treatment which they claim, from the municipal council, Ward Three Ratepayers' Association has appointed a committee of two to investigate relief conditions and report back to the association for further action. The committee consists of George Sharpe and A. G. Lambrick.

The association considered the circular which was sent out by the council detailing reasons for its action along various lines in regard to relief, and felt that it should, in all fairness, hear the complaints of the unemployed.

The delegates will attend unemployed and ward association meetings within the near future. The association or its delegates have not indicated any joint action with other associations as yet, the investigations being merely an independent move by Ward Three.

REQUEST BASIN BE ENLARGED

Courtenay, May 30.—A resolution was passed by the Board of Trade Tuesday night requesting the Dominion Government to enlarge the anchorage basin in the Courtenay River, and with the material taken out to construct a road to replace the present slough bridge, which is a continual expense for upkeep. This improvement would give boats wintering in this harbor greater facilities.

The public works committee of the board is to take up with the local district engineer of the provincial public works department the matter of covering more efficiently the tar patches on the highway, which at present are said to be a great inconvenience to motorists, particularly to those with light-colored cars. A more liberal dressing of fine sand to prevent tar splashing was recommended.

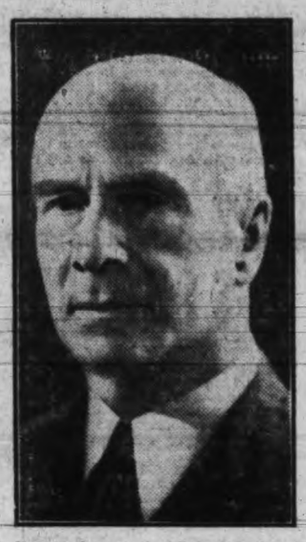
Here's Summer



From a photograph of Robt. G. Jackson, M.D., at 75. When 50 years of age Dr. Jackson was given but four months to live by the famous Sir Wm. Osler, but through natural living habits and the use of alkaline foods Dr. Jackson is today in his 77th year the embodiment of youthful vigor and endurance.

HERE'S Summer!—and here's hoping it will be a long and delightful one, as our Canadian Summers usually are.

Of course, our summers are often hot and sultry, and this means discomfort and an "all in" feeling for many, but that is not the fault of summer. The full enjoyment of even the hottest days is all a matter of keeping the blood in proper condition. Take my case! I'm never "all in" even on the hottest days. I'm always full of "pep" and energy. I often sit in the "altogether" on the flat top of our building in the broiling sun, hours at a stretch, without even a head covering, although the "authorities" all say "cover the head while sun bathing." And that's good advice, too, for those who live on the conventional diet of civilization which cannot avoid destroying the normal alkali reserve, "nature's first defense against fatigue, disease and premature death." When the normal alkali reserve is destroyed the blood becomes "viscid" or ropy, circulating with great difficulty through the capillary blood vessels through which all organs, including heart and brain, get their life blood supply. On hot days, sweating depletes the blood of water, making it still more ropy and difficult to circulate through heart and brain. That is what causes the "all in" feeling, heat strokes and collapse on hot days.

But I fear none of these, because I have in my blood a "normal alkali reserve" and my blood is not ropy, but vital and very fluid. That gives vitality and resistance to heart and brain, through both of which it circulates without hindrance, maintaining a free supply of life blood in these vital organs and calling upon the heart for far less labor. Of course, therefore, I am not "all in" on even the hottest day and can safely defy "Old Sol" to do his worst. Anyone who will live my way can safely defy the sun, especially if he will feed himself my way.

And now you may ask "How does the cold affect you?" Well, during the past winter, the coldest in many years, I motored all over Ontario and parts of Quebec and New England, wearing neither overcoat, vest nor underwear. Sometimes, it was 36 degrees below zero, yet I went about lecturing between three and four hours every night, often talking eight hours in one day, but I never suffered and never tired — and I am now in my 77th year. How could I do it? For the very same reason that I can stand excessive heat, because I have a normal alkali reserve in my blood, my "first defense against fatigue, disease and premature death". For blood is life, life is resistance — and blood is made from food.

How did I obtain such a perfect blood condition? By the use of an 80% alkali-forming diet, the most important part of which consists of either Roman Meal, Bekus-Puddy or Lishus, and Kofy-Sub as my only beverage.

On hot days I eat the cereals cold with fruit jelly and cream or honey or maple syrup and cream, and Kofy-Sub cold with lemon juice or cream and sugar. All delicious, cooling, satisfying, healthful.

I suffer from neither heat nor cold and at 76 I safely defy disease, because I obey the Creator's health laws, and a perfect body, with immunity from disease, is the reward of Creative Wisdom for all who thus obey.

You can obtain this same great reward if you will also obey. Proper feeding is not all, but it is a vitally important part and the place to begin. My bulletin on Alkali-Forming Foods will greatly aid you and is free to those who write for it, but I want only those to have it who are sufficiently health-conscious and intelligent to be anxious to have it without being urged. Address Robt. G. Jackson, M.D., 577 Vine Ave., Toronto.

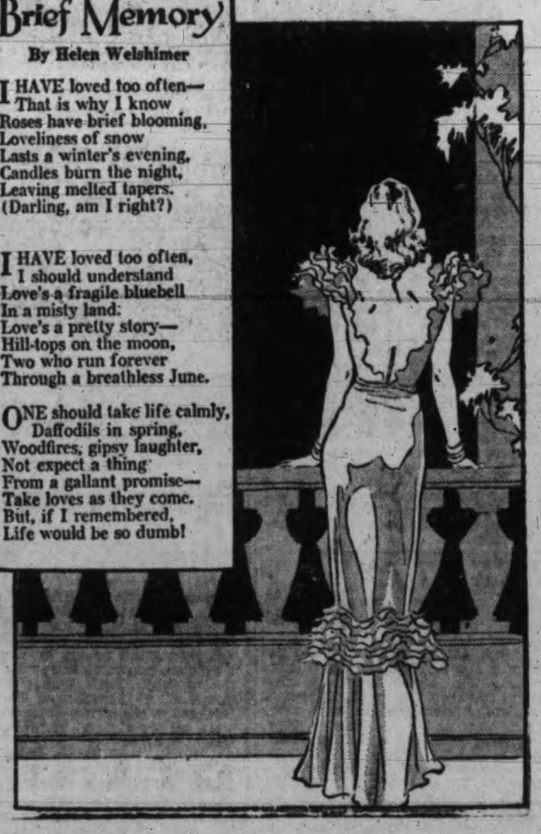
Brief Memory

By Helen Welshimer

I HAVE loved too often—
That is why I know
Roses have brief blooming,
Loveliness of snow
Lasts a winter's evening,
Candles burn the night,
Leaving melted tapers.
(Darling, am I right?)

I HAVE loved too often,
I should understand
Love's a fragile bluebell
In a misty land:
Love's a pretty story—
Hill-tops on the moon,
Two who run forever
Through a breathless June.

ONE should take life calmly,
Daffodils in spring,
Woodfires, gipsy laughter,
Not expect a thing
From a gallant promise—
Take loves as they come.
But, if I remembered,
Life would be so dumb!



When the foursomes gather after the match, and the orders go in for the long, tall drinks . . . notice how often you hear the request—"Make mine with Canada Dry."

For where can you find the equal of Canada Dry? Ever sparkling . . . subtly dry . . . as mellow as a vintage wine. Of course, it makes a difference. In a long, tall drink or in a refreshing glass all alone, it must be Canada Dry.

Try the family size of Canada Dry's Sparkling Water if you like an extra lively "Soda" with long-lasting sparkle.

37 lbs OF FAT GONE

No Wonder She Looks Younger!

"How much younger you are looking!" What a pleasure to hear that compliment from your friends' lips—this woman did.

"Since I started taking Kruschen Salts," she writes, "I have reduced myself by 37 lbs. I am still going down and hope soon to be normal weight. My health has greatly improved My friends see such a difference in me now. I look younger, and I have such a fresh look always about my face which I never used to have. I take my usual food, but my first drink in the morning is my little dose of Kruschen Salts, which I will never do without."—(Mrs.) K.

The six salts in Kruschen keep the organs of elimination in perfect trim and so ensure a regular, gentle and natural clearance of all fat-forming food refuse. (Advt.)

20,000 NEW YORKERS "HEIL HITLER"

With ushers dressed as storm troopers standing grimly in the aisles, and swastikas everywhere in evidence, New York's Madison Square Garden took on the appearance of a typical Nazi meeting when 20,000 Nazis and their sympathizers gathered to protest against the boycott of German goods. A portion of the vast meeting, which was guarded by 700 police, is shown above.

DOMESTIC HELP CODE PLANNED

Women's and Labor Organizations Draw Up Terms to Go Before Government

Demand for a code governing the employment of domestic service in British Columbia homes will be made to Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Labor, as a result of action taken at the meeting at the Labor Hall of the legislative committee of the Trades and Labor Council under Chairman C. Chivers with the twenty - four delegates from the women's service and business clubs of the city.

Compulsory registration of all domestic employees by employers is the first move sought under the resolutions passed by the meeting. Other resolutions covered the features of the proposed code based on rates of wages and hours of work that would be fair taking into consideration present conditions.

The code as proposed will be submitted to a public meeting of women's organizations and representatives of domestic workers at 8 o'clock Thursday evening at the Labor Hall for final approval before being submitted to the government.

The pupils of Mrs. Ruby E. Moore will give a recital in the Quadra Street School on Friday evening next under the auspices of the Quadra Parent-teacher Association. A silver collection will be taken in aid of the funds of the association.

NEW YORK HAS ITS SECRET REGRETS

their fathers' era and their own innocent youth; only to remain and almost weep over their passage.

What is the meaning of this rich nostalgia, if any? You may say that it is just too many cocktails before dinner and too much beer afterwards. No, it goes deeper. This modern generation, though it would stoutly deny any such notion, harbors under its smug exterior many a secret doubt about the way things are going in the world. It looks back on the innocence of its youth with a certain desperate longing. Probably it wishes it could believe all the old ideas because no one really believes the new ones.

When you get it in the open like this, with all the barriers down, you can see that New York, the fine flower of this civilization, really hasn't changed much from the era of gaslights and melodramas. It has only changed its clothes and its manners. It is full of private doubts and regrets. As it hurries along it is looking back over its shoulder. Under the surface it is just a soft old sentimentalist.

HELL'S KITCHEN

HOW DIFFERENT IS the crowd at the Casino de Paree on the other side of the town, on the edge of what is charmingly called Hell's Kitchen! The Casino de Paree is the latest thing in night clubs, on which unlimited money and unlimited imagination have been lavished to astound and shock the yokels, both native and visiting. In that respect it succeeds rather well—two huge orchestras which play alternately, amplifiers carrying the least whisper from the stage to the furthest corner of the room, superb and handsome young men in full evening dress, with green shamrock leaves in their lapels to indicate that they are gigolos who can be hired by any lady to dance with them and who are kept busy.

The extravagant show, which occurs at a quarter to eight, at midnight and at 2 a.m. is full of lines which would make you blush if you weren't in New York and ladies who haven't a stitch of clothing to their names. Stark nudity is no novelty in New York and people don't faint at the sight of it, or even applaud. But some of the lines are pretty breathtaking, if you are a respectable, home-loving fellow, and the social psychologist, no doubt, would find them symptomatic of an important change in the surface of life at least.

Downstairs, in the bar, where you can buy any form of flavored alcohol bearing the labels of good liquor, the walls are covered with scores of clever caricatures of every notable of the time—politicians, scientists, movie heroines, Greta Garbo, Joan Crawford, Professor Einstein, Senator Borah, Marie Dressler and innumerable others. And every one of them utterly nude; as nude as the naked lady in the gold fish bowl at the other end of the bar whose private graft is to make everybody buy cigarettes for her. But don't be alarmed. She is only three inches high, though obviously alive and present in the flesh somewhere behind the curtains—an amusing arrangement of lights, mirrors or something of the sort.

But observe the difference between this crowd in Hell's Kitchen, where champagne is $6 a pint and ginger ale $1 a bottle, and the crowd up in the old church, where they give you beer and ham sandwiches for the price of admission. Down here in the Casino de Paree everyone listens listlessly to the two great jazz orchestras (neither of which, by the way, is as good for dancing as that of our own Billy Tickle at the Empress Hotel). Everybody observes the naked ladies on the stage with a kind of tired satiety. Everybody dances between shows against a backdrop of flashing cromium, without a smile. The gigolos go about their noble work with a grim, professional look. The show girls look tired, after three shows, and abysmally stupid. Fellows who get tight on champagne at $6 a pint don't become friendly and put their arms around you and sing. They look acutely miserable and stagger home after a while.

Up in the old church, New York is letting to and being itself for once. Down here in Hell's Kitchen it is trying to look wicked and depraved. It is enjoying itself up there, just singing silly, old-fashioned songs. It is bored to tears down here with nudity and sin. Let the social psychologists figure that out.

ANNIVERSARY OF FORESTERS

Foresters' Centenary Will Be Observed With Special Service Here

On Sunday the Ancient Order of Foresters will celebrate its centenary by holding thanksgiving services. For Great Britain a form of service has been provided and approved by the Archbishop of Canterbury. A modified form will be used for courts in colonial and foreign countries and districts. Many of the courts in Great Britain will hold open - air services. The principal one will gather in Sherwood Forest, where it is expected 60,000 Foresters will join in united service.

The service for Victoria city courts will be held in the A.O.F. Hall at 3 o'clock, in the following order: Foresters' opening ode; Foresters' opening prayer; hymn, "Soldiers of The Cross"; vocal solo, Mrs. B. Lefeure; cornet solo, Brother J. Mossop; address, Rev. N. E. Smith; vocal duet, Sister E. Holt and Brother E. Holt; tenor solo, Mr. M. Thomas; hymn, "O God Our Help in Ages Past" Foresters' closing prayer.

The Foresters in 1834 united together into one body under the name of the Ancient Order of Foresters. The first court, Honor No. 1, Manchester district, is still in existence, the forerunner of over 10,000 courts established throughout the empire and foreign countries. The order, in addition to making provision against sickness and death, furnishes medical attendance; provides life insurance, old-age pensions, hospitals, orphanages, sanitoriums, convalesent homes, clinics, homes for the aged and infirm; war orphan memorial funds, guarantee and savings banks; building loan societies for erection of members' homes; provides and maintains lifeboat stations on the coast of Great Britain and provides traveling and unemployment benefit to those in search of employment. The order gave its whole-hearted support in the formation of the National Health Insurance Act of 1911; in what has fully proved to be the masterpiece of legislation ever enacted for the benefit of the masses. So appreciative was the government of the day of support in drafting out of the act given by the A.O.F., that the high secretary of the order, J. Lister Stead, was appointed one of the commissioners to carry out the act.

The high standard of efficient and economical management given by the A.O.F. is reflected by the government valuations made every five years. The fourth valuation recently made public shows A.O.F. surplus profits at $14,586,915, leaving an amount of $6,627,830 available for distribution in the form of additional benefits.

U.S., RUSSIA AND LEAGUE

Pressed by questioners on the British attitude toward the League, Mr. MacDonald also declared:

"The government stated in the memorandum of January 29 that Germany's return to Geneva ought to be made an essential condition of agreement on a disarmament convention."

THOUSANDS AMAZED AT FACTS REVEALED BY DODGE "Show-Down" PLAN

When a bump strikes a front wheel of the New Bigger Dodge, the shock is absorbed by the long, soft coil spring. The other wheel is not affected. The car is not tilted. Dodge "Floating Cushion" wheels are the same design as used in some of the world's most expensive cars.

NO SQUEAKY SPRINGS on a Dodge. Permanently lubricated between every leaf of the rear springs with a disc of oilite metal which keeps the springs lubricated for the life of the car.

NEW DODGE "7-POINT VENTILATION"—(1) Cowl Ventilator. (2) Windshield opens and closes by means of a crank on the instrument board. (3) Front half of forward window may be swung open in "butterfly" fashion. (4) Rear half may be raised or lowered independently of forward half. (5) Simple device locks both halves into a single unit which can be raised or lowered as an ordinary window. (6) Rear door window raises and lowers. (7) Rear window has "Butterfly" draft control. "7-Point Ventilation" is a perfected method for thorough ventilating in all kinds of weather.

DODGE HYDRAULIC BRAKES are always equalized. They cannot be otherwise. Unequal braking action causes swerving when brakes are suddenly applied. That is one reason why hydraulic brakes are better. They also save brake lining wear because all four wheels brake at the same time. Hydraulic Brakes seldom require adjustment.

Classy Field Will Battle For B.C. Amateur Golf Crown

THE SPORTS MIRROR

BRITISH COLUMBIA sport followers, and especially its many friends in Victoria and Vancouver, are still recovering from the shock of Jimmy McLarnin's stunning defeat at the hands of Barney Ross on Monday night at New York. Their idol has fallen and at the hands of a man the former welterweight champion was conceded a cinch to whip. McLarnin apparently took his beating badly, remaining in seclusion all day yesterday and making no statement on his plans for the future, or giving out any statement that might give an insight into his surprise setback. Jimmy was certain of victory, as evidenced by the supreme confidence shown on his visit here en route to New York to prepare for the bout. The fact that he was whipped by a smaller man no doubt hurt greater than the losing of his welterweight crown.

Ross certainly knocked for a loop all the predictions of the Pacific Coast experts. Of course, many of them based their opinions on the rather dismal showing made by Ross on his recent visit to the coast. While on this trip he failed to show up very well in bouts against men not anywhere near the class of McLarnin, and in addition refused bouts with Young Peter Jackson and Cecil Payne. However, it must be remembered that Ross was on a barnstorming tour and now it is certain he was not cutting loose with everything, or else he had improved considerably in recent months. It must not be forgotten that Ross twice whipped Tony Canzoneri, former lightweight titleholder, and that feat alone places him in high regard. Canzoneri, at his peak, was often described as one of the greatest bits of fighting machinery in the history of the ring.

Like so many before him McLarnin suffered through his lay-off of a year. It was really a longer period of inactivity, as his last fight previous to the Ross engagement, when he took the welterweight crown from the head of Young Corbett III, ended in the first round. Although inactive, McLarnin always kept himself in the best of condition, but against Ross, a man who has been fighting regularly, it was not enough. Time and again Jimmy's timing was off as his deadly right and left hooks missed Ross on good openings. And it also looked as if Jimmy suffered from taking off too much weight. Never before in his career had he scaled himself down as low as 142 and apparently he weakened himself, making the 145 pound limit called for by a private agreement made with Ross.

If Jimmy lives up to his reputation he will seek a return bout with Ross. And after such a blistering bout in their first meeting a rematch would attract another monster crowd. If McLarnin gets a return affair he is a cinch to demand it at the 147-pound weight limit. With this stipulation, and providing he gets two or three tune-up fights under his belt, McLarnin should have a good chance to win. To date McLarnin has beaten every fighter who trounced him in a return bout.

To Ross too much honor cannot be paid. He is a great champion, and by becoming the first ringster to ever hold both the lightweight and welterweight crowns at the same time has established a niche for all time in boxing's hall of fame. Ross not only shattered the jinx that has hovered over lightweight champions who attempted to lift the heavier title, but also smashed McLarnin's long string of victories over Jewish fighters. Ross rose to the heights against McLarnin when the going was the toughest. Every time Jimmy hurt him with punches he cut loose with a flurry of rights and lefts that literally swept the Vancouver boy off his feet. That takes courage. In the words of Robert Edgren, noted sports scribe, Ross's victory was a "Miracle of Sport."

For the second revival of the British Empire Games at London this summer Canada has one of the world's best sprinters, an Olympic champion high jumper, and not very much else that has proven itself capable of competing in a track and field meet second only in class and importance to the Olympic Games.

There is Bert Pearson, the graduating Hamilton schoolboy, who is one of the four or five best dashmen in the world. Duncan McNaughton, the Vancouver and University of Southern California high jumper, would rank just as high in a classification of world jumpers.

But the rest of the collection of footracers, jumpers, hurdlers and weight throwers do not rank at all—not for purposes of international competition. Dave Komonen, the slender Finn of Sudbury, Ont., would gain recognition in any group of marathoners, but there is still a question whether Komonen will be granted naturalization papers in time to try out for the Canadian team.

The chances are Canada's Empire team will include largely inexperienced performers. It may turn out to have more all-round strength than the 1930 team, a large brigade that made only a moderately successful run at Hamilton. It may even be better-balanced than the last Olympic team.

Freddie Miller Beats Casanova

Los Angeles, May 30.—Freddie Miller, recognized by the National Boxing Association as world featherweight champion, won a decision over Baby Casanova, Mexico, D.F., in a ten round non-title bout here yesterday evening. Miller weighed 127 pounds, half a pound more than his opponent.

Bob Morrison and Alan Taylor Will Head Local Entry

Twelve Victorians Will Tee Off in Qualifying Round Friday at Vancouver

Kenny Black To Defend Honors

When the annual chase for the British Columbia men's amateur golf championship gets under way on Friday over the links of the Quilchena Club, bright and early Friday morning, Victoria will be represented by one of the classiest entry lists in the history of the tournament. After a check-up of the local clubs to-day, it was learned that all the leading local club swingers will invade the mainland city for the championship. The championship will continue until June 4, with the thirty-six-hole final for the provincial crown the final day.

With such a fine entry the chances of the title, now held by Ken Black, Vancouver, coming back here look promising. Black won the championship last year at the Victoria Golf Club, defating the veteran Alex. Watson, Victoria, 7 and 6 in the final. Black will defend his crown.

Definite local entries for the championship announced to-day follow: Uplands Golf Club, Bob Morrison, Harold Brynjolfson, Harold Pretty, Kenny Lawson and Bobby Ford; Victoria Golf Club, Alan Taylor and Jimmy Todd; Gorge Vale Golf Club, Walter Newcomb, Freddie Painter and Howard Reid; Colwood Golf Club, Jack Matson and Dave Randall.

MORRISON PLAYS WELL

Morrison, holder of the city championship, is playing good steady golf and should give a good account of himself. A member of several British Columbia teams in the interprovincial matches for the Willingdon Trophy, staged in conjunction with the annual Canadian amateur championship, Bob has his eye on a berth on the squad this year, which means a trip to Montreal, scene this year of the national championship.

Brynjolfson, a former British Columbia champion and member of British Columbia interprovincial teams, has regained his old-time form after spending a couple of years on the prairies. Harold, when he is right, is one of the steadiest golfers in the province and a mighty tough man to beat. He has been practicing hard and is hoping to lift his second provincial crown.

Taylor is playing just as good as last year, when he battled his way into the final of the Pacific Northwest amateur only to fall before the smooth stroking of Scotty Campbell, Seattle, in the final. Taylor was a member of the British Columbia interprovincial squad that won the Willingdon Trophy last year at Vancouver.

TODD DANGEROUS

Todd, deadly southpaw, a couple of weeks ago lifted the Victoria Golf Club championship, defeating Taylor 2 and 1 in the thirty-six-hole final after a bitterly-contested match. Todd has been knocking at the door of major championships for several years and appears about ready to come through.

Lawson, Pretty and Ford, three hard hitting junior stars, are plenty hot at times and might come through. Lawson is the holder of the city junior championship, while Pretty was runner-up last year for the city.

Newcomb, Painter and Reid, the Gorge Vale entries, are all good golfers and can be counted on to give a good account of themselves. Matson, winner of the medal honors in last year's championship, is just as dangerous as ever and should make a good showing in the coming tournament.

With the personnel of this year's interprovincial team to be decided after the performance of the players in the British Columbia tournament the Victoria boys will cut loose with everything they have to make their best possible showing in a bid for berths on the team to travel east this summer.

In Quilchena the field will find themselves up against a tough course.

The championship course has been given a thorough overhaul and is now second only to Shaughnessy in length, being exactly 6,400 yards long. Par, however, is a stroke less than the Heights course. Fairways have been treed all the way around and drives wandering a little off line will land in plenty of trouble. The majority of greens have been retrapped and it will need a good pitch or accurate approach to escape the yawning sandmaws.

A thirty-six-hole qualifying round is slated for Friday; Saturday morning the first round of eighteen holes and Saturday afternoon the second eighteen-hole round; Sunday the same procedure will be followed and Monday the thirty-six-hole final is carded.

VANCOUVER ENTRIES

Besides Black, present champion, Jack Fraser is another who should carry Shaughnessy's colors high.

Quilchena will send a strong brigade after the championship, and with all the advantage of playing on their home course any one of five or six entries is likely to be in there at the finish. Dave Ritchie, Jack Porter, "Tingy" Cameron, Arne Powell and Dick Moore are the chief threats. Arne Powell, youngest of the quintette, has been playing beautiful golf this season and is quite likely to crash through.

One of the most youthful teams ever to represent Point Grey will make its appearance this year. It will be headed by Teddy Charlton, who

Senior Ball Loop Will Open Monday

With the Tillicums meeting the Sons of Canada in the opening game the Victoria Senior Baseball League will usher in its schedule at the Athletic Park on Monday evening at 6.15 o'clock. Allie McGregor will again call the balls and strikes while Sid Thomas will look after the scoring. At yesterday evening's meeting of the league it was decided to play a series of home and home games between the three local clubs and Chemainus. The first game here will be on June 9. The games at Chemainus will be played on Sundays. The games will count in the league standing although Chemainus is not entered in the circuit.

STOCKERS TO OPPOSE SONS

Will Battle at Athletic Park This Evening in Twilight League Ball Game

Determined to stay out in front in the Twilight Baseball League race, Stockers will send Lloyd Jones, their mound ace, to the hillock this evening when they oppose the Sons of Canada in a league fixture at the Athletic Park at 6.15 o'clock.

The Canadians who opened their league schedules with a win over the Eagles, are expected to send Art Carr to the slab in this important battle.

Victory for the moving men will enable them to retain the top slot in the championship race in company with the fast Sidney nine, while defeat will drop them to third place in company with the Eagles.

George Zarynoff Defeats Wilson

San Francisco, May 30.—George Zarynoff, 207, Ukrania, made short work of George Wilson, 200, Seattle, in their wrestling bout here yesterday evening.

After Wilson had taken the first fall with a flying tackle in sixteen minutes, Zarynoff came back to cop the second in six minutes with a body slam, and then repeat the dose in another thirty-five seconds to gain the victory.

Hal Rumberg, 230, Spokane, Wash., tossed Charley Raineri, 240, New York, in five and one-half minutes with a body slam.

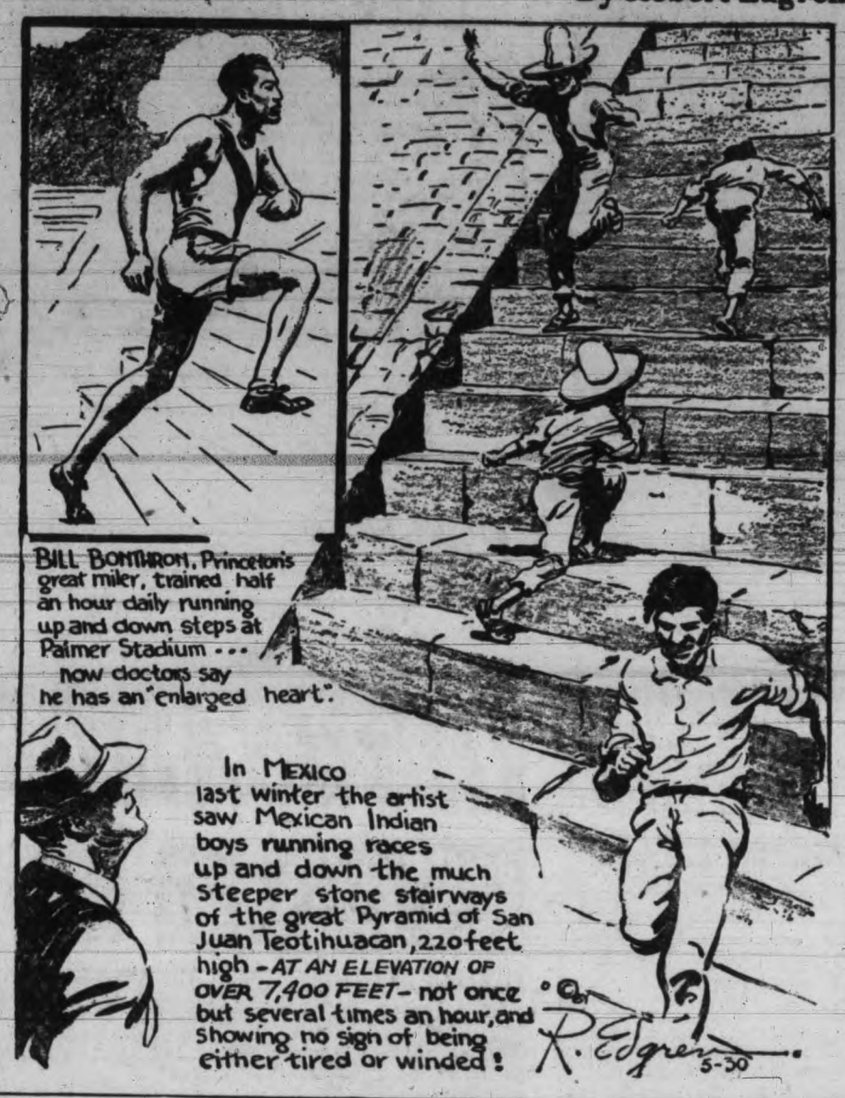
Miracles of Sport — By Robert Edgren



Young Mermaid To Enter Times Swim

Thelma Aspinwall, Fifteen-year-old Y.M.C.A. Girl, to Strive Again For Laurels in Through-Victoria Race on July 21

Fifteen years old and already virtually a veteran in her sport, Thelma Aspinwall, husky little Y.M.C.A. mermaid, to-day became the first fair sex contender for The Times Through Victoria Swim honors on July 21.

Little Thelma, who started on the long aquatic jaunts when she was twelve years old by entering The Times junior race of 1931, and later finishing the seven-mile Cape Atkinson to Kitsilano swim in Vancouver to win a cup, has been working out regularly at the Gorge in preparation for the newspaper swim this year. It will be the third senior Times race in which she has competed. In both other events she finished, taking fifth place last year.

How does she feel about the 1934 event?

"Pretty good, thanks. I've been practicing every day for some time at the Gorge and am getting into shape fairly well."

The youngster with the easy stroke is expected to be one of several mermaids who will go in quest of the honors which are open to both men and women. Several other local contestants and some from the mainland as well as up-island points are expected to face the starter at the float below the Gorge bridge.

GOOD TIMES EXPECTED

In view of the fact there will be virtually no tide this year, the competitors are expected to complete the distance in times considerably under those of 1933 when they were forced to buck the current.

Announcement of Thelma's entry to-day brought the number of those who have stated their intention of competing up to five.

Denny Walker, Y.M.C.A. star who won the event last year, will be defending his title. Bill Robertson, a veteran of the race, will be out to challenge him, as will Bobby Mathewson, young V.A.S.C. distance performer, and Bob Lawrence, a Crystal Garden aspirant who has been training fairly consistently.

While only five have definitely announced their entries, many others are practicing for the event and intend to send in their entries at a time nearer the date of the swim.

Conditions have generally been good for early training and the contestants should be in excellent shape for the event when it falls due.

THE BIG SIX

One hit by Sam Leslie broke the tie for the National League batting lead and fourth place in the Big Six yesterday. Sam got the blow by making three official trips to the plate and his average slid off a point to .379. Harvey Hendrick, meanwhile, had only one time at bat and no hits going down five points to .375.

Joe Vosmik replaced his Cleveland teammate, Billy Knickerbocker, hitting once in two tries for a two-point gain, while Knickerbocker hit once in four times and lost four points. The leader, Rollie Hemsley, hit twice in four attempts, sending his mark up four points to .406.

NEW BASEBALL EDITION GOOD

Kellogg Company Puts Out Interesting Book For Benefit of Young Players

Canada's ambitious young ball players who look forward to excelling on the school, college or professional diamond have a unique opportunity to learn the fundamentals and intricacies of the game through a new and "different" baseball book published by the Kellogg Co., well-known manufacturers of pep, rice krispies, corn flakes, all-bran and other cereals.

The feature that distinguishes the book and gives it its outstanding value is the graphic and specific manner in which it covers the many factors that contribute to the making of a great ball player. The cover is in full color and the foreword is a message from W. K. Kellogg, founder and president of the company, in which he stresses the importance of "playing the game" in life itself as well as in sports.

The opening article deals with the problem of determining the position you are really best fitted to play. "Study yourself" is the advice given, and it is pointed out that even great players like Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker had to spend years in perfecting the form that was most natural for them. Learn the best way to do everything a ball player does, but develop your own style, is the equally sound advice given the young player.

GIVE ILLUSTRATIONS

The book's forty-eight pages contain more than forty illustrations and diagrams which supplement the text in explaining such factors as the proper stance in batting, how to grip the ball in throwing a curve, how to slide for bases, where players should stand to play a bunt or to prevent a double steal. Practically every play that enters into the game is covered by text or illustrations, or both. Following the instructive articles come interesting information and figures dealing with the records of great players and the history of the game.

The Kellogg baseball book has been written by a well-known authority on the game who shows that he thoroughly understands the art of teaching others how to play. Copies of the book can be obtained free from grocers with the purchase of two packages of Kellogg's pep. In any instance where the grocer does not have the book, a copy can be obtained by sending two pep package tops direct to the Kellogg Company at London, Canada.

Rookies Prove Big Help To St. Louis

Browns Threaten to Be Challenge in American League; Pepper and Clift Stars in 12 to 7 Win Over Detroit; Giants Make Healthy Gain in National

A good crop of rookies can be an asset to the best baseball team and the success of a couple of St. Louis Browns' newcomers, Raymond Watson Pepper and Harland Benton Clift, is one good reason why Rogers Hornsby's club is up at the head of the American League's second division, and threatening daily to go higher.

Last year Pepper batted .295 with Rochester, and Clift .273 with San Antonio, but both have been well above that level against American League pitching this season. Between them, this pair of recruits accounted for eight runs yesterday as the Browns slammed out a 12 to 7 decision over Detroit Tigers.

Pepper had a perfect day, hitting his fourth and fifth home runs of the season and three singles to knock in three runs. Charley Gehringer, Goose Goslin and Gerald Walker also got homers.

GREAT PITCHING

The other American League contests were marked by nifty pitching as Cleveland increased its lead on the idle New York Yankees by shutting out Chicago, 5 to 0, and Boston broke a sixth-place tie with Philadelphia by taking a 2 to 1 decision over the Athletics. Homers were listed during the day by Bob Johnson, Dick Porter and Rick Ferrell.

Idleness of the four western clubs enabled New York Giants to register an important gain in the National League as they defeated their Brooklyn neighbors, 4 to 3. The triumph left them only one percentage point behind Pittsburgh.

The other National League contest saw Boston Braves down the Phillies, 6 to 4, with the aid of a four-run outburst started by Pinky Whitney's homer in the seventh.

INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE

Their new-found batting power rapidly is carrying Montreal Royals in the general direction of third place in the International League.

Charley Lucas and Earl Cook felt the sting in Montreal's bats yesterday and the Royals plastered a 13 to 8 defeat on third-place Toronto, two games ahead of Royals.

Buffalo Bisons made it two out of three from Rochester's pace-setting Red Wings, pounding Ad Liska, Dykes Potter and Virgil Brown for eighteen hits and an easy 10 to 1 victory.

Albany and Syracuse engaged in a slugfest which the Senators won, 18 to 11. Albany grabbed twenty-three hits. Fred Sington counted a home run. Newark and Baltimore had an off day.

U.S. Open Golf To Have Classy Field

Leading Professionals and Amateurs Will Start in Annual Title Hunt on June 7; Pairings Announced For First Round; Goodman Defends Title

New York, May 30.—While Johnny Goodman was bounding across the Atlantic headed for his first major title defence and the vanguard of challengers prepared to move in on the battlefield, the United States Golf Association announced yesterday pairings for the national open golf championship to be played at the Merion Cricket Club, Philadelphia, beginning June 7.

Goodman, who is returning from the triumphant performances in the Walker Cup matches and an unsuccessful quest of the British title, has been paired with Johnny Kinder, young New Jersey professional, for the first two rounds of the championship.

PLACE OF HONOR

On the first day the crack Nebraska amateur has been accorded the place of honor, usually reserved for Bobby Jones, when the Atlantan was beating the pros at their own game. Goodman and Kinder are scheduled to tee off at 10.35 a.m. on Thursday and 1.45 p.m. the following day.

W. Lawson Little Jr., recently crowned British amateur king, and Phil Perkins, Ohio professional, who led the qualifiers May 14 with two rounds of 69, go off at 10.10 a.m. Thursday and at 1.20 p.m. Friday.

Walter Hagen, the forty-one-year-old maestro, and Gene Sarazen, the only contestants in the field ever to win the championship twice, were paired with Wiffy Cox and Paul Runyan, respectively.

The Sarazen-Runyan twosome has been strategically scheduled to start towards the close of the first day's play in order to assure an all-day-long gallery. They will get away at 1.05 p.m. on Thursday and will be among the early starters on Friday, taking the tee at 11 a.m.

Hagen and Cox will drive off at 11.10 a.m. Thursday and at 2.20 p.m. Friday.

FARRELL AND HOMANS

Johnny Farrell, winner in 1928, will get under way with Gene Homans, Englewood, N.J., amateur, for his partner, at 9.55 a.m. Thursday and 1.05 p.m. Friday. Tommy Armour, who copped the crown in 1927 after a play-off with Harry Cooper, and Max Marston, the veteran Philadelphia amateur, start at 1.15 p.m. Thursday and 10.10 a.m. Friday, while Billy Burke, who outlasted George von Elm in the famous 1931 marathon, and Gus Moreland, Texan amateur, drive off at 12.50 p.m. Thursday and 9.45 Friday.

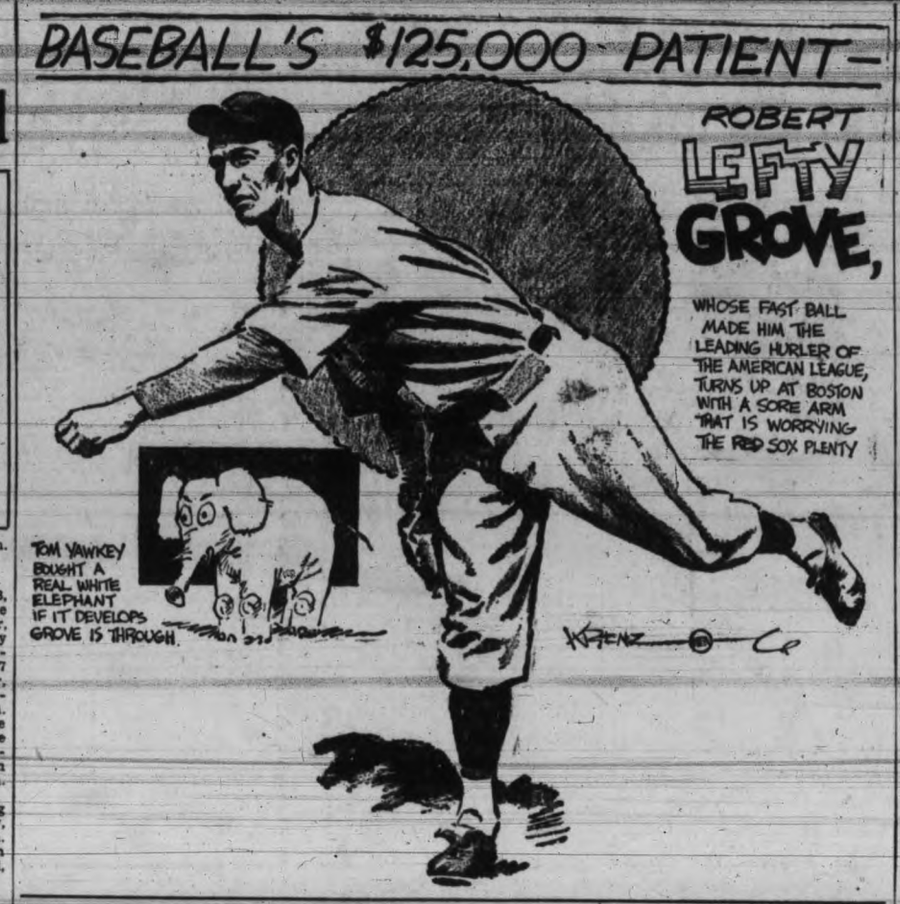
Among other headliners starting are MacDonald Smith and Ed Dudley, 9.15 a.m. Thursday and 12.25 p.m. Friday, and Denny Shute, British open titleholder, and Henry Picard, 10.25 a.m. and 1.35 p.m.

Bill Miller Has Joined Pro Ranks

Philadelphia, May 30.—"Big Bill" Miller, Philadelphia, three times United States sculling champion, yesterday turned professional by signing to row in a special race at the Canadian National Exposition at Toronto in August.

The 1932 United States Olympic runner-up signed after a conference with Elwood A. Hughes, general manager of the exhibition.

"I already have the signed contracts of Ernie Phelps and Bert Barry, two English scullers, and Pearce has been in training for the last few months," said Hughes.



Canada's Sprinters For Games Promising

Dominion Will Take Powerful Squad in This Division to British Empire Sports at London This Summer; Bert Pearson Number One Man

By ELMER DULMAGE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto, May 30.—The strongest sections of the team Canada sends to London's British Empire Games this summer may be the men sprinters and the women sprinters, hurdlers and jumpers. It is just possible the English, Scottish, Australian, New Zealand and South African teams also will be strongest in these sections.

A survey of the country reveals at least fifteen outstanding competitors are being groomed for positions on the sprint section, runners who have raced 100 yards in ten seconds or better, or almost any quarter-milers who hope to improve on fifty seconds. Only four internationalists are in the crowd.

Young Bert Pearson, Hamilton, almost twenty years old now and a better dashman than he was two years ago, when he was the sensation of the Canadian Olympic trials, appears likely to win the No. 1 position. Pearson has been caught in 9.7 seconds for 100 yards and in 22.2 for 220 yards. He has beaten the great Ralph Metcalfe indoors and promising Jess Owens outdoors.

There is a growing feeling Pearson will be unbeatable at London, a feeling amply justified by his record. The Canadian trials at Hamilton, however, must produce three or four sprinters capable of giving the blonde flash a battle to properly round out the speed squadron.

SEVERAL CHALLENGERS

Two Olympic veterans, Harold Wright, Vancouver, and Buster Brown, Hamilton, may still be the best in the field along with Pearson. But their challengers will be many. Prominent among these are Bill Christie, Toronto, Frank Nicks, Halifax, and Harry Colman, Winnipeg.

Colman has beaten Pearson. He won the Canadian 100 yards championship last year at Fort William, leading the Hamilton youth to the tape in 9.8 seconds. Pearson went down to Halifax and defeated the promising Nicks. In addition for first-rate performances at the shorter distance, Nicks, a high school student, has been caught in 49.3 for 440 yards.

Other leading sprinters include Lorne Stone, Winnipeg; John Goodfellow, McGill, and Eddie Dore, Hamilton. And there may be others who won't be known until the trials.

Jimmy Ball, Winnipeg veteran; Nicks and Bill Fritz, the eastern intercollegiate champion from Queen's, are still outstanding quarter-milers on the early spring books. Ball is no longer the Ball of 1928, when he almost won the Olympic 400-metres title at Amsterdam, but he is Canadian champion and on the right day he can better fifty seconds.

Fritz, a Windsor, Ont., youth, is almost as good at the furlong as he is at the quarter. Alf Mullins, Toronto, has neared even figures many times, and Jack Liddle, Winnipeg, has chased Ball to the tape in exceptionally fast time. Maurice Hughes is Montreal's outstanding 440-yard contender.

Owing to confusion arising from the last-minute rush for 1934 automobile licenses and also to a misunderstanding about the period of grace allowed for securing the licenses, seven motorists in Penticton who were each fined $10 for failing to have the new plates have had their fines remitted by the provincial government. Mrs. C. Grover, of Vancouver, fined $50 for selling home brew, also had her fine remitted in view of circumstances surrounding her case.

U.S. Net Stars Meet Mexicans

Baltimore, May 30.—The United States Davis Cup tennis team, fresh from its triumph over Canada, arrived in Baltimore yesterday for the final round matches of the North American zone starting today with Mexico and in the draw that was made immediately after arrival Sidney B. Wood, New York was chosen to open the series against Esteban Reyes.

The other drawing placed Lester Stoefen, giant Californian, against the ace of the Mexican team, Ricardo Tapia.

The third contest of the series, the doubles, is set for to-morrow, with the two final matches on Saturday.

ST. HELENS WIN BATTLE

Whip New Westminster Adanacs 12 to 7 in Lacrosse Clash

Vancouver, May 30.—St. Helens handed New Westminster Adanacs a 12 to 7 defeat in an intercity senior box lacrosse game here yesterday evening that wound up with a free-for-all in the final quarter.

Doubling their 3 to 0 first quarter lead in the second to take a 6 to 0 margin at halftime, St. Helens went out in front 8 to 1 at the end of the third.

In the final frame a flipped stick sent a St. Helens player and an Adanac into a mixup, and the rest of the two teams joined in. The floor was cleared and so were St. Helens, who had just three players, including their goalie, to stand off the Adanac rushes. Adanacs ran in three goals in the last minute and a half.

LIVE SAVING SHOW PLANNED

Boat Drill and Rescues and Releases to Be Demonstrated June 6

Demonstrations of life-boat drill, life saving methods and diving will be given the general public in the Crystal Garden on June 6, when members of the Vancouver Island Life Boat Association appear in the tank with the new craft they have acquired.

In the course of the exhibition, the crew will demonstrate the manner in which a man is taken from the water as well as the way the boat is handled in an emergency.

Following that, life-saving classes of the city will give demonstrations of various methods of rescue and release approved by the Royal Life Saving Society.

As an added attraction local divers will put on a show, displaying some of the type dives in the Canadian handbook.

takes first place due to his sensational showing two years ago on his home course when he lost on the nineteenth green to Stan Leonard, eventual champion. But there is really little to choose between young Charlton, Jack Moryson, Geo. Thomas, Clarence Sim, Ken Hentig, Bob Cleat and Bill Sharon. Older members who stand a good chance of being in at the finish are Jim Bell, one of the smartest shotmakers in the city; Ralph Moore, Fred Tait and Bob Watson.

Marine Drive will also depend pretty well on junior members. Dr. Jack Wright, Canada's leading tennis player and for years Davis Cup ace, is now nearly as proficient at golf, but probably lacks the polish and finish necessary for such a grind as the B.C. amateur. His tennis training should stand him in good stead, however. Bill Pierce is another "hope." Juniors who stand a chance are Gordie Livingstone, formerly of Point Grey, one of the outstanding youngsters in the city; Freddie Wright, Ross Johnstone, Eddie Horsman, Jim Robertson and Laurie Teetzel.

LEONARD TO PLAY

The Vancouver Golf and Country Club will be represented by a small but select group. Bob Kennedy is about the best bet. He is a five-handicap man. Others are Jim Burnett, F. R. Cotton and possibly Mark Cosgrove, club champion.

Harry Rendell and A. Bull are Jericho Golf and Country Club's chief contenders. Others who will probably enter from this course are R. W. Hopkins, D. B. Manley, R. Arkell and E. T. McMullen.

Stan Leonard, champion in 1932, and one of the longest hitters, will likely be entered along with Don Gowan, who lost to Leonard in the 1932 final, and Cecil Coville. The latter two will be playing unattached if they enter.

Ross Casts Eyes On Middleweight Title

Victor Over Jimmy McLarnin States He Is Ready to Fight Vince Dundee For 160-Pound Crown; McLarnin Still Silent on Future Plans

New York, May 30.—Barney Ross is wondering now whether the middleweight championship couldn't be added to his list of titles.

The young Chicagoan, lightweight titleholder for the last year, set one ring precedent when he outpointed Jimmy McLarnin on Monday night and captured the Vancouver boy's welterweight crown. The next bigger game would be Vince Dundee, ruler of the 160-pound class.

"I think Dundee would be easier than McLarnin was," Ross said yesterday, "if the fans would like to see me fight him, I'm ready. Wouldn't that be something—a lightweight, welterweight and middleweight champion?"

It sounds impossible to most of the experts. It was doubtful if the boxing commission would sanction the fight.

While McLarnin, his face marked, his heart near broken, shied clear of the crowd yesterday, Ross had a field day. Congratulations, vaudeville offers even a suspension from the National Boxing Association for failure to go through a fight in Fort Worth, Texas, poured in on him.

He's going back to his training camp at Ferndale, N.Y., to rest a few days before returning to Chicago for the graduation from high school early next month of his youngest brother, George.

GATE WAS $194,329.67

Despite the fact the Bowl was nearly filled, with only a few of its 65,000 seats unoccupied, the official paid attendance yesterday was put at 39,968 and the receipts at $194,329.67. McLarnin's share was $58,936.60, and Ross collected $36,835.38.

"I'll give McLarnin another chance as soon as he wants it," Ross said. "He's a great fighter and a terrific puncher. When he shook hands after the decision, I told him all that. I told him I'd fight him again any time. All he said was 'Thanks'."

Negotiations were started yesterday for a return match, but McLarnin was in no mood to talk fight. There was some feeling he might never pull on gloves again. He has called off a trip he planned to Ireland.

Ross intends to return here to see the Baer-Carnera heavyweight title fight in June. As one smart fellow suggested: "He'll probably be in the ring challenging the winner."

FRED PERRY IS INJURED

English Davis Cup Tennis Star Sprains Ankle During Play in France

Paris, May 30.—Cilli Aussem, second-ranking player of Germany, to-day completed the semi-final brackets in women's singles of the French hard-court tennis championships as she vanquished Katherine Stammers, England, 6-4, 6-2.

She will meet Margaret Scriven, also of England, the defending champion in one semi-final when Helen Jacobs, United States titleholder, plays Mme. Rene Mathieu, in the other.

Elizabeth Ryan, England, paired with Mme. Mathieu in women's doubles, defeated E. M. Dearman and Nancy Lyle, England, 8-10, 6-3, 6-3, to enter the semi-finals in that division of play.

Miss Jacobs and Sarah Palfrey, former U.S. titleholders, also entered the semi-final round of women's doubles with a comparatively easy, 6-3, 1-6, 6-4 victory over the French pair of Collette Rosambert and Mme. Metaxa.

PERRY INJURED

Yesterday Fred Perry, played out the match despite an ankle injury suffered during the play, and was eliminated in the quarter-final round by Giorgio De Stefani, Italy, 6-2, 1-6, 9-7, 6-2.

Perry, ace of the English Davis Cup team, fainted as the contest ended and had to be carried from the court.

Christian Boussus, who upset Perry in the French-English tennis series last week, yesterday southpawed his way to a victory over England's second-ranking singles player, H. W. (Bunny) Austin, to advance to the semi-final round. The scores were 5-7, 6-2, 6-2, 2-6, 6-1.

After a shaky start, Jack Crawford, Australia, hit his stride and overhauled G. P. Hughes, England, 4-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-3, to gain the round of eight. Crawford won the title last year, defeating Henri Cochet in straight sets.

In a doubles third-round match Adrian Quist and Don Turnbull, Australia, defeated Andre Merlin and Antoine Gentien, France, 6-2, 5-7, 6-2, 6-4.

An examination in the dressing room disclosed that Perry had severely wrenched his right leg. However, his teammate, H. W. (Bunny) Austin, said he had been assured Perry should be back in top condition in a fortnight.

"He certainly will be back in shape for defence of the Davis Cup at Wimbledon late in July," Austin said.

Wheat Futures Fall On Winnipeg Mart

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, May 30.—Futures prices underwent sharp setbacks on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day, tumbling before heavy realizing sales from longs frightened by overnight rains in Alberta and forecast of unsettled weather for the prairies. Closing figures were off 2½-2¾ cents net.

The finish was ½-¾ cent over the day's low points, with May wheat at 76, July at 77-77¼, and October at 79-79⅛ cents.

Export business was thin following the large sales of Tuesday, which to-day were raised from an estimate of 1,000,000 bushels to 2,000,000 bushels.

Trading over the session was not in great volume.

The Chicago market, being closed for Memorial Day holiday, curtailed operations somewhat. Liverpool finished ½-¾d higher and confirmed further Russian purchases of Australian and Argentine wheat.

Cash grains trading suffered from the lull in export demand and coarse grains prices drifted lower with wheat.

GIRL'S DEATH INVESTIGATED

Sacramento, May 30.—With the aid of E. O. Henrich, Berkeley criminologist who arrived here to-day, State Treasurer Charles G. Johnson began an effort to prove that his twenty-two-year-old daughter, Virginia, whose burned body was found in a local garage Monday night, was "murdered by a fiend" and was not a suicide victim as claimed by authorities.

Henrich arrived at the Johnson home during the morning and was immediately closeted with the state treasurer.

Johnson previously had outlined his theory that Virginia could not have wandered three blocks from her home carrying a gallon of kerosene and handful of matches, as the police and district attorney claim, selected a strange vacant garage, poured the kerosene over herself, ignited it and then lain quietly on the floor while the fierce flames took her life.

"The whole theory of suicide as concluded by the district attorney is preposterous and fanciful," said Johnson.

WHEAT SEEDING NEARLY ENDED

Canadian Press

Regina, May 30.—Wheat seeding is nearly completed in Saskatchewan and a general need for rain is expressed in the weekly survey of conditions issued yesterday by the Saskatchewan Department of Agriculture.

More than 70 per cent of the grain is showing green. Seeding of coarse grains, retarded by dry weather is from 60 to 65 per cent completed.

Favorable growing conditions are reported in the Northern and East Central portions of the province but a general need of moisture is felt in the Southern and West Central areas.

Dry weather and high winds have caused considerable drifting and damage severe in the South Central and Southwestern districts.

SOVIET NOW BUYS WHEAT

Crop Failures and Movement of Troops to East Cause Russia to Import

Canadian Press

London, May 30—Russia, once considered a menace to the wheat growing nations of the world, has joined the ranks of wheat importers, according to The Financial Times.

The newspaper said the Soviet was buying Australian and Argentine wheat for shipment to Vladivostok, and that it had contracted already for cargoes totaling 22,500 tons. Of these, it added, two were bought from Australia and one from Argentina.

The Financial Times expressed the view that further shipments would be arranged, and said it believed they were due to widespread crop failure in Russia, and probably to an abnormal increase in wheat consumption in the Vladivostok area owing to presence of troops, which have been maintained in that area since the period of Russo-Japanese tension.

Reports from Moscow on Monday said the Soviet Government had admitted a small wheat crop this year, and had ordered an increase in the price of rationed bread. In addition, Winnipeg grain circles yesterday said they believed New York interests were buying Canadian wheat for export to the Soviet.

U.S. DOLLAR IN LONDON GAINS

London, May 30. — The United States dollar gained 1¾ cents to the pound sterling to-day and closed at $5.07 as compared with yesterday's close of $5.08¾.

Gold currencies moved against the British pound, and the French franc closed at 76.94 to the pound compared with yesterday's close of 77.06.

The price of bar gold rose 3½ pence to 137 shillings, ½ pence ($34.77) at which quotation undisclosed buyers, believed to be American, purchased an amount valued at £668,000 ($3,390,100).

Gross earnings for April were $9,260,224, compared with $7,921,872 in the same month of last year, an increase of $1,338,351. Operating expenses were increased $606,351 to $7,989,759.

Net earnings for the four months ended April 30 amounted to $4,496,904, compared with $1,835,944 in the same months of last year, an increase of $2,660,960 or 149 per cent.

Gross earnings for the first four months totaled $36,747,396, as compared with $31,494,577, a gain of $5,252,818. Operating expenses for the four months were $32,250,491, an increase of $1,591,838.

VICTOR INCREASES WAGES

Of considerable interest in business and manufacturing circles is the announcement by Victor Talking Machine Company of Canada Limited, Montreal, of certain increases in its wage scale. Effective June 1, there will be an increase of 15 per cent in hourly and piecework rates to all female employees of the radio division, while toolmakers' rates have also been adjusted upwards from 5 to 30 per cent.

Drought, Soil-drifting and Grasshoppers Make Grain Prospects Worst in Many Years

Ottawa, May 29.—An extremely serious crop situation exists in the prairie provinces, according to a crop report issued yesterday by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The report was based on telegraphic reports from forty correspondents in the three provinces.

"While at this time last year," the report explained, "the spring season was generally reported as late, but very promising, the 1934 crops are quite early, but have been handicapped by distinctly unfavorable conditions. Any benefit which might have resulted from the heavier winter precipitation of 1933-34 has been completely dissipated.

"Spring precipitation since April 1 has been very light and ineffective There have been periods of extremely high temperatures which, in the absence of soil moisture and encouraged by strong winds, led to serious soil drifting over wide areas.

EARLY GRASSHOPPERS

"The weather and soil conditions have been such as to discourage growth and to promote the early hatching of grasshoppers. Germination and first growth, while well advanced for this period were weak and spotty. Grasshopper damage has begun, but the serious losses to date are due to moisture shortage, high temperatures and soil-drifting.

"While a general rail would change the picture considerably, a careful study of the correspondents' reports must lead to the conclusion that an extremely serious crop situation exists in the prairie provinces.

"The districts in which moisture shortage and crop damage are most apparent correspond closely with the drought area of other years—southern, particularly southwestern Manitoba, southern central and west central Saskatchewan, and south and east of Calgary, Alberta. Conditions are more favorable in the remaining areas, but rains would be very welcome.

MANITOBA

"In Manitoba, only a few scattered spring showers have fallen where heavy and general rains were needed. Germination was spotty and variable and early growth very unsatisfactory. Soil-drifting caused serious damage and appeared in some areas where it had never before been troublesome. The limited moisture, night frosts and high midday temperatures combined with the soil-drifting to affect the early growth of spring grains.

"Grasshoppers are hatching in the outbreak areas, damage has already started, but the mixing stations have commenced operations and it is hoped to limit the hopper damage to the stubble crops. The grasshopper situation is most serious in the southwestern corner, as forecasted. Reseeding has been necessary in some localities but the results are doubtful. The need of rain is generally expressed and in many districts it is an urgent necessity.

SASKATCHEWAN

"The crop situation in Saskatchewan has reached a critical stage much earlier than usual. Spring rainfall has been of little consequence in the main wheat areas. Lack of soil moisture is widespread, but is most apparent in southern, central and west central districts. In the northern and east central districts the crops have progressed more favorably as they had better reserves to draw upon, but rain is needed locally. Grasshoppers hatched out three weeks earlier than in 1933 and combined with other other limiting factors on crop growth such as soil-drifting, lack of moisture and weak germination create a serious situation.

"As in Manitoba, some reseeding has been necessary, but more will be done if rain falls. There is a general shortage of seed, so that farmers are disinclined to drill grain into a dry top-soil. Fallow crops are still promising since they are better able to resist adverse soil and weather conditions and insect attacks. An early and general rain would be a tremendous benefit to the growing crops, and would also cause a further seeding of coarse grains.

ALBERTA

"Over most of the southern area of Alberta and in scattered central localities, crops are described as in distress. Rain is needed almost generally throughout the province, but in most of the central and northern parts, crops age not suffering.

"Spring rainfall has been light, scattered and ineffective in the district south and east of Calgary—the top-soil is dry and the subsoil reserves are becoming exhausted. In Central Alberta, between the two railway main lines and east of the Calgary-Edmonton line, crop conditions are fair with rain needed to promote good growth. Warm and windy weather has absorbed the surface moisture in the Edmonton district and turning north to Athabasca and east to Vermilion, the season is early and growth good. The Peace River district has favorable prospects. Rain is needed, but not urgently. The Alberta crop situation would be greatly changed by an early and heavy rain. If rain does not fall prospects will deteriorate rapidly."

DUNWELL MAKES FIRST SHIPMENT

The mill at the Dunwell Mine, operating twenty-four hours a day, is milling an average of twenty-five tons of ore a day, according to returns received at the head office here by Robert Stewart, president. First shipment of concentrates went forward to the smelter on May 23, and regular shipments of concentrates will follow every ten days, he said. It is planned to step the mill tonnage up to thirty or thirty-five tons a day gradually. Several thousand tons of broken ore are now in the bunkers and stopes ahead of mill requirements, and it is planned to increase this until there is at least twelve months' broken ore ahead.

L. Gerard Matthews, U.B.C. graduate in metallurgy, with considerable experience in milling practice, is in charge of the mill and reports an excellent percentage of recovery from the plant. The new hydro-electric power plant is adequately meeting all power requirements.

What Is a Good Mother?

Dorothy Dix

Finds She Commands Respect of Children

A CORRESPONDENT asks:

"What is your ideal of a good mother?"

Well, my ideal of a good mother is not the popular one of tradition. She is not the sweet saint who enslaves herself to her children and lets them run roughshod over her. She is not a martyr who offers herself up as a living sacrifice on the family altar. Nor is she a fountain of tears who spends her time weeping over her wayward children and keeping a lamp burning in the window to guide her wandering sons and daughters back home after every other place is closed up.

No, my ideal mother is not a bit like that. She is more of a hard-boiled egg than she is a mush poultice. She has a heart as big as all outdoors, but she also has a backbone as large as a telephone post and she has an enlargement of the funny bone.

She does not make herself a doormat for her children. She puts herself on a pedestal so that they have to look up at her. And she is a woman of action. She does not trust to luck about how her children will turn out. She bats them into the straight and narrow path and keeps them walking it until they like it and do not feel at home anywhere else.

My ideal mother tries to see her children as they are. She does not think that all her geese are swans and that each individual child is an infant phenomenon.

If Mary is an ugly duckling, mother sees to it that she is given the education and taught the parlor tricks that take the curse off her homeliness and save her from being a wallflower. If John is dull at his books but clever with his hands, she steers him into a career where ingenuity counts instead of the dead languages.

She gives her children a sporting chance in life because she has the intelligence to recognize their defects and help them to correct them.

My ideal mother knows that every mother writes her own price tag for her children, and that they take her absolutely at her own valuation. If she holds herself cheaply, they regard her as worthless. If she makes herself a servant to them, they treat her as they would a servant. If she is shabby, they are ashamed of her. If she permits them to talk back to her, they are insolent to her. If she gives them the best of everything, they take it without even a "thank you."

My ideal mother knows that her children will treat her exactly as she teaches them to treat her, and so she exalts herself in their eyes. She poses before them as an oracle and as long as they live they think that mother knows best. She commands their respect and they are proud to show her off to their friends. Mother is queen of the household because she has elected herself to that office and her children do her reverence.

My ideal mother is modern. She has kept up with the times. She does not sit at home and wring her hands over the young generation. She steps out with it to see where it is going and to try to keep it from going too far. She recognizes that the standards in manners and morals and customs have all changed in the last few years, and that you cannot rear children according to the recipe of our grandfathers and mothers.

The day of the heavy parent has gone. You cannot threaten to turn a boy or girl out of the home if he or she displeases you when the said boy or girl is self-supporting and probably contributing to the family upkeep. When you were a young lady respectable women did not use rouge and lipstick nor wear one-piece bathing suits, nor naked-backed dresses. Nice girls did not kiss Tom, Dick and Harry as payment for taking them out to the movies nor did they smoke cigarettes nor stay out late at parties.

But if you make your Mamie and Sally come home by 11 o'clock every night, and if they wear the clothes that were considered modest when you were young, and if they generally do not do what the other young people are doing, you simply cut them off from all of the pleasures of youth and head them for the Old Maids' Retreat.

My ideal mother recognizes all of this, so she does not try to turn her modern daughter into the prunes and prisms Miss of the past. She does not try to enforce any hard and fast rules upon her. She uses diplomacy instead of force, suggestion instead of command. Above all, she talks to her daughter with a frankness the old-fashioned mother would have found impossible, and makes her wise to all the dangers that beset the girls of to-day. She teaches her how to take care of herself and draw the line between prudery and prudence.

My ideal mother tries to fit her children for the world in which they must live, and then when she has done that she lets them stand upon their own feet. She cuts the apron strings that bind them to her and leaves them free to live their own lives, for she knows that we must all find our own niches. We must all find our own happiness.

She does not try to keep her children with her if they want to leave the home nest. She does not attempt to choose their careers for them nor their husbands nor wives. She does not make her love a burden on them nor foist herself upon them as an unwelcome guest in their houses because she has been all mother and has nothing left when her children are gone.

My ideal mother is wise enough to know that her children are bound to grow up and leave her, and so she keeps her own place in the world, her own interests and amusements and is all the better a mother because she is not forced into the ungracious position of being a parasite on her in-laws.

In one of his plays Shaw tells of a woman who was such a good mother she was hardly human. My ideal mother is all human and understanding and love for her children. But she is a modern version of motherhood.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S DECORATIONS

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Drums were booming and rattling. Trumpets were blowing. Fifes were merrily tooting. Soldiers were marching. For this was Decoration Day. Part of it was sad. The other part was merry.

The sad part was where the marching soldiers carried flowers and thought of their friends who had gone to war with them and had never come back.

The jolly part was where children were going on picnics and excursions and having parties in the woods and fields where they also gathered flowers.

For Decoration Day is intended to be happy and jolly even though it has a little sad part.

In Woodland, where Uncle Wiggily lived in his hollow stump bungalow, there were many Decoration Day picnics, excursions and parties. Mr. and Mrs. Twistytail, the fat lady and gentleman pig, took their boys, Curly and Floppy and Squeaky Squealer, the baby pig, to the woods where they could root up and eat many tender plants. It didn't matter if the pigs got their noses dirty from rooting in the earth.

"We can just hold our noses in the brook and they will be washed clean," grunted Curly.

"That's right!" cried Squeaky Squealer.

As for the rabbits, puppies, pussies and other animal children who lived near Uncle Wiggily, they, too, were having their fun on Decoration Day in the woods and fields.

After Uncle Wiggily had watched Toodle and Noodle, the beaver boys, dig the canal so part of the brook water could run down past the hot hemlock fir tree and cool it, the rabbit gentleman gathered May flowers so his wife and Nurse Jane might decorate the hollow stump bungalow.

That done, Uncle Wiggily sat out in his back yard on Decoration Day. The rabbit gentleman sat in his easy chair out under the grape vine which now had large leaves on it so it made a shade.

The wind was blowing softly. The sun was shining warmly. It was a lovely Decoration Day. Soon, though he didn't know he was going to do it, Uncle Wiggily fell fast asleep in his easy chair. And after he was asleep, Jingle and Jangle, two of his little girl rabbits came hopping along. With Jingle and Jangle were Buster and Duster, two little boy rabbits. They saw their daddy asleep and Jingle said:

"Let's decorate him."

"What do you mean?" asked Buster.

"Why," answered Jingle, "this is Decoration Day. Everybody is being decorated. Daddicums brought home flowers to decorate the bungalow, but nobody decorated him."

"That's right," said Jangle.

"What do you want us to do?" asked Buster.

"I think we ought to gather blossoms and vines and all the pretty things we can," said Jingle, "and decorate our dear Daddicums!"

"Hurray!" shouted Buster, just like a boy even if he was only a boy rabbit.

"Hurray!" shouted Duster.

"Don't make so much noise!" whispered Jingle.

"You'll wake Daddicums up and then we can't decorate him without him knowing it," said Jangle. "We want to surprise him."

"Oh, I didn't KNOW that!" said Buster just as if he were making a joke over the radio.

"Well, you know it now," said Jingle. "So everybody keep quiet and we'll do the decorating."

It did not take the four rabbit children long to gather May blossoms and vines from the woods and fields near the bungalow. They did this so quietly that Uncle Wiggily never awakened.

Then they twined on his head wreaths of many colored flowers. They dangled garlands down in front of him, some around his long ears and made him look like the King of the May.

"Oh, isn't he sweet!" whispered Jingle.

"We have Daddicums so decorated," giggled Jangle, "that he looks more like a flower garden than a bunny gentleman. Let's go call Nurse Jane and Mother." Away ran the rabbit children, leaving Uncle Wiggily still asleep. And while he slept, along came the Fox and Wolf. They wanted to decorate their stomachs with something to eat.

"Ha! Look!" whispered the Fox. "There's Uncle Wiggily in his back garden sitting in that chair asleep." The Wolf looked and said:

"Nonsense! That's only a bunch of flowers and vines. We can't eat those. Come on!" So the Bad Chaps went away and because he was so decorated Uncle Wiggily was saved. How he laughed when he awakened.

And next, if the lollypop will lend its stick to the roller skate to roll a hoop, I'll tell you about Uncle Wiggily's little bird.

Richest Indian Dies in California

Los Angeles, May 30.—Jackson Barnett, ninety-two, incompetent Oklahoma Indian who became a millionaire through discovery of oil on government lands give to him, died here yesterday.

Known as the world's richest Indian, for many years he was a figure in the courts in suits by the United States Government to invalidate his marriage to his white wife, Anna Laura Lowe Barnett, and force her to return $550,000 in gifts he had given her.

He lived in a mansion in Wilshire Boulevard, one of the main boulevards from Los Angeles to Santa Monica Bay beaches and hundreds of thousands knew him as a voluntary director of traffic.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

To the Editor:—Inasmuch as you publish such letters as Mr. Milligan's, perhaps I would not be out of order in asking you to please insert this one in your paper. It will not be more ignorant than Mr. Milligan's, and at least it may be a little food for thought for him.

Mr. Milligan should realize that it was only through the efforts of organized labor that living conditions for all workers were improved. Mr. Milligan is pleased to accept the better conditions when secured, but does nothing but "buck" the men that secured them. There is a lot more, I might say to Mr. Milligan, and his kind, but I will leave it to his imagination.

DOCTORS AND VIVISECTION

To the Editor:—A matter for comment among persons opposing animal experiments is the attitude of the medical fraternity of to-day. Vivisection has had its outstanding medical opponents for very many years, but so immeasurably has vivisection increased in the last half century and so greatly has the brutal practice been commercialized, that their resistance has been belittled and ridiculed, even by their own profession.

We cannot fail, therefore, to be gratified at the turn fortune's wheel is taking. Only a year ago a doctor at the annual representative meeting of the British Medical Association begged that the whole question of vivisection might be brought under revision. "In spite of the reasonable, fair and temperate eloquence of the mover of the proposal, it was duly and contemptuously turned down." A few delegates, however, sided with the speaker.

Now we have the views of G. F. Walker, M.D., of the Royal Infirmary, Sunderland, who writes in The Medical World, December 8, 1933:

"I suppose no one will deny that an increasing number of well informed and highly educated persons of both sexes and all branches of art and science and literature, abhor and condemn vivisection. It is similarly now admitted that there is growing disquiet within the medical profession in respect of the connection between vivisection and medical science. . . . The word (vivisection) is never used when doctors are talking privately together . . . most doctors shun the topic and everything to do with it. . . . The truth is that vivisection is merely part of the chaos and incoordination which to-day tends to stultify medical research."

There are obviously two basic objections to the practice: (a) That it is ethically and morally wrong to torture creatures in our power; (b) That animal experiments have been leading astray the art of healing.

Quoting Dr. L. A. Parry's recent speech at Brighton: "I am convinced that vivisection is not only useless but it is harmful. It is not helping but hindering the progress of medicine. It is unethical, immoral and brutal and it is the duty of every right thinking man and woman to do everything in his or her power to bring its practices to an end."

Vivisection is commonly taught in most medical colleges; it is commercialized at almost every angle. The serum and vaccine industry has been founded on animal suffering, but since evil does not produce good, it is obvious that the results will be bad for animals . . . for humans! Many opponents of vivisection are making a point of employing only medical men who refuse the use of vivisectional products; others go for assistance to the growing number of healers belonging to other cults.

Some years ago I heard a prominent New York doctor speak in Philadelphia. He said this to a large audience gathered to oppose vivisection: "I promise you that if you will go on working, it will not be long before more doctors will have the courage to come out . . . haven't we the courage, with such a cause, to put it over?"

The first anti-vivisection society in Canada was started thirteen years ago in Victoria. There are now several others carrying on their voluntary and difficult work without payment or recompense of any kind. They realize that "No cruelty is useful."

On her way to Honolulu and the Orient, the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada will sail from Victoria early Saturday evening with a good list of passengers and a heavy general cargo. She arrived from the Far East a week ago to-day.

The Ss. Empress of Russia, due here from the Orient next Monday morning, was 2,366 miles away from Victoria at 8 o'clock yesterday evening, according to a message received at the Gonzales wireless station. The Russia sailed from Yokohama last Friday.

The Ms. Tantalus, of the Blue Funnel Line, is also crossing the North Pacific, bound for Victoria from China and Japan. She was 1,600 miles from Victoria at 8 o'clock yesterday evening, and will arrive here Sunday or Monday.

A third ship crossing direct from Yokohama is the Hikawa Maru, of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha fleet. She sailed from Yokohama last Thursday and is expected to reach William Head quarantine station at midnight Sunday on her way to Vancouver.

STRIKERS BEAT SHIP OFFICERS

Members of Crew of Ss. Santa Lucia Assaulted in Clash at San Pedro

San Pedro, May 30.—Rioting broke out anew in one sector of the Pacific Coast longshoremen's strike when two officers of the Grace liner Santa Lucia were assaulted late yesterday by a group of men at the Wilmington terminal, near here.

Ernest Johanson, quartermaster, and William Willison, third electrician of the vessel, were beaten into semi-consciousness by their assailants.

The Santa Lucia was scheduled to arrive here from New York and California ports on Saturday morning. The Grace Line office in Victoria however, has been advised that the sailing north from San Francisco has been cancelled and that there will be no further call of ships of this fleet to northwest ports until the longshoremen's strike is settled.

WHALING SHIP MASTER KILLED

Harpoon Gun Topples on Capt. H. Christensen of Ss. Westport

Bellevue, Wash., May 30.—A broken support to a harpoon gun toppled the heavy weapon over into Captain Harold C. Christensen, of Newport, captain of the whaling vessel Westport, in Alaskan waters on Sunday and injured him fatally, president William Schupp of the American Pacific Whaling Company was notified yesterday.

The weapon had been fired the second time, in shots at a whale, he said, when the support broke.

The Westport proceeded into Dutch Harbor, Alaska, with the body, and it will be brought to Seattle soon. The command of the whaler was taken over by M. Schroder, a mate, who has captain's papers.

Captain Christensen was about fifty years old and is survived by a widow in Westport.

SHIP MALAHAT IS ARRESTED

Schooner's Crew Claim $1,926 Back Wages Through Admiralty Court

Vancouver, May 30.—Another chapter in the checkered career of the five-masted schooner Malahat was written yesterday when she was arrested by order of Admiralty Court for $1,926 in back wages claimed by members of her crew.

Writs have been issued out of Admiralty Court against the Malahat by Hamilton, Read and Patterson, solicitors for the members of her crew.

This five-masted schooner has had an interesting career since she was launched at Victoria in 1917 and made her first voyage to Australia with a cargo of lumber entirely under canvas.

In 1923, the Malahat went into the liquor trade and for ten years was a "mother ship" for rum runners off the coast of California and Mexico.

After many months at the North Vancouver wharf, the schooner went into dry dock and was reconditioned early this year for the West Coast. Less than two months ago she sailed from this port on her new adventure only to run aground near Prince Rupert in a fog.

CROSSING OCEAN IN SMALL SHIP

Dublin, May 30. — Commander Douglas Graham of Bridgewater, Somerset, sailing alone from Ireland to Newfoundland in a seven-ton sailing cutter, planned to make the crossing by way of the Azores in the event of bad weather.

He left Bantry Bay at daybreak Saturday for St. John's in the cutter Emmanuel, named after the vessel used by Martin Frobisher, discoverer of the Northwest Passage. The vessel is thirty feet long on deck, twenty-five at the waterline and has a beam of eight and half feet.

BOTTLE NOTE IS STATED HOAX

Canadian Press

Calgary, May 30.—The note found in a ketchup bottle on the bank of the Bow River and containing a confession to the murder of Police Inspector Joseph Carruthers, killed by a house burglar on June 13, 1933, was branded as a hoax by investigators to-day.

The note was signed by "Bill Crezenkals" and declared he had taken to burglary after losing all his money on horse races. It told of the shooting of the Calgary police inspector and declared the writer intended to commit suicide.

Scribbled on the back of a racing form, it named the horse "Outbound" as the one Crezenkals had lost his money on. At first it was thought he referred to races held in Calgary, but a check of the form, carrying overnight entries, shows it was dated July 17, 1933, more than four weeks after Inspector Carruthers had been slain. On July 17, Outbound was running at the Arlington Track, in the United States, and lost.

LONE SAILOR HAD BAD TRIP

Capt. T. Drake Tells of Tempestuous Voyage From Honolulu in Small Craft

Seattle, May 30.—A lone sea rover, Capt. Thomas Drake, seventy, injured in a long battle with roaring gales and mountainous seas brought his thirty-seven-foot schooner Progress into Seattle yesterday after a voyage from Honolulu, tied her up, and went to the Marine Hospital for treatment.

Capt. Drake has a broken right hand and a badly sprained right arm, which were caught in the little vessel's wheel during the peak of a storm.

The Progress had her bowsprit and sails gone, and she too must undergo repairs before setting out again.

"In all of my seafaring career, and I have wandered all over the world, I never saw such weather," Captain Drake said. "It took me fifty-three days to make the voyage from Honolulu, and during twenty days of that time I fought gales and terrific seas."

The storm smashed the figurehead of the Progress, carried away all of the sails and did other damage. During one of the gales, the terrific wind sent the steering wheel spinning, while the Progress whirled around like a top.

"I got my starboard hand and arm caught in the wheel, and it nearly finished me," Capt. Drake said. He steered with his left hand thereafter.

The Progress is a two-master, drawing four feet of water. Five tons of concrete helped to keep her steady in heavy seas, a five horse-power engine is used occasionally, but only in harbors. Capt. Drake was here last May. He went to Hawaii via San Diego.

TWO DROWN IN NARROWS

Rowboat Caught in Tiderip in Burrard Inlet; One Man Is Rescued

Vancouver, May 30.—William, eight, and Nelson, nine, sons of W. S. Bailey, Canadian Pacific Railway employee at Medicine Hat, Alta., were drowned when the boat in which they were returning from a fishing trip capsized in the waters of Burrard Inlet, inside First Narrows, here yesterday.

Morris Zlotnik, fifty-one, who was rowing the twelve-foot skiff, was rescued in a semi-conscious condition by a Japanese fishing boat, the H.K.

The fishing boat, inbound through the Narrows, sighted Zlotnik struggling in the water. Manoeuvering the craft with difficulty in the strong rip tide, the owner, Yoshimatsu Hayo, and Dr. Shimo Takahara, Japanese physician, succeeded in dragging Zlotnik on board. The boat headed for Gore Wharf, from where Zlotnik was rushed to hospital.

As soon as he was able to talk Zlotnik told police he had borrowed the boat earlier in the day and, accompanied by the two boys, set out to fish off Lumberman's Arch, Stanley Park. When they were returning, Zlotnik said, they were caught in the rip tide off Brockton Point. The boat began to fill with water and a wave capsized the craft, throwing the three occupants into the water.

Zlotnik said the last he saw of them the two boys were struggling some distance from the drifting skiff.

The boys, with a thirteen-year-old sister and their mother, arrived here from the prairies some months ago.

The bodies have not been recovered.

TO MAKE CRUISE

New York, May 30.—The World Telegram says kidnapping threats against his children caused E. L. Cord, motor and aviation magnate, to decide upon a long cruise aboard his yacht Virginia.

The yacht, loaded with provisions for a year, says the newspaper, sailed yesterday for England.

Togo's Great Naval Victory Made Japan

In his old age he was his country's hero of heores and his modest one-story, Japanese style residence in the heart of Tokio, atop Togo Hill, named in his honor, became a veritable shrine for patriotic pilgrimages.

It is understood that he will be canonized under Shinto rites, that a shrine of the national religion will be erected to his memory and that his soul will be worshipped there by future generations.

Togo was born to a samurai family of the Satsuma clan near Kagoshima December 22, 1847. He was only twelve years old when he began to train for a career as a fighting man and four years later he went into his country's infant navy. At the twenty-one he was sent to England, remaining there eight years and studying under experts of the British navy.

By 1894 he had risen to the rank of captain in command of the cruiser Naniwa. With this vessel, on July 25, he sank a Chinese troopship en route to Korea. The action precipitated the war which drove China out of Korea and eventuated later in annexation of the hermit kingdom to Japan.

IN CHARGE OF NAVY

He was a full-fledged admiral in command of the fleet when the war with Russia started ten years later.

In 1911 he represented his sovereign at the coronation of King George V in England, returning by way of Canada and the United States.

Togo's last official service was as tutor to the then crown prince, the present Emperor Hirohito.

Togo's life spanned the emergence of Japan from the seclusion of centuries into status as a world power. He was six years old when the United States frigates under Commodore Perry visited the islands in 1853 and when in 1863 he turned definitely to the sea as a career, the navy was itself only eight years old. At fifteen he was thoroughly grounded in the frugality, fealty and filial piety which constitutes the essentials of the samurai code.

Organized first by the shogunate, the navy was split in the clan wars which accompanied restoration of the empire in 1867. The following year Togo had his baptism of fire, being aboard a squadron which attacked ships under Yenomoto, an officer of the shogun's navy who attempted to set up an independent realm on the island of Yezzo, now Hokkaido. Soon after that fight he was sent to England.

START OF NAVY

Togo returned in 1876 to a nation that was just becoming navy conscious. Two years later the first ironclad was acquired from England. Also in 1878 a 1,900-ton cruiser steamed westward with an all-Japanese crew, the first vessel to display Japan's flag in European waters. The first naval expansion construction programme was undertaken in 1882, when thirty cruisers and twelve torpedo boats were authorized. The first battleships were started in 1892, but were not ready when war broke out with China in 1894, five days after Togo's guns had sunk a Chinese transport.

Togo, now a captain, was commander of the cruiser Naniwa. In the fleet were twenty-seven other cruisers, the largest of 4,300 tons, and two dozen torpedo boats. The Chinese fleet was led by two 8,000-ton ironclads. When the groups met of the mouth of the Yalu River, the Chinese admiral placed his two big ships in the centre, only to see his right wing destroyed by the Japanese cruisers beyond the range of his heavier guns. The other wing scattered and the two battleships steamed back to home waters.

Within the next decade the Japanese navy was expanded and modernized and Togo climbed to the rank of vice-admiral. In command of the main battle fleet he fired the opening shots of the Russo-Japanese war in a night attack by torpedo boats upon Port Arthur. This was on February 8, 1904, two days before Japan's formal declaration of war.

Another Japanese fleet was sent to keep the czar's Vladivostok squadron bottled up. Minor engagements occurred off both ports until August 10, when the Russians sallied from Port Arthur. Togo smashed them, the crippled remnants creeping back to the shelter of the land batteries. Four days later a similar sally from Vladivostok resulted in another Russian defeat.

These results meant there were no more hostile naval threats to Japanese transports bearing soldiers in increasing numbers to the battlefields of Manchuria. In St. Petersburg the Czar and his ministers decided to correct this condition by dispatching its Baltic fleet under Admiral Rojestvensky to the Orient.

The fleet sailed from Libau on October 13, 14 and 15. Its nervous crews fired upon some British fishing boats off the Dogger Banks and nearly caused a war with Great Britain. It sailed past Europe and Africa and when Rojestvensky reached Madagascar he learned that Port Arthur had fallen. Reinforcements were dispatched to him and he was ordered to proceed to Vladivostok. The whole fleet—battleships, cruisers, destroyers, colliers, supply and hospital ships, assembled in Kamranh Bay, Cochin China.

The Russians left Kamranh on May 15, 1905, and disappeared into the Pacific. They had two routes available to Vladivostok, the open sea east of Japan or via the narrow straits between Japan and Korea. They chose the latter, a fact promptly reported by Togo's scouts.

On May 27 the Russians were sighted and Togo ran up his famous signal:

"The fate of the empire depends upon this effort and the men must do their utmost."

It has been compared to Nelson's "England expects every man to do his duty" which ushered in the historic battle of Trafalgar.

The Russians were superior in numbers, but their best ships were handicapped by having to cut speed to the progress of many old and slow units.

All day and throughout the night the battle raged. By dawn of May 28 only five Russian ships were afloat. By noon three of these had been sunk and the other two captured.

Throughout the engagement Togo paced the bridge of his flagship, exposing himself to the heavy Russian fire. Once his staff officers tried to persuade him to enter the conning tower, but he refused. A minute later a square hit toppled the tower into the sea.

London, May 30 (Canadian Press Cable). — A message of deepest sympathy in Japan's irreparable loss by the death of the veteran admiral, Heihachiro Togo, was forwarded to the Japanese minister of marine today by Sir Bolton Eyres-Monsell, First Lord of The Admiralty, on behalf of the British Admiralty and the navy.

Admiral Togo was a visitor in Victoria on his way home from the coronation of King George in 1911. He sailed from here for Japan aboard the old liner Yokohama Maru.
